VOL. XVIII.—NO. 48.

NEWTON, MASS., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1890.

TERMS—$2.00 PER YEAR.

By J. F. C. HYDE and ELLIOTT J. HYDE, Auctioneers,
31 Milk Street, Boston, Rooms 6 and 7.

FOURTH GREAT SALE —OF— HOUSE LOTS —AT— WABAN, NEWTON, MASS.

Will be sold at Public Auction, on the premises at Waban, the young and popular Newton Village, on the Newton Circuit Railroad, on SATURDAY, September 13, at 3.15 o'clock P. M.

100 Choice House Lots

Situated on the high, healthy table-land overlooking the Charles River, and commanding an extensive view for miles. The whole tract has been laid out at a great expense by E. W. Bowditch, and the streets built in the very best manner under his personal supervision. The lots offered at this sale vary in size from 10,000 feet to 20,000 feet, and are situated on Varick road, Agawam road, Carleton road, Waban avenue (180 feet wide), Rokeby road, Pontiac road, Ridge road, Quinebaquin road, Vista road, and other roads now building. They will be sold subject to moderate restrictions, which are imposed on every lot in this desirable village. These lots, situated as they are in a rapidly growing NEWTON, the character of which is already established, with the improvements now going on, among which are a new schoolhouse, store block, etc., with its 34 trains daily to and from Boston, with its handsome residences already built, should command the attention of every person who is desirous of locating himself amidst pleasant surroundings where property is rapidly advancing and where the profit to the buyer must be sure and immediate.

Why go South or West, thousands of miles from home, to invest in lands, when such a grand opportunity as this is offered within 30 minutes' ride of Boston, over the best railroad in New England? The three previous sales proved a great success, and several of the lots bought at the auction have since been sold at a considerable advance, and several houses are already in process of erection.

Policies issued by Massachusetts Title Insurance Company free of charge to purchaser for full amount of sale.

Free Tickets on day of sale to be had of Auctioneers.

TERMS: 10 per cent. down at the time of sale; 40 per cent. more on delivery of deed; balance at 5 per cent. for 1, 2 and 3 years.

For plans, copy of restrictions, further terms and complete facts, call on Auctioneers, 31 Milk street, Boston, or send 2-cent stamp.

N. B.—Every lot put up will be sold to the highest bidder. No by-bidding.

—Mr. W. Walker Blanchard, son of Mr. James A. Blanchard of this city, died very suddenly in Malden on Wednesday, at the age of 21, after a brief illness. He was born in Newton, educated in our Newton schools, and a young man of promise. He leaves a wife to mourn his early death. The funeral services will be held this afternoon at his home in Malden.

—The Magic pocket Lamp is one of the newest of new inventions. As it makes the carrying of matches unnecessary. It is about the size of a pocket match safe and is good for a thousand lights. Those who have tried to light matches in the wind will realize the merits of this invention. Call at Barber Brothers and see one, they are sold for only 75 cents.

—A Newton family were going away for a couple of weeks, this summer, and decided to take their pet cat with them. A comfortable basket was secured and all went well until the train reached Allston, when puss pushed off the cover and jumped from the car. The train started before she could be caught, and she was given up for lost, but a day or two afterwards she appeared at her home, very little the worse for her trip.

—Mr. M. P. Springer has returned from several months in Europe, where he visited the leading clock establishments in London, Paris and other cities, and secured a very handsome assortment of fall and winter wraps for the large Boston house of Springer Brothers, whose retail store at the corner of Bedford and Washington streets, is so well known to Newton people. The foreign importations are expected to arrive and be ready for inspection in about two weeks.

—Mr. R. A. Brackett has returned from Byron, Me., about thirty miles from Farmington, among the mountains, where they are prospecting for gold. They are building a sluice way about a half mile long and beginning operations. He has a sample of Byron gold he panned out along the banks of the river. His little daughter, Louise, went with a party to the top of Bigelow mountain, about two or three miles to the highest peak, the first child there ever went up the mountain. The top is composed of rocky ledges and the scenery from it is very grand.

—There is considerable discussion over the question of a successor to Mr. W. E. Putney as superintendent of streets, and Mr. George E. Stuart, who has been assistant superintendent for a dozen years or so seems to be in the direct line of promotion. He has been faithful and efficient in his duties, and has a thorough understanding of the duties of the office, which it would take a new man some time to learn. According to the civil service theory the position is one of the most important ones in the city, as his work is seen by all who have occasion to use the streets.

SCHOOL BOARD PROCEEDINGS.

RESIGNATION OF MR. DICKINSON—NEW TEACHERS APPOINTED
The school board held its first meeting since the summer vacation in the High school building, Newtonville, Wednesday evening, President Hyde occupying the chair in the absence of the mayor and chairman. Eight members present—Messrs. Parker, Putney, Barnard, Baker, Hale, Drew, Hyde and Mrs. Martin.

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.
The special committee of the board having in charge the matter of a superintendent of schools, through its chairman, Mr. Drew, reported progress. It was announced that a candidate for the position of superintendent would be named at the next meeting, Mr. Emerson having positively declined to serve the board longer in that capacity. Mr. Drew stated that the committee was looking over the field very carefully with a view to securing the right man for the place.

The resignation of Miss Charlotte E. Cameron of the Hyde school and Miss J. Angeline Smith of the Clafin school were read and accepted. These appointments were made: Margaret E. Atkins, first assistant in the Hyde school, at a salary of $700 per annum; Coroline Y. Wentworth, assistant in Williams school, at $620; Emily F. Wheeler, assistant in Clafin school, at $500; Marion E. Marsh and Mary C. Jones, unassigned teachers.

At 8.15, J. H. Bait, treasurer of Ward 4, compensation fixed at the rate of 50 cents per hour for actual service.

MR. BELL'S SUCCESSOR.
It was voted on motion of Dr. Baker to proceed to fill the vacancy in the board caused by the resignation of Mr. A. D. S. Bell. The chair appointed as a committee to receive, sort and count ballots Dr. Putney and Mr. Hale. Mr. Putney in behalf of citizens of Ward 6 presented the name of Mr. A. L. Harwood, formerly head master of the Mason school. The whole number of votes cast was 8, all for Mr. Harwood and that gentleman was declared elected.

The resignation of Mr. J. E. Hollis as chairman of the board, owing to his continued illness, accompanied with a request to be relieved from attendance at meetings of sub-committees, was laid on the table on motion of Mr. Putney.

Leave of absence for one year was granted to Mrs. Mary P. Fanning.

Mr. Drew offered an order providing for the appointment of C. O. Davis as transient officer at Nonantum, the time of his service in that capacity to date from the resignation of Mr. C. Laffie. It occasioned considerable discussion, the secretary of the board stating that the expense for transient in Nonantum had been larger than in any of the other villages, the transient officer having been employed to look up simple cases of tardiness, not required under the transient law and against which I have offered my remonstrance in my official capacity.

The mayor, also, objects to the appointment of patrolmen as transient officers. The order failed of a passage.

NINTH GRADE SKIPPERS.
Mr. Putney offered an order providing for the rescinding of the action taken by the board at its previous meeting, permitting (with the consent of parents) pupils who have completed the studies in the eighth grade to take up the classical course in the High school. In support of the order he said that he believed that the action taken granting this right would be a serious injury to the Grammar schools. It was tried five years ago, said Mr. Putney, and it proved a failure. In its place came the system of double-promotion which had worked satisfactorily and successfully, accomplishing that object desired, the entering of pupils into the High school at an earlier age, where pupils proved themselves able to accomplish the work in the Grammar grade in a shorter time.

Secretary Emerson was called upon for an opinion relative to the subject. He said that the change contemplated in the order passed by the board would double the cost for each pupil and no commensurate advantage would result. It is a plan, he added, that would result in injury to the Grammar schools, as there would be less disposition manifested on the part of pupils to complete the prescribed course. The mid-year or double promotion plan has received the commendation of the parents of the school children and it has resulted in lessening the average age of admission in the classical course, there being a difference in that respect of five months between the classical and the general course. In my opinion, the mid-year promotion plan will do more in the direction of securing an early entrance of pupils into the High school than can possibly be accomplished by the order passed by the board and now under discussion.

Dr. Baker—The other may be premature, but on the other hand, it would be unwise to rescind it without giving the subject careful consideration. We have only a bare quorum here tonight and we should not attempt to settle the question without full discussion.

Mr. Drew offered an amendment, providing for the reconsideration of the order and laying it on the table to be brought up for further discussion at the next meeting. The amendment was accepted by Mr. Putney and the order disposed of in accordance with Mr. Drew's suggestion.

MR. DICKINSON'S RESIGNATION.
Mr. Putney read a communication from Mr. J. W. Dickinson in which that gentleman resigned as a member of the board owing to his increased duties in connection with his services as secretary of the state board of education. The resignation was received and placed on file.

WANT TWO MASTERS.
Dr. Baker moved a reconsideration of the order which provided for the employment of a first assistant teacher in the Adams school, taking the place of Mr. W. A. Spinney, transferred to the Mason school, Newton Centre. Dr. Baker said that it would not be for the permanent interests of the school to deprive its pupils of the services of a master. It would soon be necessary to appoint additional masters in three or more wards as the school interests would demand it, owing to the rapid increase in population.

Mr. Martin said that the parents who sent their children to the Adams school would feel deeply wronged if the services of a male teacher were denied them. The school had enjoyed the teaching of a master for 17 years and the educational interests seemed to demand the continued service of a male teacher. The accommodations in the new school building will not prevent overcrowding in a few years when it will become necessary to reestablish the Adams school as formerly. The saving in salary will be only a temporary arrangement and citizens feel so strongly about it that they intend a willingness to contribute toward a salary fund to help the city in its efforts for economy.

Secretary Emerson presented the following statistics at the request of members of the board. Pupils under one head master's training: At West Newton, 707; at Newton, 575; at Newton Centre, 539; at Newtonville under the old arrangement with two masters the total number of pupils was 514.

Mr. Drew—I cannot see why there should be two masters appointed in Newtonville, especially as the argument was used with the city council that the services of one would only be required when the new Clafin building was completed.

Mr. Barnard—I think that Newtonville ought to fall in line with the other villages. The $1200 paid out for an additional master is worth saving—it represents the interest on $80,000. Besides the economic features, I can see no reason why the pupils of the ninth grade cannot be brought under the teaching of the master, as suitable accommodations have been provided in the new building. I think that the action taken by the board in this matter was right and ought to stand.

Dr. Baker—I think the question should be discussed before the full board, owing to the deep-seated dissatisfaction among residents caused by the proposed new arrangement.

It was voted finally, on motion of Mr. Drew, to lay the further discussion of the matter over until the next meeting of the board, to be brought up under unfinished business.

MR. DICKINSON'S RETIREMENT.
Resolutions offered by Mr. Putney, expressing the board's appreciation of the services of Mr. John W. Dickinson in behalf of the educational interests of the Newton schools, were unanimously passed by a rising vote.

The High school committee was authorized to procure the services of an assistant teacher until other arrangements were made by the board.

A Card From Mr. Cunniff.
Watertown, Aug. 30th, 1890.
To the Editor of the GRAPHIC.

DEAR SIR:—In your issue of last week there is an article taken from the Boston Advertiser, relating to the annihilation of this side of the river to Newton, and which contains two important errors which you will please allow me to correct through the columns of your valuable paper. Mr. Oliver Shaw was not implicated in the matter in any way whatever; it was Mr. Charles Brigham who was chairman of the selectmen at the time. Neither was the town clerk connected with it; it was the town counsel Mr. John B. Goodrich of Newton, who advised that a check be given a certain member of the legislature, to secure his vote if necessary.

Mr. Goodrich has inspired a sensational penny-whistle of Boston to abuse me in this matter. It would have been much better for him to deny the facts in the case if he can, which I challenge him to do. Abuse is not argument. My credit and integrity as a man is as good in Watertown, where I have lived for nearly 16 years as is that of Mr. Goodrich in Newton.

Very respectfully,
M. J. CUNNIFF.

Pomroy Home Fair.
The girls of the Pomroy home and their friends desire to hold a fair this fall for the purpose of assisting in raising funds for the support of their home. They have been busy through the vacation in making articles for a sale and it is thought desirable by friends to give them all encouragement possible in their laudable enterprise. To this end we invite the ladies and especially the young people of Newton to contribute articles for this sale. Here is an opportunity for the "Kings Daughters," members of the "Christian Endeavor," Young Ladies Guilds, Ministering children, and all societies organized for charitable work, to lend a hand in making this notable fair like those which have been held in the past. For particulars inquire at the "Home" on Hovey St. or of the lady directors, Mrs. J. Sturgis Potter, Mrs. Henry M. Bates, Mrs. Henry C. Hardou and Mrs. Charles C. Bragdon. 34

BEAUTIFUL FLORAL TRIBUTES.

FUNERAL OF W. E. FULLER, LATE STREET SUPERINTENDENT AT NEWTON.

The funeral of William E. Fuller, late superintendent of streets, took place from the Universalist church, Washington Park, Newtonville, Sunday afternoon. Prior to the services in the church prayer was offered at the residence of the deceased on North street and the remains were then taken to the church, a delegation of 100 members of Newton lodge 92, I. O. O. F., forming an escort, Mr. W. E. Glover acting as marshal. The services in the church commenced at 2 o'clock, and at that hour the auditorium was completely filled. The attendance was so large that many were obliged to remain outside of the building during the services. Every department of the city was represented, nearly every member of the city government being present. The highway department was represented by the members of the highway committee of the city council and a delegation of employees of the highway department, numbering 180 men. Local branch 395, Order of the Iron Hall, was represented by 25 of its members, and a delegation was also present representing the Newton Veteran Firemen's Association. The exercises consisted of scripture selections, prayer and remarks by the pastor of the church, Rev. R. A. White, and the rendition of numbers by a male quartet representing Newton lodge, I. O. O. F.—Messrs. A. Wand, C. B. Ashenden, W. T. Rice and W. H. Rand. The selections given were: "I Cannot Always Trace the Way," "Rock of Ages," and "Gathering Home." Rev. Mr. White, in his remarks, alluded to the faithful services of the deceased in his official capacity, his purity and sincerity of character and the respect in which he was held by all men. The lessons of his life, he said, were full of noble examples, and the memory of the man would be treasured by a large number of people in the community, where he was so well known and so generally esteemed.

The floral tributes were of great variety and beauty. Newton lodge, I. O. O. F., sent a wreath of lilies and ferns, bearing three links worked in immortelles. The local branch of the Iron Hall sent a beautiful floral pillow. The employees of the highway department in Wards 5 and 6 sent a floral pick and shovel and a floral tablet; the Wards 1, 2 and 7 highway employees sent a pillow composed of asters, roses and maidenhair fern and a beautiful floral center; the Wards 3 and 4 highway employees, a floral design, "The Gates Ajar." The city of Newton sent a floral anchor; the City Hall officials a large bank of ivy, bearing clusters of roses; the highway committee of the city council a floral horseshoe mounted on a floral stand; the city engineer's department a pillow of roses; the Newton Firemen's Association a basket of roses. A member of other floral tributes were sent by relatives and friends.

At the conclusion of the services the remains were taken to the Newton cemetery, where interment was made. The escort from the church to the cemetery consisted of delegations of Newton lodge, I. O. O. F., the local branch of the Order of Iron Hall, and the employees of the highway department. The ball bearers were Alderman Harbach and Councilman Luke, representing the highway committee of the city council; Messrs. Seth K. Harwood and E. T. Wiswall, representing Newton lodge, I. O. O. F.; Messrs. S. N. Waters and H. N. Hyde, Jr., representing local branch 395 Order of Iron Hall; and Messrs. Rodney Lucas and F. A. Barrows, representing the Newton Veteran Firemen's Association. The Odd Fellows commitment service was read at the grave.

The ushers at the church were Messrs. A. T. Sylvester, John C. Brimblecom and Theodore A. Fleu. Among city officials present and present at the services were: Ex-Mayor Hyde, ex-Alderman James H. Nickerson, Aldermen Pettie, Coffin, Harbach and Fenno, Councilmen Luke, Richardson, Hall and Churchill; J. A. Kenrick, city treasurer; Mr. B. F. Otis, city auditor; Col. Kingsbury, city clerk; A. F. Noyes, city engineer; J. C. Whitney, water registrar; Henry L. Bixby, chief of fire department; City Marshal Richardson; H. N. Hyde, superintendent water works; G. A. Miner, assessor's department; W. H. French, agent board of health.

Field Day to Newport, R. I.

Tuesday morning was somewhat cloudy, but "Old Prob." promised a fair day, and at half past eight the Newton Natural History Society accompanied by friends, left Boston from the Old Colony depot in a special car, for the city by the sea where cottage palaces abound and the wealth and fashion of the grandest nation of modern times yearly assemblies and exhibits to each other and the admiring crowds their rich attire and elegant turnouts.

Through pleasant villages and verdure clad fields the train rapidly bore away the forty or fifty pilgrims to Fall River and thence onward by the wide, beautiful river to the sea-girt fair Newport. A little past eleven the city was reached and the party, leaving the cars, took barge and carriage for the ten mile ocean drive. Through Thames street almost blocked by cart and carriage, private and public, we zigzagged our way till the crush was passed and then turning sharply to the right we bowed along on the fine hard street, by the outlying border of Fort Adams, and soon were on the shore with lovely pictures on every side near and far away.

Exclamations of delight and pleasure greeted each turn in the streets as beautiful scenes unfolded to our view. And thus the ocean drive was taken and nature's bright, charming nooks and meted-out rocks and far away islands were seen and enjoyed, till Bellevue avenue was reached. Here the scene changed from nature, and the works of man appeared in elegant and commodious homes, broad and well kept lawns shaded with trees and shrubs, and made doubly beautiful with banks and beds of rare, bright blooming flowers. The cottages of Vanderbilts and Astors, of Westmore and Belmont, of Morton and Bennett, and scores of others, were seen and admired, and the breaking of the commandment "Thou shalt not covet" was as frequent and irresistible as our breathing. However, we passed through the trying ordeal without any overt act of possession-ward, and by the comfortable appearing Ocean House to Tenor Park, where we left our barges and commenced our tramp. First the Perry monument and the Old Stone Mill attract our attention. The latter, for many years, has been an object of dispute, some contending that it was built by the Northmen eight hundred or a thousand years ago; others that it was built to be crowned with a wind mill by some early white settlers, for the grinding of their corn and wheat. Evidently the latter is the true solution and the Old Stone Mill numbers less than three hundred years since its erection.

On the opposite side of the little square is the Channing Memorial church, beautiful inside and out, to which we were fortunate enough to obtain entrance. The Redwood Library was seen on the outside, being closed that day; the Jewish synagogue and Jewish cemetery were next looked at and then on foot, in barge or electric car the party went to Baileys and bathing beaches and the cliff walk, the most beautiful four miles walk in Newport, and then after other sightseeing, including the Casino, all gathered at the depot to take their special car and homeward roll away. I say all, but I am wrong, for six of the party were so enamored with the place that they must perform remain a longer time. And fortunate was their stay, for the cloud gathering in the evening resulted in a storm of rain and wind, that gave in the morning grand and beautiful breakers on beach and rock bound cliff. The rest of the pilgrims tired, weary but happy and delighted with their day's outing declared this Field Day a splendid success, and they are now looking forward to another year for a longer Field Day there.

They Are Liable!

The doctors are all liable to be mistaken. They were in my case. It cost me $200.00, because they said I had the Heart disease, and then told me I must die. Grandmother said it was Liver complaint, and $2.00 worth of Sulphur Bitters cured me.—Jennie Poor, Rockport, Mass.

The usual treatment of catarrh is very unsatisfactory, as thousands of despairing patients can testify. A trustworthy medical writer says: "Proper local treatment is positively necessary to success, but most of the remedies in general use by physicians afford but temporary benefit. A cure cannot be expected from snuffs, powders, douches and washes." Ely's Cream Balm is a remedy which combines the important requisites of quick action, specific curative power with perfect safety and pleasantness to the patient.

"Five years ago I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and had been given up by my physicians. I began to take Ely's Cherry Pectoral, and after using two bottles of this medicine, was completely cured."—Anga A. Lewis, Ricard, N. Y.

After diphtheria, scarlet fever, pneumonia, or any other severe illness, there is no better tonic than Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Behold in this bottle to good health. A boon to all mankind, more precious than wealth. With this for your friend, you need harbor no fear. For lurking diseases will soon disappear. The young and the old feel its magical power. And fly to its refuge in sickness, dark hour. And cheeks that are faded with illness and pain. This wonderful medicine can brighten again. All ills of mankind can this conquer. For it restores the vigor of the system, and health in their place shall hold sway. Each foe must surrender, each enemy fall. Hood's Sarsaparilla is king of them all.

Mr. Blaine has pleased his friends and disconcerted the enemies by breaking the unaccounted silence in which he has shrouded himself since he joined the cabinet of Mr. Harrison, and has expressed vigorous views on almost every matter of current interest. Yet there is one question he has let strangely alone. He has not told us who is the genuine cause of the controversy, nor the necessity of an immediate settlement. And, moreover, it is a controversy which Mr. Blaine is eminently fitted to decide. It will call into play all that diplomatic finesse and subtlety, all the statesmanship, the enlarged views and the knowledge of human nature in its highest stage of mental and moral development that have so justly endeared the Secretary of State to his admiring countrymen.—The Illustrated American.

A Butte City (Mont.) miner drank so much one night that his long luxuriant beard was saturated with whiskey. In trying to light the gas at the hotel he set the inflammable beard afire. With a wild howl the man from Butte rushed into the hall. "For God's sake! put me out," cried he, clawing madly at the flames. A very large and dusty door-mat was finally put over his head and the beautiful blue flames subdued. But the luxuriant beard was gone.

Address Secretary of the Tariff Reform Club, Newton Centre, Mass.

Australian and South American Trade.

Receiving a request from Messrs. Coombs, Crosby & Eddy, export merchants of New York, for our catalogue and prices for this trade, caused me, though ignorant of their tariff views, to write them that under our present burdensome taxation, and the prospect of passing the outrageous bill, now pending, made it useless for us to attempt to obtain much of this valuable market. As we can only ship to these ports in a small way, we should be glad to comply with their request, and could safely compete for that trade, if they could persuade Congress to release the heavy tax placed on the raw materials which enter so largely into our goods.

We are now improving upon a grate for our home market, purchased of Steele & Garland, London, which the salesman told the writer their firm sent in large quantities to Australia. If the 70 per cent. tax were removed from pig-iron, or if the same conditions existed to-day as before the war, viz., 24 per cent. ad valorem, and for which ex-Gov. Ames and some 600 other manufacturers of New England petitioned, we could send these goods to Australia and South America in competition with Steele & Garland, and give them a better article. To prove that I am correct in this, let me repeat what a large manufacturer in the South told me recently, that they sent some $40,000 of their wares to Australia last season, were still shipping, and also selling in large quantities to Steele & Garland. Why? Because they get coal at their door for $1.50 per ton and iron equally cheap, and yet with the advantage in their favor they require a protection that they may supply New England, thereby killing her manufacturers, driving away her workmen, and consequently injuring all trades.

Mr. Coombs' following reply is in accord with the statement recently printed in the GRAPHIC of Mr. Buckle, large export merchant of Birmingham, England, i.e., "with free raw materials I am convinced that America would supply the world and take from us the markets we to-day hold, therefore I should immediately commence to shape my plans upon such a change of policy by your government, and arrange for establishing my house in London for the marketing of American products." S. S.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20, 1890. The Murdoch Parlor Grate Co., 18 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass. Gentlemen—Your esteemed favor of 18th is received. We agree with you heartily in all that you say with reference to the modification of our tariff laws, particularly in the matter of raw materials. The writer was candidate for Congress in the 3d District of this State, especially representing that issue.

We are glad to see a growing sentiment among the manufacturers favorable to that view. Our experience as export merchants leads us to believe, in fact we know, that we can even under the present unfavorable conditions export nearly all classes of American goods, (except woollens) in competition with the markets of the old world. What could we not do with free raw materials?

The question of the comparative cost of labor is settled, for experience teaches us that we compete best in articles in which the labor forms the largest percentage of cost, and to the least advantage, where raw materials are the largest item. This seems strange but it is nevertheless true, and is accounted for by our superior methods and the use of labor saving appliances. Our advantage in these is so large that it is the majority of cases overcomes our disadvantage in the matter of raw material.

While these protective laws were doubtless advantageous in the early stage of our industries, and seemed to give them a footing or enable them to take root, everyone who is acquainted with the actual situation will admit that in our present state of development they are a hindrance and annoyance.

The attempt of a great nation like ours to legislate in the matter of international enterprises leads to endless complications and annoyances, and impedes necessary legislation in other matters.

Little, however, can be accomplished in the way of needed reform until the manufacturers realize that their interests lie in that direction, and until they have sufficient confidence in their ability to stand alone without governmental interference in competition with the world.

We know that they can compete with the world, and that it only requires a little more confidence on their part to enable them to take their share of the trade of the millions of the world instead of confining it to the sixty millions of this country.

The writer has for 25 years been engaged exclusively in introducing American manufactured goods into foreign markets, has watched every stage of the development of our industries, and has unbounded faith in our ability to take the lead of the world in supplying manufactured goods.

We remain very sincerely,

WILLIAM J. COOMBS.

Coombs, Crosby & Eddy.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.

THE FORUM.

The Forum for September will contain a political essay on Money Interests in Political Affairs, by E. L. Godkin, editor New York Evening Post, in which Mr. Godkin traces to the growth of protection the enormous and alarming influence of money in politics, which he regards as the most important political fact of our time. In the same number Senator John T. Morgan, of Alabama, replies to Senator Chandler's recent article on The Federal Control of Elections. Other articles in this number will be The Training of the Teachers, by President G. Stanley Hall, of Clark University; The Christianity of the Future, by Professor John S. Blackie, of Edinburgh, Scotland; The Latest Astronomical News, by Professor Charles A. Young, of Princeton; Protection Against Tornadoes, by Lieut. John P. Finley; as well as articles by Simon Sterne, Edward Everett Hale, James E. Murdoch, M. J. Savage and Alice E. Ives.

THE CENTURY.

The fifth article in the interesting series on the "Women of the French Nation" has the first place in the Century for September. It is accompanied by a number of portraits, of which the most fascinating is that of the Princess de Conti, which serves as frontispiece. An elaborately illustrated article on the Yosemite National Park follows, in which Mr. John Muir describes with enthusiasm the charms of the magnificent scenery of that region. "Our New Naval Guns" is the subject of a paper by Commander Goodrich, U. S. N. In a different vein is Mrs. Van Rensselaer's article on Wells Cathedral, and Mr. R. E. Robinson's sketch of life "In the Marble Hills." An important bit of American history is given in the account of "How California Came into the Union"; and Mr. John La Farge's "Artist's Letters from Japan" have all the picturesque which is inseparable from anything relating to that country. All these articles are excellently illustrated; in the matter of cuts, indeed, the Century retains its primacy among magazines. That clever story, "The Anglomaniacs," comes to an end, and there is another instalment of Mrs. Barr's "Friend Oliver." Mr. Jefferson's "Autobiography" is particularly pleasant reading this month; what he has to say of William Warren will appeal to all Bostonians with especial force. There are stories, poems, and the usual departments—all helping to make up a brilliant number of an always admirable periodical.

For Your Moulting Hens.

The time when hens shed their feathers is again at hand. It is a very exhausting process. Are you preparing to help them through this trying period? Eggs have not been so high for years at this season as now; they will be still higher. Hens rarely ever lay while moulting, then help them to get their new plumage quickly.

Many people get only five to six dozen eggs in a year from a hen and lose money when they ought to get three times that many and make money rapidly. How? There are about 600 eggs in the ovaries of a hen; get all you can of them in two years and keep the hen no longer. You thus save two or three years feed of the hen which is no small item if you buy all the food. When a hen is in "condition" says a high poultry authority "she will lay plenty of eggs." Therefore help her through the moulting season, that she may be in condition to lay early, as everything is pointing to higher prices for eggs this fall and winter than ever before. The elements needed by a hen at moulting, in addition to good food is contained in Sheridan's Condition Powder to a very high degree. Thousands of people have proven it to be worth its weight in gold when hens are moulting. It keeps them in health, helps form the new plumage, and gets them in condition to lay early. A hen will not lay while moulting. But if you give them during the moulting Sheridan's Condition Powder daily in extra doses, they will get to laying much sooner and lay all winter; larger, better, and more vigorous eggs for hatching, than pullets. But don't keep them a third year; get all the eggs in two. Remember Sheridan's Powder is not an egg-food; you can raise or make food as cheaply as anyone. To any person interested, I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., on receipt of address and stamp for reply will send a recipe for making a good egg-food. Any person buying and using Sheridan's Condition Powder now, will get their hens in good laying condition and stand a good chance to win one of the large gold premiums to be offered later by the same firm; who are the only makers of Sheridan's Condition Powder. For 50 cents they will send you 25 cent packs, five packs for $1.00; or for $1.20 one large 2.4 pound can of Powder, postpaid; six cans for $5.00 express prepaid. A copy of the best poultry magazine published, sent free. The paper one year and a large can of Powder for $1.50.

Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Mr. S. A. Ranlett sends the following letter endorsing Col. Olin to the Boston Journal:

No name that has been mentioned for Secretary of State will arouse such enthusiasm as that of Col. Wm. M. Olin. As one who knows his war record from long service in the same regiment, the writer feels qualified and happy to speak a good word for his candidacy.

Though the Colonel did not get his eagle during the war, he fairly won it there, carrying a musket three years in a fighting regiment. He was one of the youngest in the regiment, but always on the front, never on "detached service" at Ashfield, a little town in Franklin county, nine miles from the nearest railway. While Mr. Curtis has won distinction in his chosen field, the simple country people are disposed to smile at his lack of wisdom in some everyday affairs. He never drives a horse unless forced by circumstances to do so. One day, when compelled by necessity to drive for a few miles, the horse went up to a watering trough, but the check rein would not allow him to drink. Mr. Curtis, as the story runs, unfettered the crupper, and wondered why it was that the animal could not then get his nose to the water.

In the August number of the Forum Senator Chandler, of New Hampshire, wrote an argument in favor of a law for the national control of elections, directing his attention chiefly to political affairs in the Southern States. In the September number of the Forum Senator Morgan, of Alabama, replies to Senator Chandler. After pointing out what he conceives to be the revolutionary character of the proposed law, Senator Morgan presents a great mass of facts and opinions to prove that the federal control of elections is not desired in any section of the country by the masses of the people. He defends the merchants and manufacturers of the border States against the accusation of Senator Chandler that their trade relations with the South have made them cowardly. But Senator Chandler should not be taken too seriously, he looks upon the matter from the standpoint of the politician only, and such higher motives as the good of the country or the welfare of the people are not thought to be by him of sufficient importance to be worth considering. Outside of the politicians Senator Chandler's views are not held in much esteem.

George William Curtis, the famous orator, editor and mugwump, has spent his summers for the past ten years at Ashfield, a little town in Franklin county, nine miles from the nearest railway. While Mr. Curtis has won distinction in his chosen field, the simple country people are disposed to smile at his lack of wisdom in some everyday affairs. He never drives a horse unless forced by circumstances to do so. One day, when compelled by necessity to drive for a few miles, the horse went up to a watering trough, but the check rein would not allow him to drink. Mr. Curtis, as the story runs, unfettered the crupper, and wondered why it was that the animal could not then get his nose to the water.

Sick Headache

Is a complaint from which many suffer and few are entirely free. Its cause is indigestion and a sluggish liver, the cure for which is readily found in the use of Ayer's Pills.

"I have found that for sick headache, caused by a disordered condition of the stomach, Ayer's Pills are the most reliable remedy."—Samuel C. Bradburn, Worthington, Mass.

"After the use of Ayer's Pills for many years, in my practice and family, I am justified in saying that they are an excellent cathartic and liver medicine, sustaining all the claims made for them."—W. A. Westfall, M. D., V. P. Austin & N. W. Railway Co., Burnet, Texas.

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all disorders arising from a disordered stomach and liver. I suffered for over three years from headache, indigestion, and constipation. I had no appetite and was weak and nervous. Most of the time. By using three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured."—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kansas.

"I was troubled for years with indigestion, constipation, and headache. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, used in small daily doses, restored me to health. They are prompt and effective."—W. H. Strout, Meadville, Pa.

AI Cure for Constipation and Sick-Head.

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50 cents a package.

The Great Benefit. Which people in run down state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength, but Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up in a perfectly natural way all the weakened parts, purifies the blood, and assists to healthy action those important organs, the kidneys and liver.

Cure Yourself. Don't pay large doctor's bills. The best medical book published, one hundred pages, elegant colored plates, will be sent you on receipt of three 2-cent stamps to pay the postage. Address A. P. Ordway & Co., Boston, Mass.

Boston, Aug. 26, 1889. Dr. Solomon has cured a cancer on my lip of seventeen years standing, it was cut out twice by what they call eminent surgeons at intervals of six years, after being cut out each time I knew by the feeling it was still there, and it would be now if I had not been so fortunate as to have Dr. Solomon treat it, he did it without any cutting. I would urge those afflicted with cancer not to delay but to go at once and be cured permanently as I have done. My dear Doctor I thank from the bottom of my heart, JOHN HALLAHAN, 78 Charlestown Street.

Syrup of Figs. Produced from the laxative and nutritious juice of California figs, combined with the medicinal virtues of plants known to be most beneficial to the human system, acts gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels, effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds and headaches, and curing habitual constipation.

"It goes right to the spot," said an old gentleman, who found great benefit in Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He was right. Derangements of the stomach, liver, and kidneys are more speedily remedied by this medicine than by any other. It reaches the trouble directly.

THE NEWTON GRAPHIC HAS BEEN CONSOLIDATED WITH THE GRAPHIC

WALWORTH VS GILMAN.

The senatorial question was further enlivened last week by the debate of Representative Gilman as a candidate, the Newton Journal coming out with a broadside in his favor, although the previous week it came out for Mr. Walworth. It is said that a quiet campaign has been conducted for some weeks for Mr. Gilman, and that his friends have secured pledges from Republicans in all parts of the city, so that they are confidently expecting to secure a majority of the delegates at to-morrow night's caucus. He has some of Newton's most active political workers in his favor, and the contest ought to call out a large attendance at the caucuses.

The Journal would have made out a stronger case in his favor, if it could have persuaded the writer or writers of the half dozen letters in last week's paper to sign their names, as an unsigned letter justly has very little weight with the public. Some cynical people say that the letters were all written by one man, but this is hardly fair.

The Republican voters have a chance to choose between the two candidates, and the friends of each will probably work hard to secure a large attendance at the caucuses. Both of the candidates are well known. Mr. Walworth having the advantage of representing an old Newton family, and his long residence here, his excellent work while a member of the house, making him in an especial sense a representative of Newton. Each has served two years in the house, and their record while there is known to the people.

Mr. Walworth made no mistake during his two years, while many people think that Mr. Gilman made a grave mistake when he voted for the free gift of so many millions to the Boston & Albany, on which all the patrons of the road will be taxed for all time to pay the 8 per cent interest. The matter raised such a storm of disapprobation that last year an effort was made to pass a bill requiring all railroad stock hereafter to be sold at auction, which was like trying to lock the stable door after not only the horse, but the whole inside of the stable was stolen, as far as the patrons of the Boston & Albany are concerned.

The Journal stated that the Boston & Albany and liquor dealers would oppose Mr. Gilman, but the Boston & Albany would be very ungrateful to do such a thing and probably if it entered into the fight at all would make an even stronger opposition to Mr. Walworth. The same thing could be said of the liquor dealers, as Mr. Walworth is in all places and at all times a consistent temperance man.

But history never repeats itself and the public interests are threatened in a different way every year. Two years ago it was the Boston & Albany bill, last year it was the street railway measure, next year it might be the Telephone monopoly, which has acquired such a prominence that it maintains legal counsel to look after its interests before the state and local legislatures. No one can tell from what direction the danger will come and for this reason the senators should be chosen with especial care, and men nominated whose judgment can always be relied upon. The experience of the last two or three years shows that it is a solemn duty to send only the best available men to the legislature, and Mr. Walworth, from his liberal education, his extensive information on all subjects, his intimate acquaintance with local and state matters, having always lived in the state seems to us the strongest man Newton can send.

He will owe his nomination to the representatives of no corporate interests, his business is such that no part of it will come up for legislation, and he will be able to take a perfectly disinterested view of all matters that come before the senate. He could look at all measures from the standpoint of the general public. He was the choice of the majority of the Newton people two years ago, and it was a great injustice that he did not receive the nomination then, as he had fairly earned the honor by his course in the house. It is not too late to repair the injustice now, and we are informed can good authority that he would be acceptable to the rest of the district, and that if his name is presented his nomination would be certain. As the rest of the district has a habit of combining against Newton when they have the slightest excuse, this fact ought to weigh heavily in Mr. Walworth's favor. Newton does not control the convention and it would be rather mortifying to be beaten again this year.

If the wishes of the leading Republicans of Newton should have weight, it might be said that Mr. Walworth is the choice of such men as Hon. Levi C.

Wade, ex-Governor Claflin, Hon. Alden Speare, Mr. Dwight Chester, Mr. C. Bowditch Coffin and a great number of others who might be named, and whose opinions ought to have weight in Newton politics.

ATTEND THE CAUCUSES.

Both parties have called their caucuses, and it remains for the voters to see that they are well attended, and that the best nominations are made. The Republican caucuses come first, to-morrow evening, and it is much to be regretted that the ward and city committee could not have arranged for them to be held under the Australian system. That would have given the voters a chance to express their preferences, and have prevented the carrying through of any previously arranged "slates."

The only alternative left is for the voters in each ward to demand the marking list, and refuse to endorse any cut and dried system of printed ballots, gotten up by caucus managers. Fortunately in most of the wards there is usually no occasion for criticism, the marking list being always used and every voter being given a fair chance.

The caucuses are the foundation of our political system, and furnish almost the only chance for the individual voter to have anything to say about the man for whom he shall vote. If the voter neglects his duty he should not complain if it is taken care of by one or two more conscientious men, who select the candidates, bring out their friends, and see that things are attended to. So general is the neglect of caucus duties, that even in a ward of three hundred or four hundred Republican voters, it is always an easy matter for one or two to control things if they wish to take the trouble.

Even in Newton, it is something unusual for more than twenty voters to go to a caucus, and most of these are called out by their interest in some particular candidate, and after his case is attended to, the other proceedings are usually purely formal, and any one who wants anything can have it, as far as his ward is concerned.

The Australian system, by providing that the polls should be kept open for several hours at a convenient portion of the day, is expected to remedy this in a measure, and here in Newton, for instance, most of the voters would be called out to go to the polling place when they came out from Boston, and record their preferences, when they would not take the trouble of coming to an evening caucus.

This is true of the Republican caucuses, and whether it will be true of the Democratic ones remains to be seen. For the first time, they have this year called ward caucuses, and evidently their hope is that their members have increased to such an extent as to warrant this action. There is some curiosity as to whether Democrats are any more attentive to their political duties than Republicans, and the size of their caucuses will be watched with interest.

The purity of our whole political system depends upon the caucuses, and upon the attendance of the voters whether the politicians or the people will rule this country. The people are supposed to be interested only in having good government, and if they are sufficiently interested in the matter they can always secure it. If good nominations are desired, it is only necessary to attend the caucuses and see that the wishes of the people are carried out. If the disinterested voters would attend to their duties there would be no occasion for all this talk about the decline of public virtue, and the great moral difference between the public officials of fifty years ago and those of to-day.

SECRETARY OF STATE.

The withdrawal of Henry B. Peirce as a candidate for renomination as Secretary of the Commonwealth, leaves the field open for honorable competition by the friends of new candidates.

The names of persons qualified for the office, which have received public mention, are Willard Howland, Esq., a member of the general court from Chelsea and William M. Olin of Boston.

Mr. Howland is a son of a Union Veteran and but for his age would probably have been in the ranks himself.

Col. Olin saw three years service in the 36th Mass. Vols., being distinguished for gallantry at the siege of Knoxville, Tenn., where Gen. Burnside held the place against Gen. Longstreet. His title as Colonel was given him as a member of the staff of Gov. Talbot, with whom and with Gov. Long he was private secretary, giving him ample opportunity to become familiar with every branch of the business of the state. Subsequently he was called to Washington and became clerk of the Senate committee on Indian affairs.

He has an extensive acquaintance in the Volunteer Militia from his connection for a number of years with the 1st Brigade on the staff of Gen. Nat. Wales as Assistant Adjutant General.

In every position his ability has been manifest, and his character and genial manners have made him most agreeable. His personal friends are enthusiastic in his support, properly relying on his abilities and character, which alone should everywhere inspire confidence, and upon his record as a soldier and public servant in civil life, which leave nothing further to be desired in the candidate for the office in question.

LOOKS AFTER HIS CONSTITUENTS.

One instance of Mr. Walworth's prompt attention to the interest of his constituents may be cited as an example.

On May 2, 1888, Mrs. W. H. Estey, a lady well known and highly esteemed was instantly killed at the Newtonville crossing, having become confused by several passing trains and there being no adequate barrier at that point. This accident, which seemed entirely avoidable, created a most painful sensation throughout the city. The very next forenoon

Mr. Walworth introduced a bill in the house, for which at this late stage in the session he obtained unanimous consent, providing proper legislation for such crossings as this, where it was impracticable to alter the grade. This bill went to the senate where its author could not follow it, and where it was promptly killed by the opposition of the chairman of the railroad committee. Of this affair the Newton Journal said, in its issue of May 4, "Representative Walworth is entitled to the thanks of the whole city for the promptitude with which he brought before the Legislature the matter of better protection at our railroad crossings. He needs to be supported in an effort to induce the railroad authorities to do something."

A list of the tax payers of Newton who contribute over $200 to Treasurer Kenrick will be found on page six. There are quite a number of citizens who pay over $2,000, and Mr. Thomas Nickerson pays the largest amount, $5,047, the Farlow estate second with over $3,000. Many tax payers are represented in all the wards, so that the amount they pay in any one does not represent their whole tax. Wards Six and Seven have the largest number of those who are taxed for over $200.

The Watertown Enterprise says that both of the Newton papers are unanimous in favor of Mr. A. C. Walworth for Senator. The Enterprise had evidently forgotten the Journal's agility in getting down on both sides of the fence at once. Week before last it was for Mr. Walworth, last week it was equally ardent in support of Mr. Gilman, and this week, if it follows its usual custom, it will be for both. It should remember the fate of the old man, the boy and the donkey in the fable.

Mr. M. J. CUNIFF, who has achieved fame in connection with the revelations of the way the Morse Field annexationists were defeated, has a card in another column, in which he corrects some mistakes in the Advertiser report, published last week. His letter is interesting reading for Newton people.

The Waltham Free Press says: "It is reported that John T. Prince is likely to be elected superintendent of schools in Newton. Newton will find Mr. Prince an excellent man. He did well for Waltham and his resignation was regretfully accepted."

The River and Harbor bill is of some interest to Newton, as it contains an appropriation of $20,000 for the dredging of Charles river, by which both Newton and Watertown may become flourishing seaports.

House Lots at Waban.

There will be another great sale of House Lots at Waban, Saturday Sept. 13th, at 3.15 p. m. when 100 choice lots will be put up by Messrs. James F. C. and Elliott J. Hyde. So many of the lots on this tract were sold last spring that its future is assured, and a number of houses are already being erected.—See advertisement for full particulars.

—The Universalist parish has given during the summer months, an outing of from ten days to two weeks each to thirty deserving children. $150 in cash was voluntarily contributed by individuals towards this good work. Several families of the parish took children into their own homes.

—Guilford's throw to the home plate on Labor Day lifted the scalp of a Watertown red man and set the plumes of the Norumbega warriors in exultant commotion. That day on first-base proved invincible and scooped in everything that came his way. The crowd was with his play and dubbed him the "Brouters" of the Newtonville ball tossers.

—Captain F. G. Elliot and his son Bernard are at Machias, Maine, enjoying a very pleasant outing in company with a fellow sea-captain, and it is supposed that many a jolly sea-yarn will be spent in relating individual adventures upon the ocean blue of storm and calm, shipwreck, life on the African coast, and in many another port.

paralysis, but rallied under devoted care; at the last, paralysis of the throat made life useless, and full of honor and virtue, he departed to the feline heaven. They made him a grave too cold and damp for a heart so warm and true. And all night long by the fire lamp they heard his "mew, mew, mew."

—At St. Andrew's church, St. Johnsbury, Vt., Tuesday morning Sept. 2, at 11:30 a. m. Mr. Albert E. Leach of Newtonville, and Miss Martha H. Thompson were united in marriage by the Rev. F. D. Buckley. Dr. Charles P. Worcester of Newtonville assisted as best man, and Miss Maud L. Thompson, sister of the bride, as maid of honor. The ushers were Mr. Edward A. Richardson of Newtonville, Frank H. Underwood of Alliston, and John H. and Joseph A. Thompson, brothers of the bride. After the ceremony a reception at the house of the bride's parents was attended by the immediate friends of the bride and groom, and at 2:30 the bridal party left for Concord, N. H. After taking a short trip, Mr. and Mrs. Leach will reside in their new home, Fairbanks avenue, Newtonville, where friends may find them Thursdays after Nov. 1.

—Rev. Henry Blanchard of Portland, Me., occupied the Universalist pulpit on Sunday morning, preaching from the text, "We are co-workers together with God," taking as his topic "Helping our heavenly Father," and showing in the physical, moral and intellectual world the union of forces, and admonishing his hearers to remember that we are co-workers with God, and that we must not forget his help, this one fact, "God could do every thing, but does not; He leaves to man much to do." In the evening at the praise service, Revs. Blanchard, Nash and White were all present; Mr. Nash conducted the service, Mr. Blanchard assisting and Mr. White with his usual modesty quietly listening. The topic, "God in everything," finally elicited some very earnest discussion and then in response to an urgent call Mr. White expressed his views with that simplicity and clearness which characterizes him always. The service closed with the singing of "Nearer, my God, to thee."

—The St. Bernards, champions of the Massachusetts Literary League, visited Waltham on the afternoon of Labor Day and played the "rubber" game with the home team, each having won one this season, and defeated the other in the previous season. The game was played on the grounds of the St. Bernards, Waltham presented their two pitchers, but could not pull out a victory. The score: Innings..... 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
Waltham..... 2 0 8 0 1 0 0 2-13

—A wedding of interest to Newtonville readers was that of Miss Emma M. Morton of Taunton and Mr. Albert E. Billings of Newtonville. The ceremony took place at the residence of Mr. A. C. Morton, Tuesday, Rev. E. C. Barr officiating. The happy couple after receiving the congratulations of their friends took the noon train and departed for New Hampshire on their wedding tour. They were the recipients of many valuable and useful gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Billings will reside in Newtonville.

—The game of ball between nine representing Norumbega and Pecosette tribes, O. R. M., was played on the grounds of the B. B. Association, Watertown street, Labor Day, attracted many spectators, who watched proceedings with commendable interest. The Watertown warriors got a lead early in the game, but could not keep up the necessary steam and were therefore defeated by the wily Newtonville red men, who batted hard and ran bases like the stars in the players' league. Officer Clay gave the best exhibition of all-round ball playing and made a sturdy and invincible first baseman. He is famed for sizing up men on a bat and put in considerable scientific work with his stick. Guilford played a good game at short and caught a runner napping at the home plate. The score: Innings..... 0 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
Norumbega..... 0 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
Pecosette..... 1 2 2 4 5 1 0-15

—Mr. Fred Dunham, formerly baggage-master on the Lower Falls branch and now running as freight brakeman, was knocked from a box car at the upper bridge in Wellesley, Wednesday, and severely injured. He was taken at once to the Massachusetts Hospital, Boston.

—A meeting of the Newton Boat Club is called for next Tuesday evening, Sept. 9, at the clubhouse, to consider the advisability of putting a bowling team in the field this season, and also to take action on the report of the committee appointed to consider alterations in the clubhouse. A full attendance is desired.

—Mr. John H. Kelly, driver of Johnson & Keyes' big express wagon, died suddenly at his home Tuesday after a week's illness. He was a faithful, obliging man, greatly liked by those who knew him and his demise was sad news to his many friends. The funeral will be held this afternoon and will be conducted by Charles Ward Post 62, of which he was a member.

Resolutions.

CITY OF NEWTON.
HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT.
September 4th, 1890.

The Committee on Highways of the City of Newton desires hereby to express its appreciation of the character and services of the late William E. Fuller, whose untimely death on the 27th of August, after a week of acute suffering, has brought to his household the keenest sorrow and to the entire city a sense of grievous loss in the removal of a most competent and trusted official.

For eleven years Superintendent of Streets and previously a foreman in the department, he had been thoroughly conversant with all the varied details of an exacting office.

Genial in disposition, unassuming in manner, diligent and conscientious in his work; he was the qualities which were for him not only the respect and confidence of his superiors in office, but of all over whom he had control and with whom he came in contact.

To this committee in whose deliberations he shared, his suggestions and advice when sought, were of the most useful character. From such intimate association the sense of loss becomes personal. It is therefore

Resolved, That fully appreciating his worth as a man and official the members of this committee extend their sympathy and condolence to his family, believing that no legacy can surpass in real value that of a good name and faithful service.

There is a short business sermon on our local page this week that will interest everyone. The first he preaches is in Boston, and then, written a strong sermon, with a striking illustration. The furnishing of Groceries is a large item in every home, and here is a chance to save money on them.

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

The engagement is announced of Rev. H. B. Monroe, rector of St. Mary's, and Miss Edith Jordan. The marriage will take place in the near future, it is said.

—School opens Monday. The same corps of teachers will officiate as formerly.

—Surveys have been at work laying out plans of streets through the Darling estate, Woodland, recently purchased by Chas. Hale.

—The Friendly Aid Society has now a membership of over 70 persons here, and bids fair to equal 100 in a short time. Regular meetings will be held first and third Thursdays of each month.

—The work of building the new mill of the Carpet Lining Co. has been let out by contract. It is stated a limited time (5 weeks) has been given the contracting parties, the building to cost $7000. After this building is completed the work of setting up machinery will take place and works be ready to start this year.

—The Lyon family have arrived home after spending 4 weeks at Nantasket beach.

—A party of 12 from here went on a fishing trip last Friday evening off Marblehead, starting from Boston in a yacht that evening and spending Saturday fishing in which they were very successful, all having good luck in this respect. A 40 pounder was hauled in by Mr. B. C. Fisher, who carried off the honors in this line. Among the party was Mr. W. P. Holden, to whom belongs the credit of arranging for this pleasure trip. All had a first class time from all accounts and well satisfied with the trip.

—Mr. L. D. Marsten of Boston will remove to his new residence which is recently purchased of Mr. Chas. Hale in Waban, next week.

—Mrs. A. M. Prentiss returned last week from a large vacation in New Hampshire. A portion of the time was spent on the summit of Mt. Washington, headquarters being at the Summit House.

—Mr. F. B. Reed has been seriously ill the past two weeks of pneumonia, but from latest reports his condition is slightly improved.

—The Jackson family have returned from a month's sojourn in Maine.

The Prohibition Caucus.

The Prohibition caucus held at Nickerson's Hall, West Newton, Wednesday evening, was largely attended and very enthusiastic. Many new faces were seen and on all sides was expressed the determination to make a more vigorous campaign than ever this fall.

W. H. Partridge, chairman of the ward and committee, called the caucus to order at 8:30. Rev. Mr. Peterson offered prayer. Permanent organization was effected by the election of Mr. Partridge as chairman, and Rev. A. P. Sharp, secretary. The caucus then elected the following as delegates to the State convention, held at Worcester, Sept. 10, at 10:30 a. m.: Ward 1, W. H. Partridge, W. I. Howells, C. W. Moorehouse; Ward 2, Rev. G. S. Butters, E. A. Richardson; Ward 3, Rev. G. S. Butters, E. A. Richardson; Ward 4, Rev. G. S. Butters, E. A. Richardson; Ward 5, Rev. G. S. Butters, E. A. Richardson; Ward 6, Rev. G. S. Butters, E. A. —Mr. Eugene Clifford, who received a fracture of the leg some weeks since, is around the house on crutches, and will doubtless be all right in two or three weeks more.
—Professors Brown and Burton visiting churches in New Haven, Ct., next Sunday, in their work for the Theological Institute, which has thus far met with encouraging success.
—Cards are out announcing the approaching marriage of Prof. George Rice Hovey and Miss Clara Kelsey Brewer, which will take place at the Baptist church, the 13th of September.
—The selection of Mr. A. L. Harwood as Mr. Bell's successor in the school board gives great satisfaction here and in fact all over the city. Mr. Harwood is one of the best qualified men in the city for such a position.

—The Newton Centre Store Boys' base ball nine went to Oak Island, Labor Day, to play ball with the Stair Builders' nine for a sum of money which the latter club agreed to procure. The Stair Builders did not show up and the game was not played.
—Burglars entered the stable of Mr. Horace Cousens Sunday night and took one brass new 500 harness, two old harness and a ruber, the loss amounting to about $100. The loss was discovered Monday morning when Mr. Cousens' man went to hitch up a team.
—It is said there will soon be some definite action taken in regard to the contemplated purchase and removal of Cousens block to a position opposite the depot, and the laying out of its present location as a park. A decision will probably be reached as soon as those interested in the project can get together.
—At South Framingham on Wednesday evening of last week were married Miss Amy Thurber Bridges, daughter of D. T. Bridges of that town, and Mr. Abbott Barnes Rice of this city. Rev. F. E. Emery officiated, the ceremony taking place in the Grace Congregational church. A reception was held after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Rice will reside in Newton Centre upon their return from their wedding tour.
—Monday morning the public schools began their sessions once more. Considerable change has transpired at the Mason school in the resignation of the master, A. L. Harwood, who has conducted the school for several years, and to whom the pupils have become greatly attached. Mr. W. A. Spinnery, his successor, is a man well fitted to succeed him, and has been master of the Adams school, Newtonville, for a number of years. He will be warmly welcomed by the citizens of this place, and may his mastership of the Mason school be long and successful.
—John Kelly, a veteran expressman, died at his home in this place, Tuesday morning. The deceased was a veteran whose services in behalf of his country left him with a chronic disease from which he has been a patient sufferer. He was honest and industrious, an earnest worker, who has succeeded in the hard battle of life. He leaves a widow and one child. Mr. Kelly was a member of Charles Ward Post. He had been in the express business 35 years, formerly conducting a route between Newtonville and Boston. He had been since employed by C. E. Jennison, Francis Hunting, and Johnson and Keyes.
—Hon. Leverett Saltonstall, ex-collector of the port of Boston, who has been summering at the Glades, North Scituate, and whose illness has occasioned much anxiety, was taken to his home at Chestnut Hill Wednesday. His trip was most pleasantly and comfortably made through the courtesy of the Old Colony and Boston Albany railroad companies, a special car being provided for his accommodation. He arrived at Chestnut Hill at 3 o'clock. His son-in-law, Dr. West, is in attendance and reports his condition as much improved. Mr. Saltonstall's sickness is caused by an internal trouble. He was taken ill on Aug. 24, but his health improved rapidly under medical care. It being thought best, however, to remove him to Chestnut Hill where he could have home comforts. His physicians state that he is now rapidly recovering.—Boston Herald.
—The Baptist Theological Institute commenced its fall work on Tuesday and has already a large number of students for this course. The institute has for a year or more had its capacity taxed to the utmost, and this past summer the first steps with respect to the adoption of a broader system of teaching and an enlargement of the present buildings have been taken, through the efforts of Professors Burton and Brown. They have devoted their time during the summer months in acquainting churches in different parts of New England with the work and needs of the Institute, and have met everywhere with encouraging success. These efforts will be continued by them, as much as possible, during the session of the fall, and it is hoped that a year or more the necessary funds will be secured to enable the trustees to perfect their plans for the enlargement of the buildings, and to give to all the students the best of training for their future profession, and an increase of the endowment will allow a larger corps of professors. It is hoped very soon now to build a library building, which will be situated between Farwell Hall and Sturtevant Hall, the present library room being entirely inadequate for the number of volumes belonging to the school. The library being moved to the new building will use the present chapel for recitation room and change the chapel to the room now used as a library.

—The residence of Mr. G. B. Lapham on Hyde street, which is temporarily closed during their summer absence, was entered on Tuesday night and thoroughly ransacked, but it is thought that nothing of much value was taken away. Mr. Lapham had his valuables in Boston; also the residence of Mr. Harvey, next adjoining was entered, but as Mr. Harvey heard some one moving about, and getting up to ascertain who it might be, somewhat changed the plans of the intruder and he made a hasty exit.
—Through the kindness of Mr. Putney the Hittmyst Tennis Club held its second fall tournament on his grounds on Columbus street, Saturday Aug. 30, and Monday and Tuesday Sept. 1 and 2. The results of the tourney were as follows: First prize Gent's singles, Arthur N. T. Bell; second, Albert H. Putney; first gent's doubles, Tyler and Tarbell; first mixed doubles, Putney and Miss Heckman. One gold and five silver medals constituted the prizes. There were no ladies singles or doubles because of the lack of entries.
—Mr. Louis S. Brigham was treated to a very pleasant surprise on Wednesday evening by a party of gentlemen friends, in honor of his 21st birthday. A collation was served, during which Mr. Brigham was presented with a solid silver shaving mug as a token of esteem by his friends, to which he replied in a fitting speech. The company adjourned at an early hour, leaving their best wishes behind. Among those present were Frank C. Hyde, W. N. Heckman, Samuel Tyler, E. P. Small, Willard E. Ryder, Will Chapman, Walter Nash, Clarence Hanson, Frank Moore, E. Burritt Moulton, W. E. Moore.

ELIOT.
—Mr. H. M. Beal went to Bath, Me., for a few days last week, and returned this week with Mrs. Beal, who has been spending the summer there.
—Mr. P. A. Morton of Kilkenny Post, G. A. R. of Richmond, Va., who has been making an extended visit at Mrs. Geo. A. Cole's of Lincoln street, has returned home. Mr. Morton was captain of a New York company during the war.
—Some of the young roughs about the station Sunday evening, insulted a lady who was waiting there. This would be a good place for an officer to keep an eye on.

Resolutions.
The following resolutions were passed at the meeting of the Democratic Ward and City Committee last Friday evening:
Resolved, That we as members of the Democratic Ward and City Committee of the city of Newton particularly mourn the loss of our valued associate, W. E. Plummer.
That we miss his genial presence, his ready wit, his parliamentary knowledge, his kindness and his valuable assistance.
That his love of justice, which never permitted his strong partisan feelings to interfere with the rights of others, especially endeared him to us his political associates, and his loss leaves a void that will be impossible to fill, and his memory will always remain as that of a true friend and faithful and honest politician.

People's Dry Goods Co.
The People's Dry Goods Company, Maynard, Mass., is becoming well known in all parts of New England, as they always have a full line of bargains from the Assabet Mills, including strictly all wool fabrics, for ladies', gent's, youth's or children's wear, in all weights and of the latest shadings and styles. Write for samples and prices and you will be astonished at this easy way of doing shopping. Their advertisement on the 7th page will give full particulars.

Lasell Seminary
will open Sept. 18th and its reputation as a model school for young ladies is recognized throughout the United States. Exceptional advantages are offered to its pupils, and an opportunity is also given to any ladies in Newton to take any special study they may desire. A large number usually avail themselves of this offer, on account of the high reputation of the teachers employed. Full particulars are given in the catalogues, which will be sent on application.

Cottage Hospital.
The executive committee of the Hospital board of trustees have appointed Miss Peters matron of the Cottage Hospital, with the cordial approval of the medical board. Miss Peters has been head nurse at the Hospital and has shown great ability and tact in that position, and the honor is one that is well-deserved.

31 Milk Street, Boston, Rooms 6 and 7.

FOURTH GREAT SALE —OF— HOUSE LOTS —AT— WABAN, NEWTON, MASS.

Will be sold at Public Auction, on the premises at Waban, the young and popular Newton Village, on the Newton Circuit Railroad, on SATURDAY, September 13, at 3.15 o'clock P. M.

100 Choice House Lots

Situated on the high, healthy table-land overlooking the Charles River, and commanding an extensive view for miles. The whole tract has been laid out at a great expense by E. W. Bowditch, and the streets built in the very best manner under his personal supervision. The lots offered at this sale vary in size from 10,000 feet to 20,000 feet, and are situated on Varick road, Agawam road, Carleton road, Waban avenue (180 feet wide), Rokeby road, Pontiac road, Ridge road, Quineboquin road, Vista road, and other roads now building. They will be sold subject to moderate restrictions, which are imposed on every lot in this desirable village. These lots, situated as they are in a rapidly growing NEWTON, the character of which is already established, with the improvements now going on, among which are a new schoolhouse, store block, etc., with its 34 trains daily to and from Boston, with its handsome residences already built, should command the attention of every person who is desirous of locating himself amidst pleasant surroundings where property is rapidly advancing and where the profit to the buyer must be sure and immediate.

Why go South or West, thousands of miles from home, to invest in lands, when such a grand opportunity as this is offered within 30 minutes' ride of Boston, over the best railroad in New England? The three previous sales proved a great success, and several of the lots bought at the auction have since been sold at a considerable advance, and several houses are already in process of erection.

Policies issued by Massachusetts Title Insurance Company free of charge to purchaser for full amount of sale.

Free Tickets on day of sale to be had of Auctioneers.

TERMS: 10 per cent. down at the time of sale; 40 per cent. more on delivery of deed; balance at 5 per cent. for 1, 2 and 3 years.

For plans, copy of restrictions, further terms and complete facts, call on Auctioneers, 31 Milk street, Boston, or send 2-cent stamp.

N. B.—Every lot put up will be sold to the highest bidder. No by-bidding.

—Mr. F. E. Hamblin and family have returned from Winthrop Beach.

—Harold and Holmes Whitmore are at Mrs. Frankland's for the winter.

—Miss Helen Farquhar has entered Bradford Academy at Bradford, Mass.

—Mr. Morton E. Cobb and sister spent Sunday with friends in Middleboro.

—Mrs. W. A. Wetherbee starts to-day for Auburn, N. Y., where she will visit friends.

—Dr. Reed and Mr. F. O. Barber left on Wednesday for a weeks hunting trip in Maine.

—Dr. J. F. Frisbie read a paper before the Boston Gynecological Society on Thursday.

—Mr. Willis Nowell has returned from Alaska, and will spend the coming winter in Newton.

—Mr. H. M. Walton and family have returned from Maine, and are at their home on Jefferson street.

—Rev. Dr. Shinn is expected home from Europe to-day, and will officiate at Grace church on Sunday.

—Mr. Leland has leased his house, corner of Elmwood and Eldridge streets, to the Misses Parker.

—Rev. Dr. Creagan has moved into the west side of Mr. Galland's double house on Church, near Park street.

—The senatorial delegates will hold a conference at City Hall, Saturday evening, "for an interchange of views."

—Assessors Howard B. Coffin and Samuel Jackson are taking a ten days' vacation at Bar Harbor and Poland Springs.

—Miss H. P. James was in Newton early this week on her way to attend the Librarians' meeting at Fabyan.

—Mr. Harry Corey's new house on Copley street is fast approaching completion and will be a very attractive place.

—Mr. S. F. Atwood of the Newton City Market, is enjoying a two weeks vacation, and is spending a few days at East Medway.

—Mr. Edward Sawyer has begun on the cellar for a new house on Bellevue street, on the lot next to Mr. Henry E. Cobb's new house.

—C. O. Tucker & Co. received this week another car load of their famous flour, which is so popular with Newton housekeepers.

—Mrs. F. A. Brooks, on account of whose illness the family were not able to come to their summer home in Newton, is now convalescent.

—Mrs. Marshall O. Roberts, who was a guest at Hotel Hunnewell recently, is now in Newton as the guest of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt.

—Rev. F. B. Hornbroke assisted in the installation of Rev. Albert Walkley over the first parish church, Brighton, on Thursday.

—Miss Coffin will be at home on and after Sept. 20th, to arrange for piano and harmony lessons. Her address will be 246 Bellevue street.

—Mr. John Ward was quite successful in raising peaches this year and has supplied Mr. Howes' market this week with a number of baskets.

—Mrs. E. Allen Smith, formerly with Mrs. H. J. Woods, can be found at 37 Carlton street, where she is prepared to do all kinds of millinery work.

—Mr. F. A. Davis and family who have occupied Mr. N. L. Ripley's house on Centre street, this summer, return to their home in Boston this week.

—Miss Thurston is attending the conference of the American Library Association, which opened on Tuesday at the Fabyan House in the White Mountains.

—Mr. F. E. Knight of Maple avenue has been called to New York to manage a grain commission business, and his house will be occupied by Mr. J. E. Lawrence.

—Parents desiring to form private classes in dancing either at home or at Armory Hall will please address Mrs. Gardner O. North, 37 Elmwood street, Newton.

—Call at G. P. Atkins for the Turner Centre butter in prints, which leads all others. One reason for this is the low price of the exceedingly low price of 32 cents per pound.

—One of the new houses on Hollis street is offered for sale, and those who wish a perfectly appointed house, where all the extras so dear to housekeepers have been attended to, should not fail to inspect it.

—Mr. J. N. Damon has bought from the Silsby estate syndicate the handsome lot on Washington street, opposite Mr. Hibbard's, and will build immediately a fine house of the colonial style for his mother.

—The hearing in regard to the stable on Brook street will be held next Tuesday evening, Sept. 16th, the board of Aldermen having decided to meet on that evening, instead of Monday, its usual night for meetings.

—Mr. C. E. Lord and family of Tremont street have returned from their vacation, and on Mr. Carlyle Petersen's removing to Dr. Field's house on Franklin street, they will occupy their house on Waverly avenue.

—The money order department of the Post Office, according to a recent order of the Postmaster General, will be open from 8 a. m. to 6.30 p. m. the last half hour being added by Postmaster Morgan, the order only requiring the office to be open till 6 o'clock.

—Miss A. A. Leonard, the well known artist, announces that she will resume her classes in China Painting on Mondays and Thursdays and Oil paintings on Tuesdays and Fridays. Water colors and charcoal drawing will be taught in either class. For terms see card in another column.

—Miss S. Louise Shelton, having been forbidden by her physician to return to Texas and ordered a year's rest and change, has been released from her contract by Bishop Garrett. She is at present in Prince Edward Island, where her friends will be pleased to know her health is improving. Later she will go to Washington, D. C., for the winter.

—As the attendants at Grace church return from their vacations they are both surprised and pleased at the great improvement made by the boy choir during the summer months, under the skillful teachings of the choir master, Mr. H. B. Day. The singers have gained confidence and the choruses singing is not only fuller and richer, but some excellent soloists have been developed.

—There is a prospect that the Inter-Club Bowling League will become members of the American Bowling Association, composed of the leading social amateur and athletic clubs in the United States. Mr. W. J. Follett goes to New York as a delegate from the Boston Athletic Association, to endeavor to bring this about, and if he succeeds the Newton Club would probably see some brilliant bowling matches.

—Miss Mary Day died on Sunday, at her brother's residence on Waban Park, of consumption, after an illness of several months. She was the daughter of Mr. R. L. Day, formerly of this city, the now of Framingham, and had many warm friends here. The funeral services were held at the chapel in the Newton Cemetery, on Tuesday, a very large number of relatives and friends being present. Rev. Dr. Williams, a former pastor of the deceased, Rev. Dr. Calkins, and Rev. Mr. Eastman of Framingham officiated.

—New York does not seem to be the only city which has insufficient school room, for some of the parents are complaining that their children can not be promoted at the Bigelow for lack of room, which seems to show a lack of teachers and recitation desks. One of the parents writes: "Double promotions are not good, as the child does not have time to become accustomed to a teacher before a change is made and consequently the quiet and ease of acquaintance is lost, and much study is lost. If each teacher was fitted to carry a class through all the grades of the Grammar school we would not need so many grades."

—A correspondent sends in the following: "Why is it that Newton cannot at this season of year and melons send around more carts and men to remove the house refuse? The first of the week the garbage man could not take all, as the cart was too full. The last of the week he did not appear at all, only once this week have we seen receptacles been emptied and things are in an awful condition. The same excuse is made by the ash men, and the three barrels had to ornament our side entrance for three days. All this does not improve the Garden City."

—Dr. Horace Arnold of Church street, who is taking a term in the Mass. General Hospital, had quite an adventure this week which came near having a very serious result. An insane patient was being treated, but managed to break loose from the attendants and escape from the Hospital. Dr. Arnold with others joined in the pursuit, but in climbing a picket fence, he lost his footing and his head struck on the pickets, making an ugly wound, and resulting in a fracture of the skull. Although the wound was a severe one, no permanent ill effects are expected, but it was a very narrow escape.

—The centre of building operations in this city seems to be on the corner of the new street, where Mr. Henry E. Cobb's handsome new residence is about completed. Mr. Edward Sawyer has started the cellar for a new house; Mr. Fred Stone of Mr. Fred Wetherbee's new residence are fast assuming shape, and Mr. L. E. Coffin has a very pretty new house just finished, which will be offered for sale. This section is one of the pleasantest parts of the city, the land has a southern exposure and the view is unsurpassed for beauty and variety. The street cars will probably aid in developing this section, although it is inside of ten minutes walk from the station by way of Washington street.

—Mr. W. P. Wentworth was the architect of the church and buildings just presented to Trinity church parish, Watertown, N. Y., by Hon. Roswell P. Flower and brother, Henry R. Flower. They are called the finest group of buildings for religious purposes anywhere in New York State, outside of New York, Brooklyn, Albany and Buffalo. The church was consecrated Tuesday by Bishop Huntington, of the diocese of central New York, with a large concourse of visiting clergy. The other structures are a parish hall, with a chapel, a school and numerous rooms for Sunday school and the subsidiaries of the parish. This is connected with the church by a choir room and cloister. The architecture is Norman Gothic; the material, stone. There is also a rectory and stable. The whole property has cost about $150,000, of which the Flower brothers' donation was $135,000 or thereabout, the parish paying about $15,000.

—F. G. Barnes & Son, real estate agents, have recently sold at private sale, on behalf of Mrs. N. V. Walker, a portion of the well-known Pope estate, situated on Washington street, Brighton Hill, comprising dwelling house with stable and 35,000 square feet of land, sold to Josiah G. Coburn of Lewiston, Me., also dwelling house with 9000 square feet of land, owned by Francis Murdoch, situated on Maple avenue, Ward One, sold to J. Lawrence of Newton. Have also negotiated the following leases: Brick house of Mary Dexter, situated corner of Galen and Boyd streets, to P. Burbank of Watertown; also the estate of Mrs. A. S. Arnold, situated on Carlton street, Ward Seven, to Fred V. Smith of Newton; also the estate of Chas. B. Galland, situated on north side of Church street, to Rev. Dr. Charles C. Clark of Syracuse, N. Y.; also the estate of W. W. Jacques, situated corner of Elmwood and Brook streets, to Dr. T. O. Loveland of Boston.

—The council of churches called to approve the appointment of missionaries to Japan by the Foreign Missionary Board, held in Eliot church Thursday afternoon and evening. The council consisted of a moderator, Rev. F. G. Clark, D. D., of Boston, and as scribe, Rev. E. C. Porter of Watertown. The candidates for missions were Claude M. Severance of Eliot church, Newton, a graduate of Middlebury College, and the Yale Divinity School, and Scuyler S. White of Bridgewater, a graduate of Harvard College, and the Yale Theological Seminary. The council unanimously approved their appointment. In the evening the ordaining services opened by scriptural reading, by Rev. I. C. White, followed by the giving of charges by Rev. N. G. Clark, D. D., ordination prayer by Rev. M. L. Severance, right hand of fellowship in behalf of missions, Rev. J. H. DeForest, and addresses by Rev. T. Hazada, a native Japanese, Rev. Claude M. Severance, Rev. Scuyler S. White and others. Mr. Severance goes to the mission church in Japan supported by Eliot church.

House Lots at Waban.

The fourth great sale of house lots at Waban will take place this week Saturday, the 13th at 3.15 p. m., if the weather will permit. It promises to be another success. Messrs Hyde have done their best to bring it to the attention of the public, advertising it in eight newspapers, printing and distributing 60,000 flyers, besides 300 large posters etc. No by-bidding is allowed at these sales, and every lot upon which a bid is taken is sold to the highest bidder. All who wish to locate there or invest money should be sure to attend this sale.

Berkley School.

The Berkeley School, of which Prof. J. B. Taylor is principal, opens its seventh year Sept. 22. It has most spacious apartments in the Y. M. C. A. building, Boston, and last year graduated twenty-three, sending ten to the Institute of Technology and thirteen to college. It also provides special courses for those desiring them.

High School Notes.

The school opened Monday with a large attendance. All recitations were commenced with the exception of German, Miss Owen, the teacher, being delayed in arrival until Tuesday. Miss Ireson, teacher of Calisthenics, is expected the later part of this month. The following is the Calisthenics' roster: Major, Miss Mildred Thompson; commanders of classes, 1st, Miss Grace Denison, Miss Amy Wires; 2nd, Cora Davis, Alice Heckman; 3rd, Gertrude Hall, Gertrude Young; 4th, Francis Hildreth, Fannie Leonard.

Roster of High School Battalion, '90 and '91:

Major, Tyler, S.; adjutant, Greene, E. A.; 1st Sgt. major, —; drum major, Holmes, J. G.; markers, Davy, J. W., and Walworth, C.
Captains—Tarbell, A. W.; Young, E. H.; Coffin, F. B.; Crane, E. R.
Lieutenants—Weston, Thomas Jr.; Huxley, E. H.; Greene, D. C. Jr.; Ellison, Wm.
1st Sergeants—Thompson, H. G.; Fouldry, M. R.; Burgess, G. K.; Brackett, E. R.
2d Sergeants—Whitney, L. N.; Hatch, G. P.; Stonemetz, H. M.; Ashenden, F. S.
3rd Sergeants—Putnam, G. N.; Crafts, H. F.; Partridge, W.; Patrick, H. B.
4th Sergeants—Stone, C. H.; Ross, H. W.; Bryant, C. S.; Lord, J. A.
5th Sergeants—Keith, W. F. Jr.; Blake, H. H.; Dolbear, F. F.; Grell, D.
Corporals—Page, H. E.; Cody, R. A.; Bosson, H. S.; Priest, H. D.; Ranlett, C. A.; Dillingham, I. S. Jr.; Estabrooks, E. R.; Stevens, C. D.; Howard, R. G.

The battalion intends to have a large drum and pipe corps this year already, many have joined and all those who wish to should speak to Drum Major Holmes.

Extensive repairs are being made upon the new building, for the reason that bricks are becoming loose and the pointing is falling out.

The pupils who would like to use the electric cars running between Newton and West Newton will be interested to know that a change of running time will go into effect about Sept. 22, by which it will be very convenient for those going to Newton to take a car soon after 1 o'clock. This car will have to be delayed at Newtonville about seven minutes, but at present it is not known whether this can be done or not. If a sufficient number will guarantee to ride, a special car can be run any time after school.

Good News for Watertown

Mr. John E. Cassidy of Watertown, who recently launched a new coal steamer in the waters of the Charles river, has received a dispatch from Hon. N. P. Banks at Washington, giving him the gratifying intelligence that the House had passed the river and harbor bill, together with the following amendment: "And $20,000 for continuing the improvement of the Charles river, provided that no expenditure of this money shall be made until the draws of the Arsenal street and Market street bridges shall be made to conform with the projected channel, without cost to the United States." The changes provided for in the amendment will, it is said, be comparatively small, and Mr. Cassidy thinks that the town will readily assume their cost, on account of the benefit to accrue to the town through the improvement of the channel in making it accessible to sailing and steam vessels. The matter is likely to be presented to the town at its next meeting for consideration.

Pomroy Home Fair.

The girls of the Pomroy home and their friends desire to hold a fair this fall for the purpose of assisting in raising funds for the support of their home. They have been busy through the vacation in making articles for a sale and it is thought desirable by friends to give them all encouragement possible in their laudable enterprise. To this end we invite the ladies and especially the young people of Newton to contribute articles for this sale. Here is an opportunity for the "Kings Daughters," members of "Christian Endeavor," Young Ladies Guilds, Ministering children, and all societies organized for charitable work, to lend a hand in making this notable fair like those which have been held in the past. For particulars inquire at the "Home" on Hovey St., or of the lady directors, Mrs. J. Sturgis Potter, Mrs. Henry M. Bates, Mrs. Henry C. Hardon and Mrs. Charles C. Bragdon. 3t.

Newton Cottage Hospital.

At the last meeting of the Executive Committee, Miss J. C. Peters, the efficient head nurse of the institution, was appointed matron.
Dr. Alfred S. Wiley of Newton Highlands, was appointed consulting surgeon in diseases of the eye.
The valuable ambulance presented by Mrs. Eldridge has been located for the present at Mr. Cate's stable in West Newton, and has already done efficient service. The gift will be formally accepted at the next meeting of the trustees, and we shall give later a description of the ambulance and of how its use may be obtained by those needing its services.

Sloyd.

Every one has heard of the Swedish system of manual training, in wood, taught in Boston for some time, and the marvelous skill in carving and in use of tools acquired by the pupils. Mr. W. S. Carter, a pupil of the celebrated Lassen, will form a class in Newton, if sufficient encouragement is given, for day or evening work, and children ten years old and upwards will be taken. The terms are very reasonable. Mr. Carter is teacher of drawing in the schools of Woburn, and his post office address is No. Woburn. If any desire to have their children join such a class, they are requested to send a note to him, and he will call upon them and give full particulars.

Babylon's Last Weeks.

The 131st performance of the "Fall of Babylon" will occur this week at Oakland Garden, and the attendance still remains at phenomenal figures. The great spectacle already has eclipsed all previous records of outdoor exhibitions given in this variable climate. And there is every indication that the enormous audiences will continue to the end of the season, which now is drawing to a close. The beautiful exhibition should be seen by all.

Brass and Iron Bedsteads

In great variety of patterns and prices, for sale by the H. W. Bigelow company, 70 Washington st., Boston. Mr. Bigelow has been long a resident of Newtonville, and he wishes the Newton people to see what can be done in the way of aesthetic bed room furnishing, feeling sure that he can satisfy every taste. His company have also a large assortment of fine bedding, and their advertisement on the first page is commended to the attention of all.

THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

BOTH BRANCHES RESUME BUSINESS AFTER THEIR LONG VACATION.

Both branches of the City Government assembled on Monday evening. In the board of aldermen all the members were present and in the absence of Mayor Burr, Alderman Pettie presided.

The report of the Overseers of the Poor for the quarter ending June 30th was received and filed.

City Solicitor Slocum rendered his opinion on the question recently submitted to him, as to the claim made by the Newton Street Railway Company, that they had a right to a location on Walnut street and other streets between Newtonville and Newton Centre, under an act of the legislature of 1890. Mr. Slocum said that as the road had accepted the condition that their charter would lapse if the road was not in actual operation in two years, they had lost all right to a location, and the legislature in their action did not intend to modify any order of the board of aldermen and did not extend the charter of the company in respect to these streets.

NEWTON CENTRE DEPOT.

A communication was received from Mr. Ferry, private secretary to President Bliss of the B. & A. R. R. asking for license to have the new depot roof at Newton Centre, extend one foot over the curbing on the edge of the sidewalk; referred to committee on license.

M. Seavy was granted a license to move a building on Centre near Hyde street, to opposite Cooper streets.

BUILDINGS.

Owen Gallagher gave notice of intention to build a house on Cabot street, 33x28. Thomas C. Clay, to build a 24x28 on Simmons street; Dr. S. L. Eaton, house 38x60 on Lake avenue; and another 55x38 on same avenue; Patrick Melia house, 22x25 on Winchester street; C. B. Sumner, house 20x45 on Lowell street; James McLaughlin, house 39x25 with L 25x13 on Hale street; John Kimball, double house, 30x38 on Waban street; Chas. E. Hatfield, asked for license to rebuild a stable on Cherry street. W. M. Mick was granted license to build a barn on Dedham street; John P. Keating was granted license to build a shed 35x20 on the corner of Walnut and Centre streets. C. C. Williams was granted a license to move a building.

Geo. Pettie asked for street lights on street running from Oak to Eliot streets. A petition was also received for street light corner of Bylston street and Floral avenue.

B. S. Grant and A. G. Sherman asked for concrete walk with edge stones on Walnut street; Geo. Leonard asked for concrete walk on Wesley street; C. L. Holmes, Jr., for concrete walk on Belmont street; Henry Brooks for concrete walk on Waverley avenue and Sargent street. Geo. Stuart for concrete walk on Watertown street.

LASELL SEMINARY.

The trustees of Lasell Seminary asked that Seminary street be closed to the public and reconveyed to them. The land was sold to the city some years ago when the Seminary was in financial difficulties, but it was now in a highly prosperous condition, and the land was needed for new buildings; referred to the highway committee.

John M. Norton sent in a bill for $75, for damages received to his horse, wagon and harness, by falling in a hole left on Grove street. Alderman Johnson said the gentleman ought to have put in a claim for damages instead of a bill, and thought he ought to be notified that the proper way was to send in a petition. The bill was financially referred to the committee on claims.

Alderman Harbach presented a petition for the reconstruction of the crosswalks on Washington street, from St. James street and Hunnewell avenue, destroyed by the recent regrading of the street; referred.

Bertraud E. Taylor petitioned to have Grant avenue sprinkled, as the passage of so many heavy teams would be reduced the covering to an impassable dust; referred to highway committee.

H. E. Hibbard and three others asked to have Hunnewell Terrace laid out, graded and accepted as a public street, from St. James street to Hunnewell avenue, at a cost of $18,000. Mr. M. G. Walker asked to have Linder Terrace laid out and accepted as a public street; referred.

A resolution was presented to have a sum not exceeding $12 per month to a single family be given for the relief of soldiers and sailors. After an explanation by City Clerk Kinship, it was decided that an old soldier had died last week after a residence in Newton of 20 years, who was not credited to any other city or town. Application had been made for a pension for his family, which would undoubtedly be granted, but it would take at least a year. Alderman Johnson said relief should be given in an honorable way, and the vote could be rescinded as soon as aid from another source was received. An order was passed transferring $200 from the Indigent Soldiers and Sailors fund, to a soldiers relief fund.

On motion of Alderman Johnson 1890, the interest from sale of 48 feet of water bonds was appropriated and added to the appropriation for interest on water bonds.

An order was passed establishing the polling places for the state and municipal election.

J. E. Levisque asked for license to build shed 12x24 feet on Dally street.

H. E. Hibbard and ten others asked that Hunnewell avenue be laid out, graded and accepted as a public street; Francis Murdoch and others asked that Fairview street be laid out and accepted as a public street; referred.

A. C. Maistron asked for license to build stable 12x16 on Parker avenue.

ALMSHOUSE LAND.

Alderman Coffin caused a general sale by presenting another order for the purchase of 30,000 feet of additional land for the new Alms house on Winchester street, and appropriating $400 therefor.

Alderman Johnson suggested that as this was the third order for buying additional land it be laid on the table until the public property committee had had time to see whether this was all the land they were going to want or not.

Alderman Coffin said that the committee appointed by the mayor had bought the Ranney place, and when the public property committee got ready to locate the buildings it was thought best to buy the strip of land belonging to Mr. Doyle, for $1,000, so that the buildings could be placed on an elevation. The Overseers of the Poor, however, wished to have the buildings run east and west so that all the rooms would be reached by the sun. The part of the knoll owned by the city would not allow if this and one angle of the buildings would be within five feet of the boundary line. It would be a saving if the city had sufficient land to run the east wing 25 feet over the line. The trustees of the Bishop Williams land would sell a strip 100x300 feet.

Alderman Fanno said there were not a dozen houses in Newton which had the sun in every room.

Alderman Pettie said the occupants of these rooms would be most of them invalids, confined to the room all day, and the $400 worth of land would allow of all the rooms being sunny, and also there would be a saving in grading and in building.

The order was passed unanimously. D. B. Needham asked to have sidewalk walks graded and constructed on Lowell street.

M. McDonald asked for one street lamp on Henshaw street, corner of Cherry Place.

An order was passed for one oil street lamp on Gardner street, one gas lamp on Fairbanks avenue, two lamps on Hollis street, two on Church street, one on Kenrick street, near Boston line.

An order was passed for 525 feet of 6 inch pipe on Fairbanks avenue, to cost $584; 295 feet of 4 inch off Washington, $246; 320 feet, 6 inch off Lincoln, $342; 140 feet, 2 inch Winchester street $90; 260 feet, 6 inch Dickerman Road, $311; 230 feet, 6 inch off Oak street, $285; 400 feet, 6 inch Alston street, $412; total $2,270.

Alderman Fanno presented a remonstrance from Rev. F. B. Hornbrooke, G. D. Gilman, and twelve others, against the establishment of a boarding stable on Brook street, and asking for a hearing, which was assigned for Sept. 15th, at 8 o'clock.

$1,173.90 was transferred from the appropriation for interest on city loans, temporary, to that of interest on water bonds.

Benjamin B. Buck was granted a 6th class liquor license.

Henry A. Barker was granted a license for a stable on Chestnut street.

On motion of Alderman Bond, the ordinance committee was requested to consider what amendment was necessary to existing ordinances, in the matter of street railways.

A NINE HOUR DAY.

Alderman Fanno moved that on and after Oct. 1st, nine hours constitute a day's work, among all the employees of the city of Newton. The legislature passed an act making nine hours a day's work for city employees after Jan. 1, '91, and he thought it would be a fitting recognition of the statute, to anticipate it by a few months. The days would be so dark after Oct. 1st, that it would not be possible to work much more than nine hours, and this was the number of hours accepted by the contractors in this city.

Alderman Harbach said the ordinary laboring men in this city worked ten hours, and only the carpenters had a nine hour day. He thought it would be just as well to wait for January 1st, and then make the change. Alderman Pettie said that 100 or more men were at work on the filtering gallery in Needham, and it was desired to rush this work as much as possible. To shorten the day by one hour would not be judicious.

Alderman Harbach said the appropriations had all been made and the men engaged for a ten hour day, and the highway committee are estimating on a nine hour day for next year, but this year he thought the hours should be left as they are. In the highway department there was work that must be done and the days were not too long now.

Alderman Fanno said he did not think it would make any differences in the amount of work done. So late in the year it was impossible to get men to work ten hours; we can not on our railroad.

Alderman Johnson said he believed that Alderman Harbach stated the matter right, the nine hour law was only a bait thrown out to catch the workmen's vote. If men were paid for ten hours they should work ten hours. The order was defeated.

RIVER STREET TRACKS.

Alderman Johnson moved to reconsider the vote on ordering the street railway tracks on River street to be laid in the centre of the street.

Alderman Bond voted in the negative, but Alderman Bond and Johnson made such a moving appeal for fair and courteous treatment that the decision of the chair was doubted, and on a show of hands the order for reconsideration passed.

Alderman Bond said he need not go back to the matter, as the arguments, all were familiar with them, the great danger to children, the action of the road in rushing the relaying through in spite of their knowledge that a petition for a change would be presented. How the road officials had come here and said the tracks should not be ordered changed, as they wanted to begin business before the profitable summer trade, and they have not begun running the electric cars yet. They also said it was difficult to buy rails, but he had received a letter from one of the directors, arguing for the charter for a road to Newton Centre, on the ground that the company had a lot of rails on hand. When the road had run a few weeks and some child had been ground up under the wheels, then the board would be ready to act, but now was the time.

Alderman Johnson said that ever since he had been a member of the board the street railway company had been before them, and after endless discussions and concessions, Mr. Morse became president and he had asked one concession after another and shown more cheek than any other man that had appeared before the board. He knew when the tracks were put down that they would have to be moved.

What has the road done for Newton? It has mutilated trees, depreciated property on its line 10 per cent, laid a great tax on the citizens by making it necessary to widen the street. It was all Morse for the company, but re-Morse for the city. He wanted a location on River street, but the city solicitor had exploded that. No member of the board would want the road within 15 feet of his door, and yet they had nurse girls for their children, while the poor women on River street had to let their children run wild, and they would be in constant danger from the cars.

Alderman Fanno said the tracks had been located years before the present city government.

At the request of Alderman Johnson the City Clerk said there was no record of any location on River street having been granted to a street railway company.

The vote was taken and stood 3 to 3, Johnson, Bond and Hamblen on one side and Harbach, Coffin and Fanno on the other.

This left the decision to President Pettie, who called Mr. Harbach to the chair, and said that he had always been in favor of having the tracks in the centre of the street. This gave two ways for teams with the cars dividing them, and made it much safer. If on the side it made the space for teams too narrow for them to pass safely. He thought the track on River street should be put in the centre, and the road should be told that they could do so or leave the city, and the order was then adopted, requiring the tracks to be moved.

Alderman Bond presented the report of the fire committee on the petition for a striker at Nonantum, that it would be of no benefit to the fire department, but the committee had no objection to the school board, or any committee putting a striker there, if they wanted to pay for it.

The board then took a recess, after which the order appropriating $15,000 for a school house at Waban, on city land off Beacon street, was presented and referred to finance committee. The committee had no objection to the school board, or any committee putting a striker there, if they wanted to pay for it.

The Common Council transacted concurrent business, and had a warm debate on the Alms house land, but finally passed the order.

A Chance To Make Money.

Having read Mr. Moorehead's experience plating with gold, silver and nickel, I feel it my duty to inform others of my success. I sent for a plater and have more work than I can do. It is surprising the spoons, castors and jewelry, that people want plated. The first week I cleared $37.10, and in three weeks $119.85, and my wife has made about as I have. By addressing W. H. Griffith & Co., Zanesville, Ohio, you can get circulars. A plater only costs $2.00. You can learn to use it in an hour. Can plate large or small articles, and can make money anywhere. I now have a nice home and bank account, all the product of $3.00 invested in a Plater.

S. S. NORTON

A middle-aged woman called at an insurance office on Griswold street a day or two ago to announce that she wanted to insure her house. "For how much?" asked the agent. "Oh, about $500." "Very well. I'll come up and investigate." "I don't know much about insurance," she said. "It's very plain, ma'am. If I'm insured for $500 and the house burns up, I get the money, do I?" "Certainly." "And they don't ask who set afire?" "Oh, but they do. We shall want to know all about it." "Then you needn't come up," she said, as she rose to go. "I heard there was some catch about it somewhere, and now I see where it is."—Detroit Free Press.

SUGAR BOUNTIES.

Few industrial questions have caused so much international discussion as the sugar bounties. In Europe bounties have been tried and their bad effects are known. Whether the bounty is paid on exports or directly on home production the results are the same. They inevitably lead to over production, and when exports decrease by a withdrawal or lessening of the bounties the result is to bring ruin upon the producers. Such was found to be the experience of Russia, the sugar producers of which demanded that production should be limited by governmental decree. In the case of France and Germany the only alternative of a stoppage of the bounties is the ruin of a large part of those engaged in sugar production who are not most favorably situated. Thus, though these governments see that bounties result only in making exported sugar cheap and sugar consumed at home dear with the result that the bounties bring no return whatever to the producers, they pay them, they dare not remove them, lest they ruin the industry thus artificially created. It is this fear that restrains these countries from joining together in the convention to abolish bounties. Such a state of things would be the inevitable result of bounty payment in this country. It might stimulate production, but would never make a healthy and natural industry.

THE FRENCH SYSTEM.

On the 4th of July, 1888, the new French sugar taxes went into effect. Previous to that time the bounties were much larger than they now are. France levies an excise tax upon beets as they enter the manufactory (which is there a bonded warehouse) on the basis of a sugar content of 7.75 per cent. The tax is 60 francs per 100 kilos, of sugar or 51.4 cents per pound. But beets contain over 7.75 per cent of sugar, and on this excess there is a tax of 20 francs per 100 kilos, of sugar, or 1.74 cents per pound. 12.9 tons of beets, according to the official estimate, yields 1 ton of sugar, taxed at 51.4 cents per pound, or $17.00 per ton. But 12.9 tons of beets yield 303.64 pounds of sugar, 794.64 pounds of which being the excess in yield over the official estimate, pays 1.74 cents per pound, or $13.00. The sugar manufactory, therefore, pays to the government 4.3 cents per pound excise tax, or $07.00 per gross ton. But upon the export of a ton of sugar he receives back as a drawback, $117.00, making a clear bounty of $20.54 per gross ton of sugar exported. But manufacturers of sugar in France, protected by a high duty on imports, are able to charge consumers the natural price plus the excise tax, as if levied on purposes, is levied on the tonnage of beets going to the sugar factories. Germany also taxes beets as they go to the factory, but she imposes an additional tax on sugar as it enters into consumption. On a ton of raw beets the excise or, as it is called, the "material" tax is $1.93; on sugar as it leaves the factory for consumption, the tax called the tax on "consumption," is $20.07 per ton. The average yield of beets in Germany is 12 per cent, so that the sum of the "material" and "consumption" taxes amounts to $45.07 per ton of sugar. Sugar that is exported pays only the material tax, which amounts to $1.93 per gross ton. When so exported, the government pays a drawback of $20.23, or a bounty of $4.15 per gross ton. On refined sugar the bounty is, of course, larger. As in France, so in Germany, raw sugar manufacturers exact the bounty on all the sugar produced, whether exported or retained for home consumption.

THE GERMAN SYSTEM.

In Germany the system of taxes and bounties is different. France imposes a single excise tax which, for all purposes, is levied on the tonnage of beets going to the sugar factories. Germany also taxes beets as they go to the factory, but she imposes an additional tax on sugar as it enters into consumption. On a ton of raw beets the excise or, as it is called, the "material" tax is $1.93; on sugar as it leaves the factory for consumption, the tax called the tax on "consumption," is $20.07 per ton. The average yield of beets in Germany is 12 per cent, so that the sum of the "material" and "consumption" taxes amounts to $45.07 per ton of sugar. Sugar that is exported pays only the material tax, which amounts to $1.93 per gross ton. When so exported, the government pays a drawback of $20.23, or a bounty of $4.15 per gross ton. On refined sugar the bounty is, of course, larger. As in France, so in Germany, raw sugar manufacturers exact the bounty on all the sugar produced, whether exported or retained for home consumption.

THE UNITED STATES SYSTEM.

Since 1880 we have imported 10,226,395.2 tons of dutiable and 686,077.2 tons of free sugar, or in all 10,912,472.4 tons. On the dutiable sugar there was paid into the Treasury $48,428,816, or an average of $4.75 per ton, a strictly revenue duty, every particle of which was paid by the consumers of sugar. No duty was paid on the 686,077.2 tons imported from the Sandwich Islands. Nevertheless, this sugar was not sold cheaper than that which paid duties. The duties remitted on this sugar, therefore, were a practical bounty to Sandwich Island sugar planters, and amounted to $36,571,614 for ten years, and ranges now from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 per year.

Since 1880 we have exported 354,961 tons of sugar on which $24,061,045 has been paid in drawback, and of which $3,000,000 was pure bounty. To say nothing of the direct bounty which our tariff gives to the producers of sugar in this country and which amounts each year to between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000, and in 10 years equals $75,000,000, we have paid in the decade exactly $36,571,614 in bounties to the sugar planters of the Sandwich Islands, $5,000,000 on bounties on the export of refined sugar so as to enable English farmers to fatten cattle on sugar, $20,061,045 in drawbacks of the duty collected on the raw when the refined is exported for the same purpose, and to enable refiners here to sell their surplus abroad and not break the American market. And, finally, if we allow a total of $25,000,000 invested in the business of refining sugar and allow a profit of 15 per cent (our farmers make less than 3 per cent.) we find that by means of high duties we have paid the sugar refiners a direct bounty of $63,800,000, so that the sum of the taxes exacted from the whole body of American people for ten years reaches the enormous figure of $63,800,430 of which $40,367,711 went into the Treasury and $19,432,659 into other coffers.

No better examples than our sugar tariff legislation can be given of the contrasting policy of our two national parties. The one—the tariff reformers—deprecate taxation, except for the necessities of the Government; the other, the "protectionists," abhor it unless it is in the shape of bounties to favored monopolies. The Mills Bill was entitled "An Act to Reduce Taxation;" the McKinley Bill is appropriately entitled "An Act to Reduce Revenue."

Newton Co-operative Bank.

The share-holders of this institution, upon paying their monthly dues for September, were handed a statement showing the value of their shares at the end of the half year ending September first, with a brief summary of the operations of the bank, with the amount loaned on real estate up to that date.

It appears that in the two years which the bank has been in operation, it has loaned on first mortgages real estate $90,550.00, that its income for the past six months has been $24,254.40 and its profits for the same period $1933.40. A semi-annual dividend at the rate of six per cent per annum has been declared by the directors, and added to the value of the outstanding shares, the balance of profits after deducting the very moderate expenses of the bank, has been carried to the surplus and guaranty funds as required by the laws of the commonwealth.

At the monthly meeting on Tuesday evening, a new series of shares was opened, and a large number disposed of to new and old shareholders, the money on which was all sold to the highest bidder, bringing a little above the average premium.

The usefulness of this institution to our city, has been amply proven by its success, successful not only in profits to its shareholders, but in making the path easy for many a deserving young man to become the owner of a home, at a payment each month of about the sum heretofore paid for rent.

The directors of the bank are composed of some of our most prominent citizens, who generously give their time and efforts to the pauperizing position. The few remaining shares in the fifth series, dating September, 1890, not taken at the meeting Tuesday evening, may "Is there anything you want?" asked the ship steward of the sea-cuck man. "I wish to moaned he. "What is it?" The earth."

Catarrh

Is a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous. "I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of the medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.
"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

The Best Advertising.
The most efficient advertising in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla is that which comes from the medicine itself. That is, those who are cured by it, speak to friends suffering similarly, who in turn derive benefit and urge others to try this successful medicine. Thus the circle of its popularity is rapidly widening from this cause alone, and more and more are becoming enthusiastic in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla as it actually demonstrates its absolute merit. All that is asked for Hood's Sarsaparilla is that it be given a fair trial. If you need a good blood purifier, or building up medicine, try Hood's Sarsaparilla.
A Spring Medicine.
The druggists claim that people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick headache, discovered by Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring without water to draw out the strength. It sells at 50 cents a package and is called Lane's Family Medicine.
Boston, Aug. 26, 1889.
Dr. Solomon has cured a cancer on my lip of seventeen years standing, it was cut out twice by what they call cancer surgeons at intervals of six years, after being cut out each time I knew by the feeling it was still there, and it would be now if I had not been so fortunate as to have Dr. Solomon treat it, he did it without any cutting. I would urge those afflicted with cancer not to delay but to go at once and be cured permanently as I have done. My dear Doctor I thank from the bottom of my heart.

Syrup of Figs.
Produced from the laxative and nutritious juice of California figs, combined with the medicinal virtues of plants known to be most beneficial to the human system, acts gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels, effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds and headaches, and curing habitual constipation.
The usual treatment of catarrh is very unsatisfactory, as thousands of despairing patients can testify. A trustworthy medical writer says: "Proper local treatment is positively necessary to success, but most of the remedies in general use by physicians afford but temporary benefit. A cure cannot be expected from snuffs, poultices, douches and washes." Ely's Cream Balm is a remedy which combines the important requisites of quick action, specific curative power with perfect safety and pleasantness to the patient.
A Baby Saved!
Since birth my baby had running sores all over his head, and the doctors said that he must die, for they could not heal them. I used everything I ever heard of, but it was no good. He got so bad that he would not nurse. My husband's sister told me to try Sulphur Bitters as she had great faith in them. I used a bottle and the sores commenced to heal. After using two bottles more, the sores all healed and I considered my baby saved.—Mother, Concord, N. H.
A Cure for Pimples!
My face for the last few years was covered with pimples so bad, that I used to be ashamed to go anywhere. I took two bottles of Sulphur Bitters and the pimples disappeared. I use them every spring.—C. K. Dow, Fall River.

THE NEWTON GRAPHIC HAS BEEN CONSOLIDATED WITH THE GRAPHIC

THE CAUCUSES.

Both parties have held their caucuses and elected delegates to the various conventions. The Republican caucuses were held Saturday night, in a driving rain storm, and yet the senatorial question caused them to be quite as well attended as usual, some of them even beating the record in the number present. Ward One, for instance, had an attendance of 33, which is about three times the usual number; Ward Seven had 18, Ward Two about 25, and Ward Three less than a dozen.

The result on the senatorial question is said to be three wards for Mr. Gilman and three for Mr. Walworth, with the delegates from Ward 3 instructed for Mr. E. W. Wood, who thus hold the balance of power and can dictate their own terms. It now remains to be seen whether the delegates will be able to unite, or whether there will be the usual division.

For the other conventions there was no contest, although it is said that Col. Olin is the favorite for secretary of state, he having many warm friends in Newton, who would like to see the honor come to him, and have the old soldiers recognized on the state ticket.

The Democratic caucuses were held Tuesday night and were fairly attended. The list of delegates will be scanned with interest, as there is some curiosity to see who are the new accessions to the party. The new plan of having ward caucuses is said to have worked in a very satisfactory manner, and it will probably be adopted, as the regular thing.

The Congressional delegates are said to be in favor of Mr. E. B. Haskell by a large majority, and there is no doubt but that if nominated Mr. Haskell would carry Newton, local pride would be sufficient for that. Mr. Haskell would be an ideal candidate and would stand a better chance of success than any other candidate who is in the field, if he could be induced to accept the nomination. Failing Mr. Haskell, Moses Williams seems to have the most friends among the Newton delegates, although George Fred Williams of Dedham is not without friends, who admire the courageous way in which he made his single-handed fight against the West End lobby scoundrels. The Newton delegates ought certainly to get together and make an effort to unite their forces in favor of a Newton man.

COL. OLIN'S CANDIDACY.

The candidacy of Col. Wm. M. Olin for Secretary of State is one of those movements that seem to be spontaneous, and is meeting with the most friendly reception from the people. He is abundantly qualified for the position from his four years' service as secretary to Govs. Talbot and Long, where he performed important service for the state; his seven years' experience in reporting the legislative proceedings for a Boston paper, which brought him in contact with the eminent public men of the state, whose respect and esteem he won by his capacity, discretion and absolute integrity.

His service in the war of the Rebellion also entitles him to consideration, he having enlisted at the age of sixteen, and served his three years at the front in a fighting regiment, being present in every battle and skirmish in which his regiment took part, and his record makes him popular with all the veterans.

One especial argument in his favor is that he is not the candidate of any ring, as may be seen from his active supporters in this city, among whom are Col. E. H. Haskell, Col. F. Kingsbury, Adjutant S. A. Rantlett, and Mr. W. S. Slocum. The other candidate, Mr. Howland of Chelsea, was Speaker Barrett's chief lieutenant in the fight for the speakership, and his candidacy is said to mean a bold move on the part of certain ambitious men, who want to control the Republican party in this state, with the ousting of Senator Hoar and the putting of their man in as one of the objective points.

Speaker Barrett's paper pretends that he is afraid there is a ring behind Col. Olin, although it knows this is pure humbug, and the character of the men behind Mr. Howland's candidacy makes the Record's course very amusing. As the Milford Journal says, the Record "ought to be above the plan of trying to build up one man by unjustly pulling down another, and that, too, in a way neither manly nor fair."

Of Col. Olin, it may with justice be said that he is not the candidate of any class, clique, or ring, in or out of the Republican party; nor is he self-nominated. Of unquestioned capacity and integrity; of high personal character; always a Republican; a typical volunteer soldier of the rank and file, honored with preferment by his old comrades in arms; in the prime of life, and with every faculty unimpaired; of agreeable presence and address; with a wide acquaintance, and universally popular; he is brought forward by those who know him best as the strongest candidate for Secretary of State who can be put on the ticket.

THE STREET RAILWAY.

The Board of Aldermen have voted to require the Street Railway Company to remove its tracks on River street to the center of the street, the order being carried by a majority of one. The company has been unfortunate in its delays in starting the electric cars, as they started the cars when they promised, in the early summer, this action would probably have not been taken. But the numerous delays seemed to imply that there will be plenty of time for the moving of the tracks before the electric system is ready for operation. The company is, however, not responsible for the delay, although they suffer from it, it is the Waltham Electric Light Company, which has not yet been able to get its new engine in position. The moving of the tracks will be a great relief to the River street people and they are indebted for this to Aldermen Bond and Johnson, who made a stubborn fight to have the order reconsidered, and with the aid of Aldermen Pettie and Hamblen passed it.

The electric cars on Washington street, it might be said, are not so much of a nuisance as was feared. To be sure they do not as yet run very often, but they run quietly, and are hardly to be distinguished from the other street noises unless one is watching for them. They do not frighten horses to any great extent, the majority of horses paying no attention to the car, and the others seeming to be easily quieted by their drivers. The cars are managed very carefully, and if a team appears alarmed, the car is stopped. So far, the cars do not seem to interfere with the driving on Washington street, and they are liberally patronized by citizens, residents on Waban and Walnut Parks, and Bellevue streets finding them very convenient, and when they run more frequently, the convenience of course will be greater. As soon as the cars run on rainy days and evenings the advantage of having a street railway will begin to be appreciated, and it is hoped that the new engine will soon be in readiness.

THE COUNCILLOR CONTEST.

Waltham is in the field for the Councilorship and will present the name of Col. Ephraim Stearns. The other contestants are Mr. Fuller of Cambridge, the present incumbent, and Mr. Campbell of Chelsea, but Chelsea has had the position twice and Waltham never, so that by courtesy the position belongs to the city of Waltham instead of the dead city with the very lively politicians.

The Free Press gives Col. Stearns a handsome endorsement and says:

"The position is purely a business one and a successful business career of a quarter of a century qualifies him for the position. Always active in Republican politics, for many years a member of the town and city committee, a portion of the time its chairman, asking now for the first time, the support of his fellow citizens for the only office he has ever sought, he merits and should receive the support of the entire Waltham delegation. He has not announced himself as candidate before because he could not see his way clear to giving the requirements of the office such attention as they should have from the gentleman elected to fill it. Matters have been so arranged however that he can discharge the duties properly if elected, and he comes before the delegates of the convention for their support."

The agitation for free coal and iron ore has gathered such headway that even the Boston Traveller endorses it and speaks about reciprocal trade with Canada as essential to the prosperity of New England. This indicates how the movement is progressing and gives hope that the day may come when some of the twelve New England senators may wake up to the fact that they are sent to Washington to legislate for the interests of New England. The only way to secure such legislation as New England's business interests demands, would seem to be to do as the Pennsylvania interests do, keep a well paid and efficient lobby in Washington, who would see committees that are making up tariff bills, and bulldoze them into framing proper measures.

Mr. J. R. Leeson of this city has been at Kineo, Maine, this week, and from there writes to the GRAPHIC, giving Mr. A. C. Walworth the following handsome endorsement:

"I am glad to see that your usual correct discernment of the right course has guided you in reference to our State Senator. No more suitable man could be selected than A. C. Walworth. He is an excellent example of the scholar in politics and in business, and is by education, experience and character admirably fitted to do the fullest justice to himself and the position. It is to be hoped that your appeal for unity of purpose will be heeded, that we shall thus secure a senator who will fill the position with credit to his own and satisfaction to his district, as Mr. Walworth cannot fail to do."

We have received a circular urging the repeal of the tax on oleo-margarine, and the statement is made that over ten million pounds of the imitation butter is consumed in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. The stuff must be getting popular, if such is the case, and will soon cease masquerading and be able to assume its own name. What people objected to was the being compelled to eat the oleo when they thought they were eating genuine butter, and this was the chief reason for the tax. Had the oleo makers sold their product for just what it was, there would probably have been no demand for a tax.

The Untaxed Ballot League is the name of a new organization formed in Boston this week. It starts off with a membership of 150 well known citizens, and Hon. William Claflin of this city is one of the vice presidents. Its object is to secure the abolition of the tax qualification now imposed on the franchise in this state, and it aims to be strictly non-partisan in character. An address to the voters will follow in a few days, and all who sympathize with the purposes are invited to become members.

According to the Boston Democrat, there is no telling just who will be the Democratic candidate in the Ninth District. It mentions with approbation the names of Hon. Leverett Saltonstall of this city, S. N. Aldrich of Marlboro, Jerome Jones of the well known firm of Jones, McDuffie & Stratton, and Moses Williams, all of Brookline. Rather curiously, however, the Democrat omits to speak favorably of Geo. Fred Williams of Dedham, but perhaps want of space forbids, and his endorsement will come later.

The Washington correspondent of the Traveller telegraphs that Commissioner of Pensions Raum has got to go, as he has been engaged in transactions of such a nature that ought "to procure his dismissal, if he hasn't the decency to resign." The Traveller correspondent forgets that Speaker Reed is not in favor of putting Raum out, and he has considerable influence at Washington.

SPEAKER REED says "the result is more than I ever anticipated in my wildest dreams," and he seems to have taken Mr. Blaine's place as the favorite son of Maine. The Maine people make no half way work in supporting a favorite son, and unite in his favor with a unanimity and enthusiasm that is worthy of imitation.

The Watertown Republican caucus instructed their delegates to oppose the nomination of Mr. Gilman of this city, and it is said that they will present Mr. S. S. Gleason as their candidate.

GEN. BANKS did a great thing for Watertown in securing the passage of the appropriation for dredging the Charles. Few of the younger congressmen could have done as well.

REPRESENTATIVE RANLETT has declined the customary second term, on account of his health, so that there will be two new representatives to be chosen this fall.

Resolutions.

At a meeting of the Newton Veteran Firemen's Association held on Friday evening, Aug. 29th, the following resolutions were adopted on the death of Mr. Wm. E. Fuller:

—There will be a meeting next week, Thursday, at the Newton Club, to decide on the future policy of the club, whether to erect a new club house, or to enlarge the present one.

—Meeting of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Universalist church Sunday evening at 6.30. Subject, "What does it mean to have his love to the sinner?" References, Romans 5, 1-11; 1 John 4, 10.

—Next Sunday is communion at the Central Congregational church, and the pastor, Rev. D. H. Taylor, will preach morning and evening. The first session of the Sunday school will also be held.

—Mr. Chas. Kinder of Clifton street with his two sons, Hadley and John, have been passing the week at Newport, N. H., where they have been fishing and gunning. They brought home a fine string of trout.

—Mayor Clifford of New Bedford and the city government of that city were in town Tuesday to inspect the Gamewell police signal system, and Mr. W. H. Mendell entertained them at lunch at the Newton Club.

—Mr. and Mrs. James H. Wright of Nevada street left Thursday for Mr. Clemens, Mich. Mrs. Wright will visit friends in Chicago during her absence and Mr. Wright intends to go as far west as California.

—Mr. F. S. Amidon has returned from his summer at the Pawnee House, Martha's Vineyard, to his home in this city. It has been the most successful season the hotel has ever had, and Mr. Amidon has added to his well deserved popularity.

—Mr. and Mrs. L. E. G. Green have the sympathy of many friends in the loss of their youngest child, Samuel Eliot Green, who died Tuesday. The funeral took place from the residence of the parents, Watertown street, yesterday afternoon.

—The following list of letters remain uncalled for in the Newtonville post office: Mrs. Cotton, Miss Lulu Curran, Mrs. M. A. Johnson, Eddy Kelly, Miss Louisa McGowan, Miss Mary A. McKillop, Mrs. Robie G. Whitman, for week ending Aug. 30.

—Messrs. Fuller & French have leased Mr. Mitchell's house, Highland avenue, to Mrs. Webster of New York; Mr. Rollins' house, Otis street, to Mr. J. Davis, Boston; Mr. Mitchell's new house, Court street, to Mr. J. M. Peals, Boston; Mr. Leonard's, Eddy street, to J. E. Trowbridge.

—The boys' club of the Universalist parish, banded under the name of the "King's Sons," meets every other Thursday under the leadership of Masters Edgar Hale and Harry Williams, president and vice president, and have Alfred Fuller and Oscar Locke for secretary and treasurer.

—Some children who have shared in the past the benefit of the Fresh Air Fund, but this year beyond its help because of their mature age of twelve years, were kindly invited to spend Sunday with friends here, taken to a pleasant ride and otherwise refreshed and sent home with pleasant thoughts to brighten the dull routine. Happy thought for more people to act upon.

—The "Lend a Hand" Society of the Universalist parish is doing excellent work in practical charities, though in a quiet way, and its meetings are held the first and third Thursday of each month. It has for its president, Mrs. R. A. White; vice president, Miss Rosie Cunningham; secretary, Miss Susie Bigelow, and Miss Emma Park for treasurer.

—Mr. and Mrs. William McAdams and daughters returned from a very pleasant trip to the Franconia and White Mountains on Monday evening, having had a fine weather, been specially favored with a magnificent sunrise view from the Summit House and a clear day to descend, plenty of buckboard driving and varied mountain climbing and the society of a delightful Raymond party.

—The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the Universalist church resumed its meetings last Sunday evening. There was a very good attendance and evicted earnest desire to make this new year more successful even than the last. The officers are: Pres., N. B. Buxton, Jr.; Vice Pres., A. Eugene Bartlett; Rec. Secy., W. Henry Goding; Cor. Secy., Rosie E. Cunningham; treasurer, Geo. W. Trowbridge.

—Mr. M. E. Campbell and Miss A. G. Cunningham of Upper Falls, while driving up Washington street, had their horse frightened by an electric car on Monday. The car was stopped and a man caught the horse, but it continued to buck and both ladies were thrown out. One of them was quite severely hurt. They were taken into Mr. Henderson's house, and afterwards sent home in one of Mr. Cate's carriages.

—Rev. R. A. White preached on Sunday morning from the text found in 1st Corinthians 16, "But we have the mind of Christ." There was a large congregation in attendance to welcome their pastor home again, and he seemed to have returned to his duties with a deeper earnestness and added dignity, a more devout spirit than ever. The opening service of the new church year was characterized by the pleading of life and energy, to the following in the way, set by the pastor in his supreme and beautiful example, and if the spirit imbues the people as deeply as it does their leader, much good work should be the result. Communion followed the sermon.

—The electric car ran off the track at the switch near Parsons street, Tuesday morning, and as the car weighs over five tons there was a good deal of trouble in getting it on again. The electricity shed, and the switch astride the broomstick only drove the wheels deeper in the dirt, while two of the passengers who took hold of the iron platform railing to push received a smart shock. Finally Superintendent Henderson and his workmen brought jacks and planks and the car wheels were once more placed on the track, although two trips were lost. The darkness Tuesday afternoon caused such a demand for light in Waltham that the car had to be taken off at an early hour.

—The board of aldermen have decided that the railway tracks on River street must be moved to the center of the street, and the petitioners who have not yet obtained their gravel will have to pay more for it now.

—Alderman Bond and Representative Bartlett left Newton Tuesday for New York and Wednesday for New York and New York, where they will make a brief stay, and return on the next steamer, arriving home about Oct. 10th.

—Mr. N. T. Allen has returned from Luken, Me., with his family, and the Allen school opens this year more prosperously than ever. The family pupils have so increased in number, that an annex is to be opened next week, in another house.

—Mr. S. R. Urbino has returned with his family from Germany, to make a permanent home in West Newton. He is remodeling a house owned by him on Auburn street, before taking possession. He will receive a warm welcome from his many old friends.

—Samuel Barnard has negotiated a lease of Mrs. Young's house on Lenox st., to Mr. H. A. Cleveland, for a term of 3 years, at a lease of one of Mr. G. A. Wall's stores on Chestnut st. to Mr. L. A. Hall, of Charlestown, who will open a first class grocery store.

—The pastor of the Congregational church resumed his pulpit last Sunday morning. Next Sabbath he will preach the young upon "open ears." A Sabbath school praise service will be held in the chapel in the evening, at 6 o'clock. Most of the summer absentees have returned.

—The St. Bernard's have raised $100 and will challenge the Walthams to play either one game of a series of games, the place of contest to be agreed on later. Manager Duane of the Walthams has not yet received official notice of the challenge but says the Walthams will be on hand and feels confident that the team will capture the prize. One of the stipulations of the St. Bernard's is that none but Waltham residents will play with the Walthams.

—A tent of Daughters of Veterans, an organization similar in purposes to the Sons of Veterans, was formed in Good Templars Hall, West Newton, last Thursday evening, nearly twenty young ladies being in attendance. The tent will be installed next Thursday evening, and the commander, Mrs. M. C. B. Buxton, Jr., and the captain, first and second lieutenants of J. Wiley Edmonds Camp 109 will be invited to attend. The charter list will contain some twenty-five names. The Daughters of Veterans have been in existence for several years and have a large membership in Ohio, where the order was first started, there they have their national headquarters. The tent just organized is the first in Massachusetts with one exception, there being one started in Dorchester but a day or two before this. The person who has most active in bringing about this organization is Color Sergeant Kimball of J. Wiley Edmonds Camp, and he is to be congratulated on his success.

—The "Flower Mission" has sent to the Woman's Prison at Sherburne, each Saturday this summer, 250 bouquets each accompanied by a text. The energetic benevolence of Miss Strong has been the main agency in accomplishing so much.

—Mrs. Chas. Darling has moved into the house on Maple place, lately occupied by Mrs. Parker.

—Mr. Joseph Lee of the Woodland Park Hotel, is to have charge of the restaurant in the new apartment house to be built on Commonwealth avenue, near the Vendome in Boston.

—It is an interesting fact that four daughters of Auburndale are at home this summer with their children from different mission fields. Mrs. Alice Gordon Gulick from Spain, Mrs. Jennie Hill March from Syria; Mrs. Sandford Winsor from India; Mrs. Cornelia Williams Chambers from Erzrum. They will all remain a year.

—The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hill tendered them a pleasant reception and bon voyage at the residence of Mr. C. C. Buxton, Jr., last week, Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Hill depart for Japan the first of next week, where Mr. Hill has taken a position as agent of the American Missionary Board. They will be greatly missed here.

—Mrs. Alice Gordon Gulick, who has established a successful boarding school for girls at San Sebastian, Spain, is expected to give a brief address at the W. C. T. U. Convention to be held in the Congregational church, Auburndale, next Wednesday. Mrs. Gulick is a daughter of James M. Gordon Esq., of Auburndale, and has been a missionary in Spain for seven years. The convention program is given on second page.

—At the meeting of the Newton Boat Club, Tuesday evening, to decide whether to enter a bowling team in the field this season, and to act on the report of the building committee, the attendance was so small that it was decided to call one more meeting for a decision in these matters. An action was postponed to Wednesday evening, Sept. 17. This is the third call for this same thing, and it is desired that each member of the club earnestly endeavor to be present at this meeting that an expression of the mind of all the members may be given on the matter of a clubhouse, and an enlargement of the clubhouse.

—Miss Gertrude Briggs and Mr. Edward Ruthven Barnes were married Thursday evening in the Congregational church. The pulpit platform was tastefully decorated with golden rods, palms and hydrangeas. At 8 o'clock the bride party entered the church, the bride leaning on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Merrill Briggs. They were preceded by six ushers. Following the bride came the maid of honor, Miss Susie G. Fuller, the little bridesmaids, Miss E. Barnes of Cambridge and Amy P. Fiske of Auburndale, and two youthful pages, Masters Statute Sprague of Auburndale and Fred Collins of Dorchester. The bride was met at the pulpit by the groom, who was attended by his best man, Mr. Walter B. Gooding of Winter Hill. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. Faunce, D.D., of West Newton, assisted by Rev. Calvin Cutler, pastor of the Auburndale Congregational church. The bride was attired in white faille fringed with duchess lace, cut on the train, wore the usual long tulle veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses. A reception for the families of intimate friends was held at the residence of the bride's uncle, corner of Melrose and Ash streets, at the close of which Mr. and Mrs. Barnes departed on their wedding tour. Upon their return they will reside in Auburndale.

—Visitors to Boston this month should see the collection of unique pieces of furniture from all parts of the world, on exhibition at Paine's Furniture Warerooms, 48 Canal street, Boston, opposite the Boston & Maine Depot. You can buy there this week the outfit for an East Indian Bungalow, an Esquimaux Hut, or a Fifth Avenue mansion.

Lasell Seminary.

Lasell Seminary has this summer turned away for want of room about as many as she was able to take. The demand on her rooms seems to be greater than ever. One new teacher takes her place, Miss M. E. Tappan, in the department of English. The principal's private rooms have been filled with pupils and many are on the waiting-list.

The principal's party for a trip round the world in eight months, Mr. J. Chamberlayne has charge. The experience of a former absence for a similar length of time proves that the school will move forward without loss or harm. Parents may feel sure that the work which has made Lasell so widely known will be thoroughly and earnestly done as it is. The principal was present. It is one of Mr. Braddon's principles that no institution should be dependent upon any one person for its success, and a well organized school will move steadily on in its accustomed work. Mr. Braddon, of Evenston, and his wife, and Miss from Ohio, Ohio, Ohio, Pa. Special effort will be made to visit the Mission Work.

For instance, lamp-chimneys; but there is a sort that almost never breaks, except by violence. It takes some pluck for a grocer or crockery-merchant to sell it. One chimney may last for years; he may starve before he can sell another.

Macbeth & Co., Pittsburgh make that chimney and call it "pearl-top;"  there's a string of pearl-like beads on the top of it.

—Quite a number from this place are expected to enter the new wigwag of the Improved Order of Red Men, which is to be set up at Newton Highlands next, and for whom a charter list may be found with Station Agent Holden.

—An announcement of great interest in religious circles at Chestnut Hill will be made at the Chestnut Hill chapel on Sunday morning. The nature is a profound secret as yet, but it is of great importance to the residents in that village.

—Next Sunday evening after a short praise meeting Rev. W. R. Clark, pastor of the Newton Centre M. E. church, will deliver the first of a series of Sunday evening discourses upon the "Decalogue." All are welcome.

—List of advertised letters remaining at the Newton Centre post office: Misses Eliza and Ellen Beals, Mr. Charles Bissell, Miss Dodsworth, Segn. Clifton Donnelly, Mrs. John Dunsley, Miss Breta May, Mrs. C. M. Peck, Mrs. Julia Stanley, Miss Mary Swift, Andrew A. Weir, Esq.

—Mr. G. B. Sherman was present at the explanation of the degree work of the Order of Red Men that was given in Mechanics' Hall, Boston, Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the great council of Massachusetts. There were chiefs from all parts of the United States present, and an attendance of over 3000 Red Men.

—Mr. Benjamin Goddard died at Chestnut Hill on Wednesday. He was a well-known Boston merchant, who with his twin brother Nathaniel, graduated at Harvard in 1831, and inherited the East India trade of their father; neither of them marrying, they continued their home association and their mercantile union until the present day.

—Dr. C. W. Cain, eldest son of Mr. J. H. Cain the artist, left Boston on Saturday, Sept. 6th, for London, Eng., there to engage in dentistry. He is a young man of energy and ability, and it is hoped he will be successful in his new field. The past two years he has been practising in Boston. His family and numerous friends went to the steamer to see him off and wish him a safe voyage. He sailed on the steamer Favonia of the Cunard line.

—The new Catholic society are very active just now in raising funds for the erection of a church on their recently purchased site, and are meeting with liberal contributions. Hon. Levi C. Wade heading the list of contributors with $100. The church will be built early in the spring. The boundary of the new parish is as follows: From the West Newton line over the street, down Walnut to Mill, up Mill to Centre, Centre to Cotton, over Cotton, down Waverley avenue to the Brighton line.

—The ball club has not been playing lately on account of the absence from town of a number of the players. Last Saturday, however, there was to have been a game but the rain prevented it from taking place. Tomorrow afternoon the Cliftons will visit the Centre and will play their third game with the home team at half past three on Walworth's field. As each club has won a single game a close contest is looked for and it is hoped the seats provided for the spectators will be well filled. The visiting club, it will be remembered, is the one that played here on Memorial Day and the present game was arranged at the request of a number of those interested in base ball matters, who wished to see the Cliftons play again.

He was born in Boston and had always lived there until a year ago, when he moved to Newton Highlands. During his entire business life he had been in business as a commission merchant at Faneuil Hall Market and on Commercial street, and was well known among old Boston merchants. He was quite well known in military circles, and was a member of the Boston City Guard, of the Ancient and Honorable, of the Bostonian Society, the Veteran Firemen's Association and St. An-draw Lodge of Masons. The funeral took place Thursday at St. Paul's church, Newton Highlands, and was well attended by relatives and friends of the deceased, including a number of business men of Boston. Previous to the services at the chapel prayers were offered by the Rev. W. G. Monroe, rector of Christ Church, Boston, who also conducted the Episcopal burial service at the chapel, assisted by the Rev. W. H. Williams, rector of St. Paul's Church. The floral display was profuse. The pall bearers were: John L. Stevenson of the Ancient and Honorable, John S. Damsell of the Boston Veteran Firemen's Association, Edward C. Deliver of the Boston Merchants, and Dr. Charles Green, Thomas Sherman and F. C. Welch of St. Andrew Lodge of Free Masons. The Boston Society and the above organizations were represented by large delegations. The burial was in Newton Cemetery.

Y. M. C. A.

The meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last Sabbath partook of a social character. The president and secretary of the association related some instances of their summer vacation and spoke of the many ways in which they had received help. Others followed in the same line and the time was well occupied.

The meeting next Sunday will be in charge of Mr. Hiram Leonard. Mr. Seymour Eaton has kindly consented to resume the Thursday evening class in the Y. M. C. A. room Eliot Block. New and interesting ideas have been considered by him, and will be introduced in these meetings to make them both pleasurable and profitable to all. Come next Thursday evening and help the good work and be helped yourself.

Daughters of Veterans.

A number of the young ladies of Newton who are daughters of veterans, will meet in Good Templars' Hall, West Newton, on Thursday evening, Sept. 18, at 7.42, for the purpose of forming a tent of Daughters of Veterans. All daughters interested are cordially invited to be present and join as charter members.

Marriage Customs.

Throwing the slipper after a departing bride couple originated with the Jews. There is a story in the twenty-fifth chapter of Deuteronomy, fifth to tenth verses, about a widow refused by the surviving brother who asserted her independence by "loosing his shoe." The story of Ruth is that it was the custom in exchange to deliver a shoe in token of renunciation. And when Boaz became possessed of his lot the kinsman's kinsman indicated his assent by giving Boaz his shoe. When the Emperor Vladimir proposed marriage to the daughter of Ragnald, she rejected him saying, "I will not take off my shoe to the son of a slave."

In Brittany a curious matrimonial custom prevails. On certain fine days the young ladies appear in red petticoats, with white or yellow bonnets around them. The number of borders denotes the portion the father is willing to give his daughter. Each white band, representing silver, denotes 100 francs per annum, and each yellow band denotes gold and betokens 1,000 francs a year. Thus a young man who sees a fair girl please him has only to glance at the trimmings of the petticoats to learn what amount accompanies the wearer.

Ward 1, to be sold at auction Sept. 27, by

Abner T. Crowlidge & Co., as advertised in another column.

—Dr. H. F. Titus has decided to engage in the practice of medicine in Newton, and has opened his office at his house on Richardson street. His office hours are given in another column.

—Miss H. P. James, now of Wilkesbarre,

Pa., returned from the Librarians' convention, to-day, and will spend ten days in Newton, the guest of her sister, Mrs.

Benjamin Merritt.

—The pet crow of Elmwood street was kidnapped last week. We hope the man who took the trouble to descend from his roost for this purpose, will return him to number 37 when he gets ready.

—The frequent rains have done one good thing, and the grass is greener than in the spring, and gives a delightful setting to the landscape about Newton, or it will be delightful when the sun comes out again.

—Dr. Frisbie has raised some large to-matatoes this year, but one he picked yesterday failed the prize. It weighed two pounds. The variety is not known, but the plants were obtained of J. J. Johnson, the florist.

—There will be a directors' meeting of the Poutroy Home, Sept. 26, at 3 o'clock, p.

m. at the house of the treasurer, Mr. W.

W. J. G. Gurney of Lewiston, Me., who has purchased the house now occupied by Mr. Ballou, hopes to take possession soon after Oct. 1st.

—During Dr. Shinn's absence this summer he witnessed the Passion Play at Ober Ammergau in Bavaria. He has been requested to give an account of his visit there in Grace church on the coming Sunday night. At this service Gonou'd

"There is a green hill far away" will be sung.

—Inspector Henthorne had charge of the carriages at the Wheeler-Donkin wedding

at the Baptist church, Tuesday evening, and managed the difficult task with a great deal of skill and without mishap. The street was blocked half the way to the railroad, so large was the number of carriages.

—The gentlemen interested in getting up a company to manufacture ice in this city met at the Newton Club, Tuesday night and talked over matters, finally appointing a committee to look further into the matter.

If the committee will only wait a couple of months or so they can have their ice made for nothing.

—Dr. Reed and Mr. F. O. Barber returned

Thursday from their fishing trip in Eastern Maine. They had rains every day, but they had good luck with pickerel and bass, and had a very pleasant time. The steamer they came home on had some thousand of cases of French sardines, made from Maine herrings and packed in pure olive oil made out of cotton seed. All the sardine factories in Maine are now running on full time and some 40,000 cases are shipped every week from Eastport.

—There was a meeting at Channing church, Tuesday evening, to talk over the formation of the new Unitarian Club. Owing to other engagements and the weather, there was only a small attendance present, and on motion of Mr. R. A. Ballou

it was voted to have a paper prepared which those who wish to become members can have an opportunity to sign, and the meeting adjourned for a date in the near future, when it is hoped to complete the arrangements.

HEARING RELATIVE TO A PROPOSED STABLE ON BROOK STREET.

A meeting of the board of Aldermen was held in the City Hall, Tuesday evening, Mayor Burr in the chair.

A petition from W. B. Dowse and others for the laying out and acceptance of Temple street was presented by Alderman Harbach and referred to the committee on highways.

A petition from Mrs. H. R. Clark for concrete walks on Baldwin street was also referred to the highway committee.

Petitions of W. B. Dowse and others for four new street lights on Temple street; of D. B. Slade for two street lights on Hammond street and of Rev. Fr. Dolan for a street light on Adams street were referred to the committee on fuel and street lights.

Permits were granted to J. E. Levesque to erect a wooden shed, 24x12, on Dalby street and to C. E. Hatfield to erect a wooden building to be used for a barn on Cherry street.

Notifications of intention to build were received from Amos L. Hale of a wooden dwelling house, 27x40 1-2 on Oak street; from Patrick Shea of a wooden dwelling house, 20x30 on Chapel street; from H. M. Beal of a wooden dwelling house, 25x40, on Dickerman road.

A petition from N. H. Chadwick and fifteen others for repairs on Walnut street, between Washington and Water-street, was referred to the committee on highways.

Alderman Coffin for the committee on public property reported that the new Claffin schoolhouse had been completed and that it was ready for occupancy as soon as the necessary desks and fixtures had been placed in position by the authority of the school board. He stated that the committee had accepted the building, having made the customary inspection. The report was accepted.

At 7:45 o'clock the board took a recess. The Mayor appeared at 8 o'clock, the hour fixed for the hearing relative to the erection of a stable on Brook street.

Mr. Jesse C. Ivy appeared for the petitioner, Fred V. Smith, and requested the privilege of substituting for the original petition one which would conform to the requirements of the ordinance and which provided for the erection of a brick instead of a wooden building.

The petitioner, Fred V. Smith, in answer to Mr. Samuel L. Powers, who appeared for the remonstrants, stated that the lot where it was proposed to locate the stable contained about 11,000 feet. It was proposed to add to the lot a brick stable 40x50 for boarding purposes with accommodations for 15 or 20 horses. Mr. Clapp, the owner of the remodeled laundry building adjoining the proposed stable site, continued Mr. Smith, had stated that he had no objection to the locating of a stable on the place named. In answer to Mr. Ivy the petitioner stated that there would be 50 feet clear space each side of the proposed building.

Mr. Powers briefly outlined the position of the remonstrants. He said that Brook street ran from Elmwood street to the line of the Boston & Albany Railroad. The houses on the street, he added, were not large or of the best class. They were average dwellings in most cases owned by their occupants. The lots were comparatively small and the houses, therefore, set close together. The owners of the lots were desirous of protecting the neighborhood and an endeavor had been made to improve the property. It is felt that the erection of a boarding stable will tend to decrease the value of real estate in the vicinity and that it cannot be conducted without becoming a nuisance during certain seasons of the year. The petitioner proposes to enter into competition with livery stable keepers who claim that their business could not be conducted with profit except through the additional revenues received from the livery and livery business. It would seem that there is no demand for such a stable and its erection in the locality proposed would be a serious injury to the property holders and residents in the vicinity. Every land owner in the vicinity is opposed to the granting of the request of the petitioner to locate a stable on the lot which he has selected. The land for the proposed stable site is in litigation and its ownership in dispute. Judge Bolser claims to own it and a man named Edmunds of Framingham also claims to possess a title to the property. Judge Bolser objects to the stable and Mr. Edmunds is in favor of it. It looks a little like a scheme to force the sale of the land, as the residents and land owners would rather buy it than allow the erection of a stable upon it.

Mr. Ivy to Mr. Powers. Is there not an old bakery and remodeled laundry building in the immediate vicinity of the proposed stable site? Mr. Powers—I believe that there is a remodeled laundry building there. Mr. Ivy—What sort of houses are there on the street? Mr. Powers—A very fair class.

Presenting the remonstrants side of the case, Mr. Powers called on Rev. F. B. Hornbrook who appeared for Mrs. Carrier, the owner of the house which he occupied. A short time after I moved into the house which I now occupy, said Mr. Hornbrook, a neighbor built a stable very close to my dining room window and the owner of the estate was given no opportunity to remonstrate. The stable could just as well have been located on the opposite side of the lot. The building of that stable has injured Mrs. Carrier's property for rental between $50 and $100 a year, in case of her being obliged to find another tenant. If the stable were on the stable there will make a difference of $1000 in the selling price. Now it is proposed to put a boarding stable in the rear of the estate. If the plan is carried out, Mrs. Carrier's property will be seriously injured. It is not my desire to stand in the light of any young man who wishes to engage in an honest business, but the question is whether the right of the widow, who is depending upon the income derived from her property for the support and education of her family, should be taken into consideration. It seems to me that it would be far better to turn the scale in favor of the widow and orphans.

Mr. Clapp of Wellesley was next called upon. He said that he had stated that he had no objection to a small, private stable. He did not mean a boarding stable to which he seriously objected. If the petitioner is granted the right to erect a stable on the lot property, continued Mr. Clapp, I should be willing to sell my property on the street for $2000 less than it is assessed for. A boarding stable would greatly depreciate the value of the property in the vicinity.

Mr. Ivy in summing up for the petitioner said that the spot selected was a very suitable site for a stable. The street which has been alluded to is really a by-way and not a public street. The land is very low and the houses of the poorest class in Wards 1 and 7. There is an ancient bakery on the street, a remodeled laundry building and several shops in the immediate vicinity occupied by blacksmiths and carpenters. The young man who petitioned for the location proposed to put up a good building, and to give his personal attention to the business which will be conducted in the least objectionable manner. The question of a title in litigation should not be considered by the board, as the petitioner will pay for the land and will naturally be carefully to protect his own interests. At the conclusion of Mr. Ivy's remarks the hearing was closed.

H. B. Allen was granted leave to withdraw on a petition for permit to erect a private telegraph line on Eldredge and Park streets.

An order offered by Alderman Harbach was adopted appropriating $270 for water mains in Clinton and Webster streets.

An order offered by Alderman Feano was adopted authorizing the placing of two additional street lights on Highland street.

Mayor Burr announced the list of ward officers and the same was laid over until the next meeting for confirmation.

UNDER THE HAMMER.

LAND VALUED AT $10,000 SOLD AT WABAN.

Twenty-four house lots in that part of Newton known as Waban were sold at public auction Saturday afternoon by James F. Hyde and Elliott J. Hyde, auctioneers. The land is situated on Varick, Agawam and Carleton roads, and is a portion of a tract recently purchased by Samuel Hano for purposes of improvement. The attendance of purchasers was not large, owing to the weather. Fair prices were realized, and the sale aggregated about $10,000. The following is a list of the lots sold, the purchasers, and prices paid:

Lots 324 and 302, containing 30,242 feet, John H. Lee, at 2 1-2 cents per foot; lot 608, 17,826 feet, John H. Lee 2 7-8 cents; lot 609, 18,902 feet, John H. Lee, 3 cents; lot 612, 17,294 feet, J. W. Saunders, 2 1-4 cents; lots 610 and 611, 36,584 feet, C. H. Hale, 2 1-2 cents; lot 607, 17,152 feet, C. H. Hale, 2 3-8 cents; lot 602, 18,425 feet, C. H. Hale, 2 3-8 cents; lot 301, 17,200 feet, C. H. Hale 2 1-8 cents; lot 603, 9545 feet, C. H. Hale 2 cents; lot 322, 22,619 feet, W. C. Bryant, 3 cents; lot 323, 26,308 feet, A. Platts, 2 3-4 cents; lot 325, 13,401 feet, F. B. Sanborn, 2 1-2 cents; lot 325, 14,430 feet, J. H. Lee, 2 7-8 cents; lot 296, 10,150 feet, W. P. Yerrington, 2 5-8 cents; lot 326, 15,431 feet, W. P. Yerrington, 2 3-8 cents; lot 304, 10,000 feet, C. Deeseo, 2 3-4 cents; lot 307, 10,502 feet, W. A. Leonard, 2 3-4 cents; lot 328, 14,140 feet, R. S. Paine, 2 1-4 cents; lot 300, 10,970 feet, L. E. Leland, 2 3-4 cents; lot 606, 14,536 feet, W. R. Marie, 3 1-4 cents; lot 605, 9313 feet, Max Bimbaum, 2 1-2 cents; lot 604, 11,916 feet, H. W. Crowell, 2 1-2 cents.

Lend a Hand.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:

Will you give me space in which I can call the attention of the people of Newton to a charity which well deserves their countenance and support?

Last winter several ladies of West Newton organized a society calling it "The Lend a Hand," and devoting themselves to the boys from the street. They hired and furnished a room, and every evening instructed, entertained and amused the boys by readings, music and games. They wish to enlarge their work the coming winter, and besides caring for the boys, wish to give one half day to teaching girls to sew and mend, who have no other opportunity of learning; also to have a room where the young men who have no suitable place can spend their evenings and have innocent games, readings and perhaps instructive lectures; fourthly, to care for the sick and poor, repair and put in order cast off clothes sent to the committee for the use of the poor.

The society has hired four rooms on Washington st., near the Post Office in West Newton, for the purpose of these charities. Now they need furniture for these rooms, books and magazines for the men and boys. They need money for rent, heat and light. Those who have been asked have responded generously, wonderfully so, but begging, though for an object as worthy as this, is not a pleasant task, and will those who have abundance out of that abundance lighten the way for those who are walking through the shadowed paths of life?

Those who will contribute furniture, books and magazines, can ascertain what is needed by applying to Miss Caro Field of Waltham street, West Newton, or Miss Alice Morton of Elm street, Mrs. Herbert E. Burrage of Prince street, is treasurer of the society, and will gladly receive any money donated to her for the use of "The Lend a Hand."

NEWTON TARIFF REFORM CLUB.

The Tariff is a Humbug.

Every person interested in the subject of the tariff is cordially invited to take part in the discussions carried on in this column. Respectful consideration will be given to inquiries, criticisms and communications of every kind whether coming from Tariff Reformers, Free Traders or High Protectionists. Address Secretary of the Tariff Reform Club, Newton Centre, Mass.

A Piratical Tax.

Our word "tariff" comes from Tarifa, a port in Spain, where the Saracens, when in command of the Mediterranean, levied a piratical tax on all commerce. At first they seized vessel and cargo. Later, they only demanded a tax of 25 per cent. Our tariff has been taking 47 per cent, and the McKinley bill will increase it to more than 50. The Tariff tax had to go. So the tariff tax will have to go when we become more civilized.

Under the Tariff.

A dollar's worth of bar iron costs $1.82. A dollar's worth of boots and shoes costs $1.37. A dollar's worth of cotton cloth costs $1.49. A dollar's worth of woolen cloth costs $1.71, and under the McKinley bill it will cost $1.90. A dollar's worth of worsted cloth costs $1.07, and under the McKinley bill will cost $2.00. Ready made clothing costs $1.54 for every dollar's worth, and under the new bill will cost $1.84.

A Hole in the Bottom.

The protective tariff is a bucket with a hole in the bottom. The money that is poured in at the top, is gathered from the people of the whole country, but passes through the bottom into the pockets of a few individuals.

An Unnecessary Tax.

We are at the present time importing seventy odd millions of pounds of tin plate every year, at a cost of $20,000,000, and a duty of $7,000,000. The consumers of tin in the United States pay $27,000,000 for the amount of the article they use every year, and the proposition in the McKinley bill is to add $9,000,000 to the tax and make them pay $36,000,000 per annum for their tin.

The treasury doesn't need the extra revenue; there is no tin industry whether in esse or in posse to encourage; there are no tin makers in the United States, to secure high wages to. Why, therefore, should the users and consumers of tin, be made thus to pay an extra tax on it? The increase of the duty would be a serious blow to the growing of fruit and vegetables; adding immensely to the cost of canning, of tin roofing, of kitchen utensils, and even to the humblest laborer's dinner pail.

The Farmer's Position.

Manufactures, says the Protectionist, cannot live in this country without the tariff. We do not believe it. But it is, nevertheless, the Protectionist's position. Manufactures cannot live without the tariff. That is to say, they are naturally unprofitable in this country. "We could not sell our goods, in the competition of an open market. But put a duty on importation so that we can raise our prices and net twenty-five per cent more than we could in the open market, and we shall flourish." But the duty paid on imports goes to the government, and hence does not help the manufacturer directly. His "protection" consists in a bonus, in the shape of an increase of price on goods, which are not imported. But whence comes the bonus?

This is a very simple question; but the protectionist is so dextrous in eluding the point that we may venture to be entirely explicit. There are but three conceivable sources from whence the protection bonus can be drawn:

1. The foreigner who pays duties; 2. The protected industries; 3. The unprotected industries.

Now, does the bonus come from the foreigner? No; the duties collected from him are turned over to the government. Does it come from the protected manufacturers? No; they get it.

Then it must come from the unprotected industries. The unprotected, naturally profitable, agricultural industries are taxed to sustain the protected industries—compelled to make up their losses and pay besides what the protected manufacturers are pleased to call their profits.

The protectionist dissents. Two peas and two peas make four peas—theoretically. But if you rattle them up in a box, and have your box big enough to let them rattle a long way around, you will presently find five peas, and maybe a few beans. As things for plain, practical business men. Why, don't we manufacturers pay our portion with the rest? The latter pays his twenty-five per cent to the shoe maker, the shoemaker pays his twenty-five per cent to the hatter, and out of the increased prices we are all able to pay the farmer more; everybody gets higher profits, and it is a good thing all around.

Again let us be explicit. Suppose we have a community consisting of glass manufacturers, mine owners and farmers. The farmers hoe their own row, asking odds of nobody; but the glass manufacturers, and mine owners demand a bonus of $50 a year each. How, on the protection plan, will they get it? It would be as barefaced a steal to levy a tax on the farmer alone. They will not do that.

They will avoid the appearance of unjust discrimination by putting a tax on all consumers of glass and coal; they will make all purchasers of glass and coal contribute alike—$100 each—to the protection fund.

Very fair, his looks. Every man is taxed $100 a year; $50 to foster the glass trade and $50 to foster the coal trade. But mark the singular result:

The mine owner pays in $100; the glass manufacturer pays in $100; the farmer pays in $100. Every man taxed alike! Total revenue $300.

But now for division. The mine owner receives $150, the glass manufacturer receives $150, the farmer—nothing.

Marvelous financing! All are taxed alike! Yet the glass manufacturer and the mine owner are ahead $50 each, while the farmer—his industry is not fostered.

The Home Market Fallacy.

The nearest estimate that can be made of the value of the agricultural wealth of this country is based upon the valuation of farms, farm animals, farm implements, and machinery. The ownership of the land, its improvements, the ownership of all the stock upon the farm, the ownership of all the tools and machinery necessary to run it, constitute the farmer's capital. In 1850 the farmers of this country owned $3,907,343,58-of property. In 1890—mark this—they had increased their aggregate wealth from the sum named to nearly eight billions, or, to be more exact, $7,950,493,093, a little more than doubling the original capital in ten years, and showing by calculation a net increase of about 101 per cent. In 1870 they had increased from $7,980,493,093 to $11,124,958,747; not quite 40 per cent. In 1880 they increased from $11,124,958,747 to $12,701,001,538, or only about 9 per cent. Between 1850 and 1890 we had the lowest tariff and the lowest rate of tax collections that we have had in this country for the past seventy years. Between 1870 and 1880 we have had the highest we have ever had. Between 1850 and 1890 the farmers of the country more than doubled their wealth, and between 1870 and 1880 they accumulated but 9 per cent. increase.

In 1880, after more than ten years of profound peace and unexampled prosperity, ten years of the largest accumulations of wealth that New England has ever seen, the wealth of her agriculturists fell off from $707,000,000 to $671,000,000, a loss of over $36,000,000; while the same figures demonstrate the fact that the largest relative or percentage gain in agricultural wealth was during the low-tariff period between 1850 and 1880.

The labor markets of the world are open to the American manufacturer, who thus has free trade in the one thing he buys most of—labor. He lives in a land where transport facilities are so developed that he need not depend upon the locality about him—and he does not—in a country whose surplus of food products is so great that their first price-fixing markets are found at Liverpool, a free trade city—and so he gets them, at the free trade rates. The American farmer has sold his birthright and has lost his postage to boot.

The Home Market theory may be briefly stated as follows: If you farmers will only give us manufacturers enough money to enable us to go into business, and will consent to pay prices high enough to make it possible for us to continue our business at extraordinary profits, we will agree to buy our supplies—what we must have from some source—from you at low and steadily diminishing prices—if we can't get them cheaper elsewhere.

What the American farmer most needs is a "Home Market" in which he can purchase his supplies as cheaply as his competitors purchase theirs; and if he cannot secure this, then he should have the poor privilege of making his purchases where he is compelled to make his sales, and be permitted to bring his goods home without being compelled to pay unreasonable taxes and fines for carrying on legitimate business.

We Need Free Raw Materials.

We have the richest natural resources, the best machinery, the most productive workmen in the world. Why don't we make more goods and sell them to the world, and keep our present workmen employed and increase their number, so that there will be more demand for food and plenty of money to pay for it? The reason is that while American labor is the cheapest of any in the world in proportion to its product, the tariff makes the raw material used cost us more than to any one else in Christendom; hence we cannot make goods cheap enough to sell in competition with foreigners; and this dearth of raw materials arises not from their scarcity, but because of their abundance, which has tempted their owners to get legislation compelling their countrymen to buy of them under heavy fines, but not compelling them to sell reasonably to their countrymen. It is the owners of iron ore and coal, of lumber forests, of copper and nickel, and lead and salt mines, that God put in the ground for all mankind, who make them a curse instead of a blessing to the land. Given free raw materials, so that mine and forest owners here could not make their own prices, but must sell to their countrymen as cheaply as their countrymen can buy elsewhere, and there is almost no limit to the possible expansion of American export trade.

Brookline Tariff Debate.

The Democratic and Republican town committees of Brookline have finally agreed to hold two tariff debates. The date announced for the first is Wednesday evening, Oct. 1, at the town hall, Brookline. The merits of the following question will be discussed:

Resolved, That American labor is entitled to protection by the tariff in the production of those commodities which are capable of producing in quantity and economy to regulate home market prices, whether such commodities be crude or finished products, and that other products, whether crude or finished (luxuries excepted), which we cannot so produce, should be admitted free of duty to relieve our people from unnecessary taxation.

The Legislative Lobby.

The Boston correspondent of the Hingham Journal writes: There is one other organization, one legally established by the present legislature, to which I wish to attend. I refer to the body to be known as "Legislative Advisers," who will form no unimportant part in the legislative history of the session of 1891. It is expected that before the assembling of the State convention, Col. Tom Marsh and Major Bob Nichols will call a caucus for the purpose of selecting and recommending such persons for the approval of the party, to be endorsed by the party when the legislature meets. George Fred Williams unwittingly did a good thing when he opened the way for the establishment of a legitimate lobby. The real leaders of the lobby for the past half decade or more are men of brains and judgement and discretion, and they will see to it that the legitimate lobby is so eliminated that all bunnies, disreputable fellows, hangers-on of party and professional liars will be shut out from the halls of legislation.

If I am not far out of the way in my calculations there will be more important matters brought before the legislature of 1891 than for many years previous. Much of the loose and unwarranted legislation of past years has got to be revoked or amended, and under the sanction of the legislature the reorganized lobby will per force be important features in both instances.

"I think photography is very interesting," she said to a young man who is in that line. "Yes it is." "I should like to have you make a picture of me." "With pleasure." "How would you prefer to take me?" He looked at her with a face that showed deep thought and then replied, slowly but in a firm voice, "For better or for worse, by all means."—Washington Post.

THE SENATORSHIP.

WALTHAM IN EARNEST AFTER THE CANDIDATE.

(Waltham Free Press.)

The next matter of contest which Waltham shares with other municipalities is that of the senatorial nomination. It is clearly understood that Newton will be in the field with three candidates this year as in 1888, consequently it is clearly conceded that Newton will lose the nomination. Indeed it is even said that the factional fight waxed so strong in the Garden City that some of her partisans would prefer to have Newton lose the nomination rather than have it go to either of the other Newton candidates. In this event there is no reason why Waltham may not step in and take the nomination. It is understood that Nathan Warren and H. S. Milton are candidates for Waltham, and that both gentlemen say the only proper way to decide which name shall be presented is to have a caucus of Waltham delegates and decide it before the convention. An entirely friendly feeling exists between these gentlemen and the successful man is sure of the entire strength of the Waltham delegation. It is evident that this is the only course to pursue and there is no doubt it will be taken. One thing is certain—Waltham's delegates to all the conventions should stand shoulder to shoulder. Our thirteen men, entirely united, acting harmoniously are more than a match for double their number who have no leader nor any settled plan of battle. The only way Waltham to take a place commensurate with her importance is to have her delegates present a solid front. There should be no pledging on the part of individual delegates to the support of any special nominee, at least until it is fairly assured who is in the field. Let not all should any man pledge himself to the support of any candidate or any plan a year in advance. Remember Waltham must stand by its own men first and stand unitedly for whoever it supports.

It is astonishing how rapidly the feeble and debilitated gain strength and vigor when taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. For what are called "broken-down constitutions," nothing else has proved so effective as this powerful but perfectly safe medicine.

The use of calomel for derangements of the liver has ruined many a fine constitution. Those who, for similar troubles, have tried Ayer's Pills testify to their efficacy in thoroughly remedying the malady, without injury to the system.

THE NEWTON GRAPHIC HAS BEEN CONSOLIDATED WITH THE GRAPHIC

THE DRILL SHED.

There has been a vigorous search the past week after the remains of that resolution about the High School Drill Shed, referred to the public property committee some six months ago. It has never been reported and the general public want to know whether it had a decent and respectful burial.

Here it has rained ever since school began and it has been impossible for the boys to drill, and no one knows how many more rainy days we shall have during the time the boys are supposed to drill out of doors. If no drill shed is to be built then military drill might as well be given up, for it can only go on at great disadvantage under present conditions. Other cities are adopting military drill and the general sentiment seems to be that it is an excellent thing. The old prejudices against it are gradually wearing away, as experience shows its benefits, and it would be a shame for Newton to give it up now.

That the drill shed is a necessity is generally admitted and the proper place for it is on the High School land, in immediate proximity to the High School building, so that on rainy days there need be no marching through the mud and wet to get to it. There has been some talk about combining the drill shed with other projects, but those most interested in the school have about come to the conclusion that this is inadvisable, as there is danger of nothing being done about either. If we wait for a memorial hall there will be no drill shed for a year at the least, and probably for more than that, as a memorial hall, to be worthy of the name, could not be built in a hurry. The drill shed is needed at once, and the $10,000 asked for that purpose could not be better expended by the city in any other way. It is hoped that the public property committee will make up their minds to report favorably and at once.

There is some interest over the question of representatives, as Newton will have to nominate two new men this year, owing to Representative Ranlett's declination. Ward One could have the nomination if it desired, as that section has never yet had the honor, but the ward has no candidate to present this year. The name of Mr. W. F. Slocum, father of our city attorney, has been suggested, and the city would certainly be fortunate if it could secure such a man. His years of experience, his high character and standing, would make him prominent in any body of men, and he would naturally have a great influence in the House. The legislative records of the past few years, with their disgraceful lobby scandals, show that there is need of having older and wiser men at the front, as the young fellows who have been trying to run things have made a bad mess of it. Newton, with its wealth and standing among the cities of the state, ought to be represented by its best men, and there is no question but that Mr. W. F. Slocum stands very near the head of those who would come under this list. The time is very near when representatives will have to be selected, and it would be a good idea to see if Mr. Slocum could be persuaded to accept a nomination.

The most important church news that has transpired in Newton for a long time was announced at the morning service at St. Andrew's church, Chestnut Hill, on Sunday last. Some generous friend, who does not wish his name to be known, has given this church a lot of 17,000 feet on Hammond street, and will erect thereon, free of cost to the parish, a handsome church, so that this youngest of the Newton parishes will soon have a house of its own. The members of this parish were so encouraged by the announcement that they have resolved to build a rectory, and nearly $3,000 has already been subscribed. St. Andrew's is at present but a small parish but the generous gift will probably enable it to have a settled minister, who can devote his whole time to the parish, and in such a beautiful suburb it will not probably be many years before the vacant land there is built upon, and the new church becomes one of the most flourishing in the city. Judging from what the Chestnut Hill residents said a year ago, they are only waiting for high service to be introduced, which will be this fall, to start a building boom similar to the numerous ones that are developing all parts of Brookline. People who want a house on high land and amid beautiful scenery can not find a more desirable spot, if they should search through all the suburbs of Boston.

The McKinley bill, published in full by the Boston Herald, may not be interesting reading, but it comes under the head of articles "valuable for reference".

There was a good deal of curiosity about this much talked of bill, and the readers of the Boston Journal have in vain asked for its publication. The Journal replied that it was too long, and besides, the supporters of the bill had much rather praise it without going into details. This was the course followed in the House, and the debate allowed in the Senate was so disastrous, as to show the wisdom, if such a bill is to be passed, of rushing it through without giving much chance for a too curious study of the bill and the reasons for the increase in duties. The twine manufacturers of this state feel very badly about the way they have been treated, but they should remove to Pennsylvania if they wish to have their interests looked after. The Herald showed great enterprise in giving up so much space to the bill, and the moral of it seems to be that if people wish the news they must take the Herald.

The Republican state convention renominated Governor Brackett, Lt. Gov. Haile and Treasurer Marden without a contest, but there was a lively fight over the other offices. The nomination of Col. Olin over Mr. Howland was a triumph of the people over an ambitious ring of politicians, and shows what can be done when the people at large take hold of a candidacy. Attorney General Waterman was defeated by A. E. Pillsbury, as the former did not resort to any campaigning for a renomination, but trusted to his excellent record while in office. Auditor Ladd did the same thing but was beaten by Major J. Henry Gould. Messrs. Waterman and Ladd represent the old fashioned days of politics, when it was considered undignified to "hustle" personally for an office, but their ideas are not suited to modern times, when if a man does not shout pretty loudly for what honors he wants he is apt to be left. Auditor Ladd's careful and conscientious work for the state was so well recognized that his defeat created surprise, and the change can hardly be considered an improvement, although it is hoped Major Gould will keep up to the standard of his predecessor.

Those who would like to know where Congressman Candler stands on the reciprocity question can find out all about it from the definition of his position which he gave to a Washington reporter.

The success of reciprocity depends upon circumstances. If we are to pass laws intended to bring it about, and our people think there is nothing to do but sit down without labor and without endeavor and expect it to become a great success, they will discover their mistake. There must be conditions first, and to my mind they are all embodied in the postoffice bill establishing swift and regular lines of steam mail service. The development of our commerce will follow as a natural result. So far as the general principles of reciprocity are concerned, I am in favor of them.

That appears to cover the whole ground, although as it was made before the state convention, Mr. Candler could not of course be at all definite and had to make his views "depend upon circumstances".

CONGRESSMAN GREENHALGE may justly be called one of the leading men and a representative speaker of the Republican party, and voters should not fail to compare his eloquent address with the equally eloquent speech of Hon. John E. Russell at the Worcester convention. The latter may be called a representative Democrat, and a comparison of the style and the matter of the two speeches, at the two state conventions, can not fail to have an educating influence. Both are favorite campaign speakers, or they would not have been chosen for convention orators, and it is the duty of the intelligent voter to study current politics with the same care and disinterestedness as he would study the politics of a remote period, and in fact it is only in this way that a man can vote intelligently.

THE Democratic convention nominated the old ticket at Worcester, without any contests to make it exciting and it can not be denied that their platform more nearly expresses the sentiments of a large number of Republicans than the one adopted by the latter party. Evidently the Democrats had the advantage of having an experienced newspaper man to write it out, and put things in shape, so that it is a very readable document. Nevertheless political platforms count for very little in a campaign, as the people have a very clear idea that they are merely designed to catch votes, and it is hardly probable that the two platforms will have much effect on the voters. Now that the nominations are made the campaign music can begin, although the greatest battle will be in the congressional districts, in which the nominations are yet to be made.

THE Gamewell Company continues to gather in the orders for their Police Signal System, and have now secured the city of New Bedford, over which there has been a long and vigorous contest. The mayor of New Bedford and the city council came to Newton and saw our system and tested its workings, after which of course they awarded the contract to the Gamewell Company.

The mayor of Waltham has appointed seven commissioners, under the laws of 1890, and that city seems to be getting ready for business, in connection with the metropolitan system.

THE Republican Congressional convention is called for Wednesday, Oct. 8th, at 10 a. m. at South Framingham.

In another column will be found one of Rudyard Kipling's famous stories.

Newton Street Railway.

The good news that the Newton street railway is about ready to begin running their cars on half hour time will be appreciated by Newton people. The cars from West Newton to Newton, although running only once an hour, have had a surprisingly large patronage and on most of the trips the cars are well patronized. As the cars pass directly by the GRAPHIC office they are very convenient for our Newtonville and West Newton patrons, and with more frequent trips they will give a great boom to business on the north side of the track.

The new Armstrong & Simms' engine for which the company has been waiting so long has arrived at the Waltham Gas Company's works, and steam was turned on Wednesday afternoon. It will have to run a day or two to test and adjust it. The dynamo must also run a day or two with and without the load, and the belt has yet to arrive.

The company hope to run experimental cars on Saturday, and start regularly on Sunday, but the company have had so many vexatious disappointments that they don't like to make an absolute promise.

Chairman Coffin Entertains.

The Newton Republican ward and city committee met by invitation at the residence of Mr. C. Bowditch Coffin on Bellevue street, Thursday evening, and after considering routine business, they were treated to a handsome collation. After again receiving a unanimous vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Coffin for his generous hospitality, to which he responded in a brief speech, and then the committee talked over the conduct of the coming campaign, and discussed the question of holding rallies in the different wards. It was stated that Congressman Candler will speak twice in Newton and other good speakers are promised. The Newton and Boston papers were represented and heartily endorsed Mr. Coffin's plan of holding committee meetings, and did not wonder that a place on the committee is considered almost as great an honor as a place in the city council. The members present were Chairman C. B. Coffin, Secretary H. C. Wood, Messrs. R. S. Forknall, K. W. Hobart, L. A. Hall, J. T. Allen, H. V. Pinkham, G. H. Williams, M. G. Crane, R. H. Gardner, S. W. Jones, J. W. Mitchell, H. S. Toland, W. M. Sanders, J. F. Frisbie and W. S. Houghton.

Building Lots at Woodland.

Messrs. James F. C. Hyde and Elliott J. Hyde are to continue their efforts to develop the city of Newton by an auction sale of building lots at Woodland station, September 27th, on what is known as "The Darling Estate," on Washington street, Gould road and Vista avenue. These lots have been laid out under the skillful direction of Mr. E. C. Smith, and they vary in size from 8,000 to 14,000 feet; they are within five minutes walk of the Woodland station and about the same distance from the Woodland Park Hotel, are on high land with a fine view, and in one of the most desirable sections of Newton.

The Darling Homestead will also be offered at the same time. The terms and full particulars are given in the advertising matter on the first page, and it will pay investors and those who are looking for a building lot to attend.

The Senatorial Question.

The delegates to the senatorial convention, which is called to meet at Waltham, Sept. 20th, at 4 p. m., held a conference at Hon. Levi C. Wade's office in Boston, Thursday afternoon, to see if any agreement could be reached. The delegates were all present, and as the Ward Four men, Messrs. Ingraham and Glover, about whom there was some dispute, both voted for Mr. Gilman, he had a majority over Mr. Walworth. The latter therefore, withdrew his name, and it is said that the delegates made Mr. Gilman their choice by a unanimous vote, and will go to Waltham united.

—Mr. C. C. Rice has returned from Lisbon, Me., where he has been passing the summer months.

—Mr. Henry Ross had a severe chill this week, which has interfered with his progress toward health.

—Rev. R. A. White will take for his text Sunday morning, "The Destruction of the Poor is their Poverty."

—Mrs. Charles Cunningham and family, Walnut street, have returned from their outing at Ware, Mass.

—Officer Sonie has been on duty at West Newton a portion of the week owing to the illness of Officer Libby.

—Mr. and Mrs. Stiekney have returned from a trip to Burlington, Vt., much benefited by the rest and change.

—The Darling Estate near Woodland station has been put up for building lots and will be sold at auction, Sept. 27th.

—Mrs. Chisholm of Washington park is visiting friends in North Adams. She will also visit relatives in Bennington, Vt.

—The residence of Donat McDonald, Highland street, was recently entered and a pair of sleeve buttons stolen, valued at $50.

—Miss Jeannette A. Grant has returned to East Northfield where she resumes her duties as teacher in the Northfield Seminary.

—Rev. E. E. Davidson, the evangelist, left here this week for Great Bend, Pa., where he will conduct a series of revival meetings.

—Miss Ethel Eaton left here Tuesday for La Haute, Colorado, with the laymond excursion party. She will join her father in Colorado.

—Mr. George W. Morse's residence, recently remodelled, was wired this week for electric lights. Mr. Morse is a believer in electric devices.

—Meeting of Y. P. S. C. E. of Universalist church, Sunday evening at 6:30. Subject: "Be patient, what does the Bible say about patience?"

—Mr. W. S. Slocum was one of the committee on permanent organization at the Republican state convention, representing the ninth district.

—Miss Josephine Talbot and Master Richard Hunt are two new pupils at Mr. Andrew Wellington's kindergarten school on Harvard street.

—The first of a series of evening services in the vestry of the Universalist church, will begin Sunday evening at 7:30. Subject "The Home Life."

—Newton Royal Arch chapter will install its recently elected officers in Masonic Hall, Tuesday evening. After the ceremonies, a collation will be served by Paxton.

—Mr. G. H. Loomis has returned to his residence on Lowell street. His friends are glad to see him home again, and note the gain his summer's outing has afforded him.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jordan and daughter were guests a short time since of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Fay of Springfield, Mass., making a short but very delightful visit.

—A meeting of the Art Committee connected with the Universalist fair, was held at Mrs. W. F. Kimball's, Harvard street, last Friday afternoon, and work arranged for the autumn.

—Mrs. Geo. Talbot and Mrs. Chas. Curtis gave a lunch at the Newton Club, Tuesday afternoon. The tempting menu and congenial company made the occasion a very pleasant one.

—Mr. P. S. White LeBlanc and Miss Fannie M. LeBlanc whose engagement was announced recently, will be married at 9 o'clock a. m. next Wednesday, at the Church of Our Lady.

—The annual convention of the Universalist churches, will be held at Orange, Mass., Sept. 23, 24, and 25. Messrs. H. B. Parker and Austin T. Sykes will represent delegates from the Newtonville society.

—The following letters remain uncalled for at the Newtonville post office: Hans M. Aftel, Richard Bird, C. B. Brooks, Ann Grant, Nellie Hayes, Katie McInnis, Daniel P. Moran, Miss M. Wright.

—The office of J. C. Fuller & French is being enlarged to give more room for the business department of the Newton Cooperative bank. The bank quarters will be neatly fitted up and other improvements made.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Briggs and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Briggs, Jr., have returned from their ten days trip through the White Mountains. In spite of the rainy weather they had the most fortunate and pleasant sun rise and set while on Mt. Washington.

—The Universalist church reunion takes place Tuesday, September 30, and it is expected to be a very interesting occasion. Letters will be read from former pastors, and temporal and spiritual refreshment and entertainment of a high order will all the evening.

—It is suggested that the school board elect Rev. R. A. White as the successor of Mr. Dickinson, and the suggestion is fairly an admirable one. Rev. Mr. White is much interested in educational matters, and would be one of the most useful members of the board.

—A special meeting of the Newton Club will be held at the Clubhouse, Newtonville, on Thursday, the 25th inst., at 8 o'clock, p. m., for the purpose of considering the expediency of building a new Clubhouse, or, increasing the present accommodations. A full attendance is earnestly requested.

—An excursion to Crawford House, White Mountains, has been arranged for Sept. 27-29, under the auspices of Mr. Ida Council, 1247 R. A., in which all their friends are invited to join. Fares at a very low figure. Particulars obtained by addressing Edward Sands, George F. Churchill or H. A. Boynton, committee of arrangements.

—Miss Chisholm, a daughter of Mr. Alexander Chisholm, has accepted a position as teacher in the Westfield high school. Last year she taught successfully in the high school at North Adams, and recently she received a flattering offer to cross the Atlantic, to accept a position in a London educational institution.

—A very fine report was had from the chairman of the various committees in charge of the fair, to be held in December by the Universalist society, at its meeting on Saturday. The committee will meet next Monday evening, Sept. 23d, in the church parlors. The fair will be the largest and indications are the most successful ever held by the society.

—The annual meeting of Gethsemane commandery, K. T., was held in Masonic Hall, Tuesday evening, and the following officers elected for the ensuing term: R. G. Brown, generalissimo; Charles A. Peck, captain general; John W. Fisher, prelate; James B. Fuller, treasurer; Asa C. Jewett, recorder; George E. Breeden, senior warden; Dr. Albert Nott, junior warden.

—That Rev. R. A. White has an increased salary this year is a matter of congratulation, and with added duties and a growing congregation is hoped another year may note still another gain. There are many new comers in the city and this the Universalist church in the Newtons. Those of the faith are cordially welcomed, but enlarged membership means increase of work for the pastor in various ways.

—A meeting of all the committee on the Universalist fair was called last Saturday evening, but owing to the storm many were prevented from attending. Next Monday evening, Sept. 22nd, it is hoped all may be present at the chapel at 7:30 o'clock. The fair will take place the first week in December, second, third and fourth afternoons and evenings, and will no doubt be as attractive and successful as they have been hitherto, owing to the kindness of patrons and the zeal of the workers.

—The deputy sheriff of Biddeford came here last week and caused the arrest of R. M. Johnson, ex-tax collector of that city. He was taken in custody last Thursday evening by Officer N. F. Bosworth and turned over to the Biddeford officer who started at once for the state of Maine with his prisoner. Johnson is charged with the embezzlement of city funds. The Biddeford assessors claim that there are discrepancies of about $5000, not accounted for by Johnson during his term of office. The arrest is a surprise to people here, especially to Mr. Johnson's family. Mrs. Johnson thinks that there is some misunderstanding, and that the matter will be cleared up satisfactorily. Mr. Johnson owns property in Biddeford.

—Rev. H. A. White preached last Sunday from the text found in Mark, viii, 12: "Why does this generation seek a sign? Verily I say unto you there shall no sign be given unto this generation." The speaker drew vivid pictures of the wicked working Christ, the Christ who cast out evil spirits, raised the dead, healed the lame and blind, turned water into wine, walked upon the sea and bade the tempest obey him, and more and more the people of the future will be not so much a miraculous as a more human Christ than of old, and the people of today do not, so much as in the past, need to see miracles.

—The Christ whose tenderness for little children was so beautiful, the Christ whose love and sympathy in the house of sorrow, whose thoughtful care was for His mother, who in His supreme hour upon the cross, whose patience and encouragement for the weak and tempted; this Christ who commended the prayer of the contrite publican, appeals to all humanity.

—Mr. W. A. Spinney and family will board for the winter at Newton Centre, and their house on Webster street will be offered for rental furnished.

—The police department is a unit on one thing at least—the merits and demerits of the police signal system. On other subjects, there is, however, a wide diversity of opinion.

—The police raided a few suspects last Saturday, paying a visit to the houses of Thomas Mullen on Adams street and Ellen Kelly on Pleasant street, capturing a small quantity of whiskey at each place.

—Mr. W. A. Allen was called to Granville, Nova Scotia, a little over a week ago, to attend the funeral of both his aged parents, who died within two days of each other. Eight children and thirteen grandchildren survive them.

—Rev. J. R. Barrett is expected home Saturday. He has been recuperating at Old Point Comfort and Newport, and has travelled as far south as Norfolk, Va., taking in New York City, Washington and Baltimore. His health has greatly improved as a result of his vacation trip.

—John McLean, who recently returned from a sojourn in the house of correction, has gone to stay again, and will be there for a month. He got very drunk Saturday and assaulted his wife, finally being arrested and locked up by Officer Ryan. For third offense of drunkenness he got three months and thirty days additional for the assault on his wife.

—William Prescott would be a good man for assistant superintendent of streets, provided civil service rules rather than politics prevail in the appointment of a successor of the late Mr. Fuller. He is competent, thoroughly honest and reliable, a good citizen and a man who would prove a capable and efficient successor.

—The marriage of Miss Clotilde Ober, a daughter of the well-known Boston restaurateur, and Mr. Charles B. McCormick of Boston, takes place in St. Bernard's church, Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. Following the ceremony there will be a reception and wedding breakfast at the residence of the bride's father, at Islington.

—Installation of the officers of Daughters of Veterans, Tent No. 2, was held at Good Templar Hall, Thursday evening, by Mustering Officer A. S. Kimball. Following are the officers: Pres., Miss Emma Park; Sen. Vice Pres., Mabel Park; Jun. Vice Pres., Miss Lamson; Sec., Miss Deda Hyde; Treas., Miss Tilly Canavan; Trustees, Miss Isabella Hyde, Miss Alice Macomber, Miss Etta Ramsdell.

—Mr. James T. Allen and party arrived home on the Aurania from Liverpool, Monday after a quick passage. The young men who accompanied Mr. Allen on his European travels had a delightful time, taking in some of the principal sights in England, Switzerland, Germany, France and Belgium. They were favored with fine weather during the trip. The party of students included Messrs. Chase, Bowker, Maston, Curtis and Knight.

—W. H. Mague has been mentioned for superintendent of streets, but that gentleman would not probably take the position unless a number of figures were added to the salary as he could not afford to sacrifice his business interests. He knows all about roads and handling laboring men, and that very knowledge enables him to derive a good income. The salary attached to the office of superintendent of streets is altogether too small.

Window Gardening—To be successful in window gardening, order prepared potting soil of H. A. Mansfield, 50 cts. per bushel. Box 111, Newtonville. 7

The Fall Exhibition at Palmer's Furniture Warehouses, 48 Canal street, Boston, takes place this month. No one should visit Boston without attending it. All the new styles can be seen and studied. A half a day can be profitably passed here. Visitors are entirely welcome, and thousands of persons attend with no thought of purchasing.

Board of Health.

The Board of Health met Tuesday afternoon. The garbage carts were ordered covered, a vote was passed ordering overcrowded tenements on Gardner street to be vacated within fourteen days. In regard to the Warren block, Lower Falls, and the Collins houses the owners were notified that the order of the board must be complied with in fourteen days, and a large number of other complaints from Lower Falls and Upper Falls were attended to. A hearing will be given John S. Potter in reference to Laundry brook at the next meeting of the board Tuesday, Sept. 30.

—Mrs. S. P. Darling has moved from Mr. Hale's house, Washington street, to her son's, Mr. Chas. Darling, Grove street.

—Mr. Churchill's house, Hancock street, is rented for a year, and Mr. and Mrs. Churchill will spend the winter in Boston.

—The Newton Boat Club have decided not to enter a large boat in this year's regatta, will of course disappoint those interested in bowling.

—Mr. F. E. Morse has been appointed one of the Professors in the new musical department of the Hartford Theological Seminary.

—Mr. Charles H. Sprague's coachman, Chas. Warren, has returned from his home in the western part of Massachusetts, where he went on account of illness.

—The opening of the seminary has caused such an increase of express business that very annoying delays have occurred in the delivery of express matter.

—Vesper services are to be held at the Congregational church next Sunday, and the choir of singing, under the direction of Mr. Sheldon, is preparing a pleasing program.

—Extensive alterations are being made in the store leased by the new market firm, by Mr. Sylvanus White. A new counting room is being put in and the other fittings replaced.

—There are some troublesome cows roaming about occasionally, who have done serious damage to a number of vegetable gardens, within a few days. No doubt the owner would be sorry if he knew of it.

—One of the horses on Stoddard's hack, driven by Charlie Knowles, tripped while coming down the concrete by the depot, Wednesday, and threw himself, bruising his side badly. A strap on the horse's leg became loose and the other foot caught in it.

—The river has been almost deserted this week by boat parties. No boats had been out from the Newton Boat Club house since last Sunday, the 14th, until yesterday, and Partelow and Robertson's have had no parties.

—Mr. Chas. Hale of Waban has been trying to secure part of the land lying between the hotel and Woodland station, for the purpose of running a street from Washington street back and out by the Woodland station, but the owner refused to sell.

—Mr. J. Walter Davis will conduct the singing at the Methodist church this winter. Under his direction the musical numbers will be rendered by a chorus of young ladies from Lasell Seminary, assisted by a male quartet. The new arrangement goes into effect next Sunday.

—The list of letters remaining in the post office is as follows: E. B. Bellows, E. Dowling, S. Edwards, Miss Della Greedy, Mrs. Chauncey Fuller, A. Gordan, Miss Maggie Perlick, Miss Mary A. Denny, J. J. McKoy, Caroline A. Priest, C. E. Stearns.

—Miss Josie Wallace of Auburn street enjoyed a surprise from a chorus of young friends on Tuesday evening, the occasion being her eighteenth birthday. The party enjoyed the evening with whist playing, the prize falling to Miss Etta Whitton and Mr. Crafts, and the booby prize to Miss Kitty Whitton and Mr. Masonic.

—Officer Quilty arrested Tuesday a young man who answers to the name of Archibald Nelson, for the larceny of carpenter's tools from George Bourne's new house on Woodbine street. Nelson had been at work on the house for a few days and was suspected by the police. Officer Quilty and Special Officer Tappley worked up the case. In court, Wednesday morning, Nelson was found guilty and fined $20 and costs.

—Mr. Wadsworth Harris, who met with such good success in his dramatic recitals at Bar Harbor this season, also at "The Algonquin," St. Andrew, N. H., the popular reciter of the English Provinces, will give by request, a miscellaneous program at Lee's Woodland Park Hotel, Auburndale, Monday evening, Sept. 22, at 8:15 o'clock. A special feature of the evening will be the reciting of H. G. Bell's poem, "The Uncle," and Bulwer Lytton's "Aux Italiens," with musical accompaniments. Humorous selections will also be given to vary the program.

—The arrivals for the week at the Woodland Park Hotel are Mr. and Mrs. Chas. B. Amory, Milton; Mrs. E. W. Bailey and daughter, Chicago; Miss E. H. Parsons, Miss A. K. Parsons, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mrs. M. P. Jostwell, Washington, D. C.; J. Stuart, Rusk, Baltimore; Mrs. J. D. Loomis, Mrs. Geo. D. Loomis, Yonkers, N. Y.; Mrs. C. G. Perrin, Kansas City, Mo.

—A meeting of the Newton Boat Club was held in its clubhouse, Riverside, Wednesday evening. The meeting was called for the purpose of discussing proposed improvements of the club building. It was voted to authorize the executive committee to contract for interior improvements, including the sheathing of the ceiling of the main room of the building and necessary alterations in the bowling alleys, at an expense of about $300. The enlarging of the main room of the house and the building of extensions to the piazzas were referred to the executive committee, with full powers, the club expressing its preference for the first named improvement, provided it was inexpedient to carry out both. It was announced that the date of the first club concert of the season had been fixed for Saturday evening, Sept. 27. The program will comprise the usual musical numbers and dancing. The date of a similar entertainment will be announced later.

—Parties out in boats and canoes near the boat houses by the bridge have been frequently annoyed, and ladies have been frightened by the carelessness of steam launches in passing near them at considerable speed, the swell from the launches very nearly upsetting canoes in several instances. Only last Sunday ladies in a boat off the Newton Club house were badly frightened by the boat being nearly swamped by the swell of a passing launch, and a canoe containing a lady and gentleman, coming down, would have been upset if the occupants had not been experienced canoeists. On Wednesday and Wednesday last, a launch in particular is handled very carelessly as regards other boats, and the attention of proper authorities ought to be enlisted in favor of the many boating on the river at this point. There is room enough for launches to run down stream. The city authorities should compel the owners of launches who indulge in passenger traffic to take out licenses in accordance with law. The owners of some of these boats are liable to a fine under the provisions of the state statute, and there is no justice in allowing such light steam craft to monopolize the boating privileges.

—Mr. Samuel Leland and wife of Chicago are here on a visit.

—Mr. C. H. Hale will have an auction sale of horses at his residence next Tuesday.

—Mr. C. H. Hale will have an auction sale of land on the Darling estate next week.

—Miss Langly has taken the position of teacher in the Hamilton school, vacated by Miss McLean.

—The work of repairing short bridge is completed and the bridge is now stronger than ever.

—The stereopticon advertised to take place in Boyden Hall Wednesday of next week, if the weather probably preventing it.

—Pupils in the ninth class at school here can attend the High school under restrictions, provided they are of good character and have a good record in their studies.

—The Friendly Aid Society held a meeting in Boyden Hall, Thursday. This society has had a large growth since organized and now comprises in the neighborhood of 100 members.

—The recent rains have put the streets here in a very bad condition. It would be hard to find as poor a street in any of the adjoining towns as Washington street is through this village.

—The Cottage Hospital building is being enlarged, an ell being added to the front. The building will then be large enough to take care of as many patients as are able to come.

—Geo. Shattuck and J. Louis Sears will start for Dayton, Ohio, Sept. 23. They will make the journey by boat a large portion of the way, taking in the cities of Montreal, Buffalo and Toledo.

—The tenement block opposite Boyden, having been condemned for some time by the board of health, will soon be removed. The condition of the block has often occasioned visits from the health officers. The work of removing will commence next month, it is reported.

The Comforts of Home.

An easy Sofa with

HIS WEDDED WIFE.

BY RUDYARD KIPLING.

Shakespeare says something about worms, or it may be gnats or beetles, turning if you tread on them too severely. The safest plan is never to tread on a worm—not even on the last new subaltern from home, with his buttons hardly out of their tissue paper, and the red of sappy English beef in his cheeks. This is the story of the worm that turned. For the sake of brevity we will call Henry Augustus Ramsay Faizanne "The Worm," although he was an exceedingly pretty boy, without a hair on his face, and with a waist like a girl's, when he came out to the Second "Shikarris" and was made unhappy in several ways. The "Shikarris" are a high-caste regiment, and you must be able to do things well—play a banjo, or ride more than little, or sing or act—to get on with them.

The Worm did nothing except fall off his pony and knock chips out of gate posts with his trap. Even that became monotonous after a time. He objected to whist, cut the cloth at billiards, sang out of tune, kept very much to himself, and wrote to his mamma and sisters at home. Four of these things were vices which the "Shikarris" objected to and set themselves to eradicate. Every one knows how subalterns are, by other subalterns, softened and not permitted to be ferocious. It is good and wholesome, and does no one any harm unless tempers are lost, and then there is trouble.

The "Shikarris" shikarred The Worm very much, and he bore everything without winking. He was so good and so anxious to learn, and finished so pink that his education was cut short, and he was left to his own devices by every one except the senior subaltern, who continued to make life a burden to The Worm. The senior subaltern meant no harm, but his chaff was coarse, and he didn't understand where to stop. He had been waiting too long for his company, and that always sours a man. Also he was in love, which made him worse.

One day, after he had borrowed The Worm's trap for a lady who had never existed, had sent it himself all the afternoon, had sent a note to The Worm, purporting to come from the lady, and to tell him the mess all about it, The Worm rose in his place and said, in his quiet, lady-like voice: "That was a very pretty sell, but I'll lay you a month's pay that I work a sell on you that you'll remember for the rest of your days, and the regiment after you when you're dead or broke." The Worm wasn't angry, at least, and the rest of the mess shouted. Then the senior subaltern looked at The Worm from the boots upward and down again, and said, "Done, Baby." The Worm took the rest of the mess to witness that the bet had been taken, and retired into a book with a weak smile.

Two months passed, and the senior subaltern still educated The Worm, who began to move about a little more as the hot weather came on. I have said that the senior subaltern was in love. The curious thing is that a girl was in love with the senior subaltern. The colonel said so long ago, that the majors snorted, and married captains looked unutterable wisdom, and the juniors scoffed, those two were engaged.

The senior subaltern was so pleased with getting his company and his acceptance at the same time, that he forgot to bother The Worm. The girl was a pretty girl, and had money of her own. She does not come into this story at all.

One night, at the beginning of the hot weather, all the mess except The Worm, who had gone to his room to write home letters, were sitting on the veranda outside the mess house. The band had finished playing, but no one wanted to go in. And the captain's wives were there also. The folly of a man in love is unlimited. The senior subaltern had been ciding forth on the merits of the girl who was engaged to him, and the ladies were up in approval while the mess yawned.

Then there was a rustle of skirts in the dark, and a tired, faint voice lifted itself: "Where's my husband?"

"I do not wish in the least to reflect on the morality of the 'Shikarris,' but it is on record that four men jumped up as they were about to go to bed, and their married men. Perhaps they were afraid that their wives had come from home unbeknownst. The fourth said that he had acted on the impulse of the moment. He explained this afterward.

Then the voice cried: "O Lionel!" Lionel was the senior subaltern. A woman came into the little circle of light by the candles on the peg table, stretching out her arms to the dark where the senior subaltern was, and sobbing. We rose to our feet, feeling that things were going to happen, and ready to believe the tales of the mess, that the world of our own knows so little of the life of the next man, which, after all, is entirely his own concern, that one is not surprised when the crash comes.

Anything might turn up any day for any one. Perhaps the senior subaltern had been trapped in his youth. Men are crippled the moment when they are not what they didn't know; we wanted to hear, and the captain's wives were as anxious as we. If he had been trapped, he was to be excused, for the woman from nowhere, in the dusty shoes and gray travelling dress, was very lovely, with black hair and great eyes full of tears. She was tall, with a fine figure, and her voice had a running sob in it pitiful to hear. As soon as the senior subaltern stood up, she threw her arms round his neck and called him "my darling," and said she could not bear waiting alone in England, and his letters were full of tears, and cold, and she was his to the end of the world, and would he forgive her? This did not sound quite like a lady's way of speaking. It was too demonstrative.

Things seemed black indeed, and the captain's wives peered under their eyebrows at the senior subaltern, and the colonel's face set like the day of judgment framed in gray bristles, and no one spoke for awhile.

Next the colonel said, very shortly: "Well, sir?" and the woman sobbed afresh. The senior subaltern was half choked with the arms around his neck, but he gasped out: "It's false! I never had a wife in my life!"

"Well," said the colonel, "come into the mess. We must sift this clear somehow," and he sighed to himself, for he believed in his "Shikarris," did the colonel.

We trooped into the ante-room, under the full lights, and there we saw how beautiful the woman was. She stood up in the middle of us all, sometimes choking with crying, then hard and proud, and then holding out her arms to the senior subaltern. She told us how the senior subaltern had married her when he was home on leave eighteen months before, and she seemed to know all that we knew, and more too, of his people and his past life. He was white and ashy gray, trying now and again to break in the torrent of her words; and we, noting how lovely she was and what a criminal he looked, esteemed him a beast of the worst kind. We felt sorry for him, though.

I shall never forget the indictment of the senior subaltern by his wife, nor will he. It was so sudden, rushing out of the dark unannounced into our dull lives. The captain's wives stood back, but their eyes were bright, and you could see that they had already convicted and sentenced the senior subaltern. The colonel seemed five years older. One major was shading his eyes with his hand and watching the woman from underneath it. Another was chewing his moustache and smiling quietly, as if he were witnessing a match, and much more in the same way. Finally the woman wound up by saying that the senior subaltern carried a double F. M. in tattoo on his left shoulder. We all knew that, and to our innocent minds it seemed to clinch the matter. But one of the bachelor majors said, very politely: "I presume that your marriage certificate would be more to the purpose."

That roused the woman. She stood up and sneered at the senior subaltern for a cur, and abused the major and colonel and all the rest. Then she wept, and then she pulled a paper from her breast, saying imperially: "Take that! and let be ferocious." It is good and wholesome, and does no one any harm unless tempers are lost, and then there is trouble.

There was a hush, and the men looked into each other's eyes as the senior subaltern came forward in a dazed and dizzy way and took the paper. We were wondering, as we stared, whether there was anything against any one of the mess, and then the senior subaltern's throat was dry; but, as he ran his eyes over the paper, he broke out into a hoarse cackle of relief, and said to the woman: "You young blackguard!"

But the woman had fled through a door, and on the paper was written: "This is to certify that I, The Worm, have paid in full my debts to the senior subaltern, and further, that the senior subaltern is my debtor, by agreement on the 23d of February, as by the mess attested, to the extent of one month's captain's pay, in the lawful currency of the Indian Empire."

The reputation set off for The Worm's quarters, and found him, betwixt and between, unlacing his stays, with the hat, wig, serge dress, etc., on the bed. He came over as he was, and the "Shikarris" shouted till the gunners, mess sent over to know if they might have a share of the fun. I think we have paid in full my debts to the senior subaltern, a little disappointed that the scandal had come to nothing. But that is human nature. There could be no two words about The Worm's acting. It leaned as near to a nasty tragedy as anything this side of a joke can.

The most of the subalterns set upon him with sofa cushions to find out why he had not said that acting was his strong point, he answered, very quietly: "I don't think you ever asked me. I used to act at home with my sisters." But no acting with girls could account for the mess display that night. Personally, I think it was in bad taste, besides being dangerous. There is no use in playing with fire, even for fun.

The "Shikarris" made him president of the regimental dramatic club, and when the senior subaltern paid up his debt, which he did at once, The Worm sank the money in scenery and dresses. He is a good Worm, and the "Shikarris" are proud of him. The only drawback is that he has been christened "Mrs. Senior Subaltern," and as there are now two Mrs. Senior Subalterns in the station, this is sometimes confusing to strangers.

Pitfall and a Snare.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC.

I can no longer refrain from calling your attention to what I consider a pitfall and a snare to drivers and horses. It is a spot on Crafts street, as you go from Washington street. Have you ever noticed the sudden pitch of the road at the west side of Crafts street? My business calls me by that spot frequently, and I have been often shocked at the danger, and surprised at the escapes of many of our horses there. Loads are pitched unexpectedly forward and horses go off at a jump downwards. Going up, the matter is worse, even when teams go meandering up as the wary experienced ones do—there is a shocking strain on the heavily burdened horses.

I am not a bit surprised at the accident which occurred there Tuesday last, when two poor men only just escaped with their lives in consequence of the terror of their horses plunging madly ahead, after the hasty jerk at the corner of the street. Gravel has been spread there occasionally, but it does no good.

By-the-way, I wonder why the Boston & Albany R. R. does not make an opening for unloading teams just in front of Crafts street, instead of a few rods to the west.

This would do away with two very serious accidents when there is such an immense amount of teaming up and down Crafts street from the B. & A. Road, from mills, lumber yards, pipe yards, etc., it strikes me it would be well to consider this matter.

Something must be done about the corner, however, or there will not always be the fortunate escape of men and horses like Tuesday.

What do you think about it? You used to have a Rambler. (did you not) connected with your paper—one who strolled about the city—doing good!

Newton, Sept. 5, 1890.

They tell this little story of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, though with needless apology based upon her age and mental infirmity. Walking in a friend's garden one day, she asked the gardener: "Have you ever set the 'Unle Tom's Cabin'?" The perplexed fellow slowly unbuttoned himself. He was unwilling to wound the sensibilities of Mrs. Stowe, and he wished to say the most for himself. And so he felt himself getting very red as he stammered: "Well, not exactly, ma'am. Not as you might say 'read it,' but I've tried to, ma'am."

WOMEN IN CONVENTION.

QUARTERLY SESSION OF THE MIDDLESEX COUNTY W. C. T. U. AT AUBURNDALE.

The quarterly convention of the Middlesex County Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held in the Congregational church at Auburndale Wednesday. Nearly 200 ladies attended, representing 40 unions in the county, located in Cambridge, Waltham, Watertown, Ayer, Groton, Pepperell, Wellesley Hills, Malden, Melrose, Woburn, Newton, and other cities and towns.

The morning session commenced at 10 o'clock with devotional exercises, led by Mrs. A. S. C. Hill. An address of welcome to the delegates of the various societies was given by Miss E. P. Gordon of Auburndale, corresponding secretary of the Massachusetts W. C. T. U., and a response made in behalf of the delegates by Mrs. Rolfe. Following the addresses, the reports of committees and superintendents were read and received, encouraging accounts being given of the progress of the work of the society in Middlesex county. Between the hours of 10.50 and 11.30 the time was given to the usual questions relating to the work of the departments—the press, Sunday work and temperance instruction, juvenile work and temperance instruction, and a response made in behalf of the delegates by Mrs. Rolfe. Save Your Hair

BY a timely use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. This preparation has no equal as a dressing. It keeps the scalp clean, cool, and healthy, and preserves the color, fullness, and beauty of the hair.

"I was rapidly becoming bald and gray; but after using two or three bottles of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair grew thick and glossy and the original color was restored."—Melvin Aldrich, Canaan Centre, N. H.

"Some time ago I lost all my hair in consequence of measles. After due waiting, no new growth appeared. I then used Ayer's Hair Vigor and my hair grew."

Thick and Strong.

It has apparently come to stay. The Vigor is evidently a great aid to nature."—J. B. Williams, Floresville, Texas.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past four or five years and find it a most satisfactory dressing for the hair. It is all I could desire, being harmless, causing the hair to retain its natural color, and requiring but a small quantity to render the hair easy to arrange."—Mrs. M. A. Bailey, 6 Charles street, Haverhill, Mass.

"I have been using Ayer's Hair Vigor for several years, and believe that it has caused my hair to retain its natural color."—Mrs. J. J. King, Dealer in Dry Goods, &c., Bishopville, Md.

SULPHUR BITTERS

The Best and Purest Medicine EVER MADE.

It will drive the Humors from your system, and make your skin clear, cool, and smooth. Those Pimples and Blisters which mar your beauty, and are caused by impure blood, can be removed in a short time, if you use the great Blood Purifier, Sulfur Bitters. It is a good, respectable New England state, of course it is different. The lawbreakers up there wear white caps, while those down south wear black ones.

Come, now, let's be fair. Shouldn't these little episodes in New England life teach us that human nature is very much the same on both sides of Mason and Dixon's line? Wherefore pluck out the beam that is in the eye of our southern neighbors while we still have quite a sizable mote bothering our own eye?—Boston Globe.

A Wild Cuban.

The most interesting inmate of Bloomingdale Insane asylum, however, is a young Cuban, whose family is an enormous wealthy one in the city of Cardenas, Cuba. He has been in the institution a year, and has improved so much that his family intend to take him home shortly.

He is a medium sized man of 23 years, with soft brown eyes, curly brown hair and a beautifully clear complexion. He does not speak a word of English, but converses fluently in Spanish and French.

When he first entered the place he was wild, and severely thrashed several of the attendants. The minute they turned their eyes away from him he would pounce upon them with the agility and ferocity of a tiger, and punch and kick them until he was overpowered. Now he has the quietest and most gentlemanly manners in the world, and receives all visitors with a courtly hospitality.—New York Journal.

On an Ocean Racer.

An Ohio clergyman thus writes of his experience on one of the ocean racers: "I have made my last trip on a racing steamer. We left thirty minutes ahead of the Tonic, and the speed maintained was terrific. On Saturday night the heat was so oppressive in the cabins that everybody had to go on deck, and it was found that the great speed had overheated the machinery; but there was no check until Sunday, when the passengers became alarmed, and the engines were slowed down to allow the machinery to cool. If the speed had been kept up for a few hours the vessel, with all on board, would have gone to the bottom."

Fighting a Wildcat.

George A. Taylor, an express messenger, had a frightful experience the other night on his run from Kansas City to St. Louis. Among the packages entrusted to his care was a box containing two wildcats. One of them got out of the box and sprang at Taylor. The messenger picked up a piece of tarpaulin, which he held in front of him, and its claws became fastened in the canvas. Taylor kicked the brute loose, but it returned to the attack again and again. At last he threw the canvas around the cat, and thus imprisoned he got hold of a coupling pin and knocked it into insensibility.—Exchange.

Baltimore's Oyster Season.

Oysters will not be plentiful until the middle of October, when the dredging season opens and the great oyster fleet, consisting of large schooners, puffers, bugeyes, etc., begins operations. A rushing business is then done about the retail wharves, and the harbor front is alive with oyster merchants and men seeking employment. The lower harbor now is well filled with craft of every description waiting the opening of the dredging season, and the prospects are very bright.—Baltimore News.

WOMEN AND GLOVES.

KID GLOVES

Good women and good gloves should be mutually appreciated, so Novels says, for both are tested by time, and their value depends upon their wearing qualities. This explains why our Five Hook Kid Gloves are such favorites. They are made of a peculiar elastic luxurious feeling kid, correctly fashioned, thoroughly finished, wear like iron, and satisfy their owner. We are going to sell them for a while at 60c a pair, and the reason for doing so is simply because we are using these hook gloves as a bait to catch your trade. See? They are in Blacks, Tans, Browns and Sables.

All the other Styles, Lengths, Patterns, and Makes, both Imported and American, in stock, at nearly as low prices. Try us.

Fast Black Hosiery is desired by everyone now-a-days. Our fast black is fast black, every thread of it. Children's and Ladies' sizes at 12c to 25c a pair.

In Fancy Hosiery our 5c a pair line is simply unique. They delight and surprise everyone. There is the Waukegan for Gentlemen; fits the foot exactly and cannot slip. You ought to wear them. Only cost 15c a pair, 2 pairs for 25c.

PURE CONFECIONERY.

When we say PURE, we mean it. There's not a grain of adulteration in any of our Candies, except in the price, and that's strongly diluted. Think of it! Superior Hand-made Fancy Chocolates 20c to 40c a lb. Fruit Jellies, Cream Lozenges, Old Fashioned Gum Drops, Pearled Caraways and Cakes, 20c a lb.

Our Mail Trade in these departments is very large. Shall we serve you? Write us your needs and we will give you cost by next mail.

He Leaned on His Luck.

"I had a most extraordinary piece of luck 'last Sunday,'" remarked a young broker a day or two ago, "and for it I have been thanking a kind providence ever since. I invited a girl cousin to go down to Long Beach for the afternoon, take supper there and return in the early evening. After we started I discovered that I had somehow brought only $2.50 with me. I had one railroad ticket, but with another required, two suppers, car fares and ferriage, figure as I wanted, I was just about twenty cents short. It was one of those horrible cases of snoring and joking without, and a sort of whited sepulcher within, wondering wildly how to pull through."

"We reached the beach, and I was revolving the plan of throwing myself on the mercy of the clerk and offering a check, when we stopped in our stroll along shore to examine some shells and seaweed, when I found myself lying right at my feet wasn't thirty cents—a quarter and a nickel."

"I stooped down and picked them up in a hurry."

"What have you found?" asked my companion.

"A little silver," I said carelessly.

"Oh, how lovely. How much?"

"Only thirty cents," I said, as though I was disappointed at not finding a bag of it. I wasn't disappointed. Never was so happy in my life. It was just enough to pull me through, and I reached home with ten cents, but I tell you it don't do to lean on your luck like that every day."—New York Tribune.

Lawlessness North and South.

There is a familiar tone in the dispatches which tell of the efforts of White Caps near Bangor to tar and feather somebody. "The sympathy of the people is so strongly with them," the reports say, "that the authorities will make no efforts whatever to prevent the carrying out of their threats."

Such news sometimes comes from the south, and then it is generally seized upon by papers hostile to that sunny section as a text to point the moral that life and property are not safe down there, and that the authorities are in sympathy with the law breakers to such an extent that crime goes unpunished. Up in Maine, a good, respectable New England state, of course it is different. The lawbreakers up there wear white caps, while those down south wear black ones.

Come, now, let's be fair. Shouldn't these little episodes in New England life teach us that human nature is very much the same on both sides of Mason and Dixon's line? Wherefore pluck out the beam that is in the eye of our southern neighbors while we still have quite a sizable mote bothering our own eye?—Boston Globe.

A Wild Cuban.

The most interesting inmate of Bloomingdale Insane asylum, however, is a young Cuban, whose family is an enormous wealthy one in the city of Cardenas, Cuba. He has been in the institution a year, and has improved so much that his family intend to take him home shortly.

He is a medium sized man of 23 years, with soft brown eyes, curly brown hair and a beautifully clear complexion. He does not speak a word of English, but converses fluently in Spanish and French.

When he first entered the place he was wild, and severely thrashed several of the attendants. The minute they turned their eyes away from him he would pounce upon them with the agility and ferocity of a tiger, and punch and kick them until he was overpowered. Now he has the quietest and most gentlemanly manners in the world, and receives all visitors with a courtly hospitality.—New York Journal.

On an Ocean Racer.

An Ohio clergyman thus writes of his experience on one of the ocean racers: "I have made my last trip on a racing steamer. We left thirty minutes ahead of the Tonic, and the speed maintained was terrific. On Saturday night the heat was so oppressive in the cabins that everybody had to go on deck, and it was found that the great speed had overheated the machinery; but there was no check until Sunday, when the passengers became alarmed, and the engines were slowed down to allow the machinery to cool. If the speed had been kept up for a few hours the vessel, with all on board, would have gone to the bottom."

Fighting a Wildcat.

George A. Taylor, an express messenger, had a frightful experience the other night on his run from Kansas City to St. Louis. Among the packages entrusted to his care was a box containing two wildcats. One of them got out of the box and sprang at Taylor. The messenger picked up a piece of tarpaulin, which he held in front of him, and its claws became fastened in the canvas. Taylor kicked the brute loose, but it returned to the attack again and again. At last he threw the canvas around the cat, and thus imprisoned he got hold of a coupling pin and knocked it into insensibility.—Exchange.

Baltimore's Oyster Season.

Blinded His Dignity.

Fountain, of Narford, is a name of worthy associations in the minds of Norfolk men, and one which must be familiar to all readers of Swift's correspondence, but its present holder's latest achievement has certainly not added anything to its luster. Mr. Fountain, of Narford Hall, is a justice of the peace, deputy lieutenant and master of the West Norfolk foxhounds, and he appears to have been under the impression that these accumulated dignities entitled him to the privilege of having an express train stopped whenever he pleased for his special convenience.

The station master at the little station of Eastwinch not seeing things in this light, Mr. Fountain stepped out at once upon the four foot way, and by gesticulating and throwing his arms aloft contrived to stop the train for himself. The driver not unnaturally inferred that something serious was the matter until he pulled up, on which Mr. Fountain coolly climbed into a first class carriage and gave the word to proceed. This curious escapade has imposed on the magistrates of the Swaffham quarter sessions the painful duty of fining a brother justice and deputy lieutenant £25, and binding him over to keep the peace. The punishment cannot be said to err on the side of severity.—London News.

A Game Old Hen.

A game hen died on R. W. Gamble's place at Cuthbert, Ga., a few days ago. This hen had reached the age of 14 years, lacking only a few weeks. She continued to lay eggs until a year before she died. For several months she had been totally blind, but was fed and watered regularly by Miss Mary Gamble. In 1886, when Mr. Gamble moved to Macon, this hen was carried there and brought back when he returned to Cuthbert. In the spring of 1882, when the cyclone struck Mr. Gamble's place and tore things up, this old hen was setting in a box on the kitchen hearth. The kitchen was blown away, the chimney was missing, but the hearth remained, and there sat the old hen in her box, as composed as though nothing had happened.—Chicago Herald.

In an Indian Mound.

Dr. J. F. Snyder, a Virginia, Ills., archaeologist, has just returned home from Schuyler county, Ills., where he opened an Indian mound. The corpse was in the tumulus of a chief. It had been laid with the head to the east. On the forehead of the decayed skeleton was found a crescent shaped ornament of thin, hammered copper. On the breast had been placed a large sheet of mica that no doubt had served as a mirror. On one side of the skull was a small pottery vase of peculiar form. In one hand was a small stone ax, and in the other several arrows and spearheads of flint, a few bone awls and fragments of a large sea shell.—Chicago Herald.

Old Coin Discovered.

A laborer around the grounds of Henry Miller, of Chappaqua, N. Y., is reported to have found a short time ago beneath a large stone a considerable amount of money in gold coin, which evidently was hidden long ago, as many of the coins bear dates over 100 years old. The coin is mostly in British gold sovereigns and half-sovereigns. The value of the find is variously estimated at from $100 to $300.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Neat Kick.

"Isn't ice very high just now, Mrs. Codhooker?" inquired the young gentleman boarder anxiously of the landlady at breakfast.

"I should say it was," she replied.

"My ice bills are so frightful I don't know which way to turn to meet them."

"I was going to say," responded the young gentleman boarder hesitatingly, "that these boiled eggs are so cold they would keep them."—New York Tribune.

Jupiter and Venus.

Jupiter is the evening star, and exceeds in radiant light every other star in the heavens excepting Venus, while he has the advantage of his rival in remaining much longer above the horizon, as well as in shining from the dark background of the midnight sky. Jupiter is not in the most favorable conditions for observation, for he is receding from the earth, and like Venus is low down in the south.—Youth's Companion.

A Vegetable Wonder.

A remarkable vegetable or horticultural curiosity is to be exhibited at the next state fair in California. Several weeks ago a grapevine growing in close proximity to an apple tree was found to have a bloom similar to those on the tree. Finally a handsome apple has developed, which will be exhibited as above mentioned as proof of an abnormal growth, which seems to be natural grafting.—St. Louis Republic.

A veteran athlete, known as "Old Vetter Michael," although past his eightieth year, recently climbed to the top of the spire of the parish church of Saar-Alben, Germany, which is 132 feet high, and stayed there some minutes, turning the weathercock round and round and performing a few gymnastic feats.

Lord Randolph Churchill is a great consumer of cigarettes, smoking almost as many as Henry Labouchere, the editor. Nearly all the men in public life in England, except Mr. Gladstone, use tobacco.

According to the secretary of the National Cranberry association the cranberry crop will be 20 per cent. larger this year than in 1889. The crop last year amounted to 135,000 bushels.

Capt. Tillman, the leader of the farmers' movement in South Carolina, owns 1,800 acres of land, runs twenty plows and has a dairy supplied by forty thoroughbred Jersey cows.

Frederick H. Hassam, the antiquarian of New York, is to make ex-President Cleveland a present of Daniel Webster's rod, reel, wicker flask and fishing hat.

Monstrous Power of Sea Breakers.

From experiments made last month at Bell Rock and Skerryvore lighthouses, on the coast of Scotland, it was found that while the force of the breakers on the side of the German ocean may be taken at about a ton and a half to every square foot of exposed surface, the Atlantic side throws breakers with double that force, or three tons to the square foot; thus a surface of only two square yards sustains a blow from a heavy Atlantic breaker equal to fifty-four tons.

In March of this year a heavy gale blew for three days and nights at Skerryvore, washing out blocks of limestone and granite of three and five tons weight as easily as if they had been empty egg shells, in some cases throwing them entirely over the breakwater at Plymouth. Over 300 tons of such blocks were washed 300 feet up the inclined beach after being thrown over the breakwater and scattered about in various directions.

One block of limestone, estimated to be of fifteen tons weight, was moved over 150 feet from a place in the surf where it had been firmly grounded since 1807, it having first been rolled in sight by the awful gale of the "Windy Christmas" of that year. This is quite a high sea record for 1890, showing that the gale of March 3 was the worst known on the Scottish coast for 193 years.—Chicago Times.

Black Hills Tin Mines.

Joseph Hare, editor of The Tin Miner, of Hill City, S. D., in speaking of the tin mines at that place, says: "Hill City is situated exactly in the center of the tin belt, which is in the shape of a half moon, and is about thirty miles in length and three miles wide. We are twenty-eight miles from Rapid City, the nearest railroad point."

"The richness of these mines is simply wonderful, and one who has not been there can hardly believe it, but I state a fact when I tell you that there is enough tin on the dumps and in sight now to supply the United States for five years. As soon as the big mill is started at Hill City we shall then be able to ship the tin out in bars. Some of these mines have been pushed down 240 feet, and the deeper the richer."

"The vein is eight feet thick and dips toward the east at an angle of about 45 degs. Some of the mines average 27 1/2 per cent. of metallic tin, and the whole ledge averages 10 per cent. The capitalists interested are mostly New York and English men. The larger part of the capital is furnished by New York men."

A Kite Story.

Some fishermen engaged in Belfast lough recently picked up a very large seagull which was seen approaching the boat with wings outspread, floating on the water, but quite dead. The men were puzzled to account for the progress it made through the water, as it went faster than the boat; but as it came near it was found that, wound securely round the body and under the wings, was a string or cordage, which on closer examination they discovered was attached to a large paper kite then flying above them at a considerable height. The kite furnished the propelling power. The bird had evidently, while flying at Belfast, got entangled in the string of a boy's kite, had been unable to extricate itself, and taking to the sea had been drowned in its efforts to obtain freedom.—Exchange.

A New Refuge for Paris.

By the death of M. Pruvot, a landed proprietor, who lived in the Boulevard de Courcelles, and left behind him a fortune of £80,000, the city of Paris has received a legacy of nearly £40,000. The testator left instructions that the chief portion of this amount is to be used for the construction and maintenance of a "Nightingale" for the Homeless and Destitute Poor in the Seventeenth Arrondissement, which includes the districts of the Ternes, the Plaine-Monceau, the Batignolles and the Epinettes. He has also left a considerable sum for benevolent purposes among the young to the town of Solesmes, where he had a residence.—London Telegraph.

Brilliant Venus.

Venus, the fairest of the stars, shines like a young moon on September evenings. She is visible almost as soon as the sun disappears, and may be seen at noonday by observers who know where to look. The time of her visibility is, however, lessened by her southern declination, which shortens her stay above the horizon. She reaches her greatest eastern elongation on the 23d, when she is as far east of the sun as possible, and begins to retrace her steps toward him, becoming larger and brighter as she approaches the earth until Oct. 29, when she reaches her greatest brilliancy.—Youth's Companion.

Money in Grass.

One of the summer industries at Old Orchard beach has been the gathering and the sale of "sweet grass," a kind of green thatch that grows quite plentifully along the sea wall. It has a peculiarly rich odor and a small package in bureau drawers or a close room gives out its fragrance for weeks and months. One little fellow has peddled $35 worth of grass among the hotel guests this season. Parties do a thriving business filling orders for grass from all parts of the country. Sermons in stones, books in running brooks and dollars in everything.—Exchange.

—The members of the Episcopal parish of St. Andrew's at Chestnut Hill were given a most agreeable surprise last Sunday morning at the close of the services by the announcement of a magnificent present from some unknown friend, that of a lot of land, containing 17,000 feet, on Hammond street, as the site for a new church, which the generous donor proposes to erect free of cost to the parish. The new church edifice will be a beautiful and substantial building, and will be known as the Church of the Redeemer. Since the announcement of the gift, the members of the parish have subscribed $2700 for a new rectory building.

—St. Paul's church, of Oak Hill, celebrated its seventy-fifth birthday Monday evening, Sept. 15th. Friends from Boston, Brighton, Cambridge, Dorchester, Dedham, Newton Centre and Oak Hill, were present. The occasion passed off in the most social and friendly manner. Music was furnished by Mrs. Decker's brother-in-law and son, after which the company were ushered to the dining room where they found the table beautifully laden with a variety of delicacies, arranged in the most delicate manner. Divine blessing was invoked by Rev. Lyman E. King. The company then began to lesson the supply, while the voice of merriment rang up and down the table, causing hilarity to pervade the entire company. A little later came a course of ice cream and fruit, after which the company parted with many expressions of having had a good, social time, and leaving behind several useful and beautiful gifts. I would add that Mr. and Mrs. Decker both feel as young as they did several years ago, and think it will do to call themselves ten years younger.

Hovey-Dresser.

The day had been cloudy and rainy and the prospect of a pleasant evening looked all but bright, when just before sunset the clouds broke away, revealing the blue sky, and the departing rays of the sun formed a bright rainbow of promise, which seemed as a good omen for the union in marriage of Professor George Rice Hovey, son of Prof. Alvah Hovey, and Miss Clara Kelsey Dresser, daughter of Mr. Wm. H. Dresser of Institution avenue, which ceremony took place at the Baptist church, Monday evening. There were over 800 invitations sent out, many of them to friends and relatives out of town, and owing to the threatening weather all day many did not come. The church was well filled with guests and the massive bank of potted plants, flowers and ferns, arranged about the altar by Miss Alice Macomber, a cousin of the bride, imparted a new beauty to the artistic church interior. To the beautiful strains of the organ, the bridal procession entered the church, led by the ushers, Messrs. Wm. E. Brewer, Bertram Brewer, Frank Pope, Will May, Arthur Howes, Edward Badger and Appleton Smith, followed by the two little bridesmaids, Miss Ruth Brewer, a sister, and Miss Lucy Gow, a niece of the bride, attended in white and carrying baskets of flowers, the bride robed in white silk, corded, and tulle lace veil, bearing a bouquet of bride roses and maidenhair fern, with stephanotis and maidenhair fern in her hair, following on the arm of her father. They were met at the altar by the best man, Mr. Fred Hovey, and the groom, Mr. George Rice Hovey, a half circle about the bride and groom at the altar. The prayer of invocation was then offered by Rev. Lemuel C. Barnes, which was followed by the marriage ceremony by Prof. Alvah Hovey, father of the groom, in his own impressive manner.

A reception was given at the house of the bride, immediately after the ceremony, to which were invited only relatives and old family friends, of whom there were fifty present. They were received by Mrs. Conant, a grandmother of the bride, 87 years of age, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Brewer and Prof. and Mrs. Alvah Hovey, parents of the bride and groom, standing in an alcove of the room, decked in flowers. A supper was prepared in the dining room for the guests.

NEWTON HIGHLANDS.

—St. Paul's Sunday school resumed its sessions last Sunday.
—Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Strong of Waban have gone to the mountains.
—Mr. H. J. Fewkes of Forest street is very sick with malarial fever.
—We hear of a new social club to be organized at the Highlands.
—Miss Thompson of Atlanta Univ. is visiting her sister, Mrs. Pratt.
—Mr. G. H. Loomer, the dealer in milk, is confined to his bed by illness.
—Mr. Sanford Thompson has gone again, after spending two or three days at home.
—We hear that Madam Manson, who has been quite ill for some weeks, is improving.
—Rev. B. M. Fullerton of Waltham exchanged pulpits with Rev. Mr. Phillips last Sabbath.
—Mrs. C. H. Brown of Walnut street, who has been ill for several weeks, is now improving.
—Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Jones and daughter returned from their trip to the mountains on Saturday.
—Mrs. Hosmer of Lake avenue, who has been quite ill for a few days past, is now much better.
—Rev. N. H. Harriman is conducting evangelistic services in the Baptist church in Brattleboro, Vt.
—Mrs. C. W. Hamilton, who has been so dangerously ill, is recovering. She is under the care of Dr. Wiley.
—Our Methodist friends are already agitating the matter of securing a piece of land for a site for a chapel.
—Mrs. L. K. Brigham's mother, Mrs. Richardson of Upper Falls, who has been ill for a long time, is with her.
—Mr. and Mrs. Skilton, who have been boarding at Mr. Thompson's on Hartford street, have returned to Boston.
—Mr. Mason, of the firm of C. M. Mason & Co., and Mr. Herbert J. Patterson have gone to Maine for a two weeks' outing.
—Mrs. Alice Ware of Boston has rented the house on Forest street belonging to Miss Anthony and lately vacated by Dr. Deane.
—Miss Emma Pike, daughter of Mr. H. A. Pike of Dunstable street, has gone to Hollis, N. H., where she has taken a school.
—Mr. E. Moulton will soon occupy the store in the new block at Waban for the sale of groceries, etc. The post office will be in this store.
—Deacon Whiting has let a portion of the house which was his former residence to Mrs. Holman of Newton Centre, who now occupies the same.
—The Chautauqua Club will hold its next meeting with Mrs. Gould, Elliot street, Upper Falls, if the weather is pleasant, but if otherwise at Mrs. Bacall's.
—Miss Stone, the music teacher, has returned from her summer absence and will resume her place at the organ at the Congregational church next Sunday.
—Ex-Mayor Johnson of Waltham will speak before the Christian Endeavor Society at the Congregational chapel next Tuesday evening. All cordially invited.
—After next Sabbath the Methodist service will be the morning instead of the afternoon. Rev. Mr. Todd, the pastor, is expected, will soon come to reside among us.
—The Rev. M. C. Ayres, who has been for the past two years and a half one of the editors of the Boston Daily Advertiser, is appointed editor in chief to succeed Mr. F. H. Page, resigned.

—St. Paul's church proposes to have a "Harvest Home" festival, Oct. 7th, to consist of a service of thanksgiving in the church, followed by a grand merry-making at a private house.

—St. Paul's parish has begun the publication of The Church Bell, a little paper to be published monthly. Rev. Wm. Hall Williams, pastor, and the subscription price is 50 cents a year.

—An effort is now in progress to have the abutments on the south side of Lincoln street conveyed to the city a narrow strip of land on the frontage of their estates for sidewalk purposes, and have the same connected.

—List of advertised letters: Mrs. R. P. Coombs, John Y. Cooper, Miss Bridget Dempsey, Mrs. Martha Edwards, Jerry Foley, James L. Lincoln, Katie Palmer, Lizzie Rieley, James Rowley, Joe Reeves, Minnie Sloyd.

—G. J. F. Bryant and J. F. Eaton, architects, have designed for Mr. A. F. Hayward a dwelling of ten rooms, exclusive of baths. The exterior will present a mixed yet pleasing aspect, in which a hip and gable roof, after the colonial style, has a place. The house will probably be heated with hot water, and will have other recent improvements in the interior.

—The city has appropriated seventy-five dollars towards the expense of erecting a fountain in the triangle at the junction of Walnut and Forest streets. The Improvement Association, under whose auspices the work will be done, propose to curb a circle, in place of the present triangle, and at a further expense of about two hundred and thirty-five dollars to erect the fountain thereon.

—Mr. and Mrs. George A. Cole, whose marriage took place in July, gave their last wedding reception at their residence on Wednesday evening. A large number were present from the Highlands, Newtonville and Chelsea, who paid their respects to the newly wedded pair, as well as to the generous entertainment provided, and on taking leave wishing the happy pair much happiness in their new relation.

—The choir of St. Paul's church, Mr. Francis A. Skelton, has kindly arranged to spend an hour in the choir room, from 7 to 8 o'clock each Wednesday evening, at which time and place he will instruct young boys who may be willing eventually to sing in the choir. At present the boys are drilled upon the scales, and as they acquire confidence and learn the right use of their voices, they are classed as "spare boys" and allowed to fill the places of absentees. There are now half a dozen boys in training, and some of them show indications of promising voices.

—A very pleasant occasion and one much enjoyed by all present was the surprise given to Rev. and Mrs. Phillips on Friday evening, when on returning from the prayer meeting at the chapel found their house had been entered by a large number of friends, who on the occasion being the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding, in due time they were found standing upon a mat of flowers and Hon. J. F. C. Hyde, for those present, congratulated them on their happy marriage and the pleasant years which he had spent here.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS.

—Mr. Otis Pettee's house is to be lighted by gas.
—The Methodist church is to be lighted by gas.
—Mr. Jas. Brown employed on the Bacon farm is quite ill.
—Mr. P. F. Lilly of the Pettee Machine Works is quite ill.
—The Crandall Paper Mill is running off the stock land.
—Miss Edith C. Newell has returned from Hough's Neck.
—Mr. Simeon Procter and family have moved into their new house.
—Mr. W. H. Hazlett of Cambridge spent Sunday with Mr. W. K. Dunham.
—Mr. James Daley has taken the agency for Mr. John Dolan of Lower Falls.
—Mrs. White of High street, has been taken to the Newton Cottage Hospital.
—Mr. Bart. Ford received a bad sprain of the wrist by falling from a bicycle Saturday.
—Mr. Geo. H. Chambers has added another chair and a new man to his barber shop.
—Mr. J. W. Mitchell has received an invoice of soft coal from the Lehigh valley works.

—Waterpipes have been laid from Oak street to the works to connect with Mr. R. T. Sullivan's new house.

—Miss Mary Bird returned to her duties at Cooper & Dyson's store, Monday, from her vacation at North Scituate.

—Mr. Chas. Miner has recovered from his recent illness and has decided to discontinue his barge trips for good.

—Mr. C. O. Osborn, on consulting Dr. McGowan found his injury to consist of a broken rib. He is getting along nicely.

—Echo Temple of the Patriarchal circle visited the Maiden Temple in a body, Monday evening, and had an enjoyable time.

—Mrs. James Easterbrook died Saturday last, the funeral being held Monday. The remains were taken to the family lot at Needham.

—Mr. Lon. Sherman has purchased an English mare of a Newwood gentleman this week, which cost $1900 when imported to this city.

—Miss Maud Lacey is now recovering slowly from her attack of nervous prostration. Many friends have called upon her during her illness.

—Perseverance Lodge L. O. G. T. attended the funeral of Mrs. May at Hawthorne Lodge, Waltham, Tuesday evening, seventeen going over.

—Mr. M. H. Coffin returned on Saturday from his sporting trip at the headwaters of the Merrimack, enjoying some splendid hunting and fishing.

—The Boston Water Works property seems to be well protected in the vicinity of Cary Cross, at present, as number 30 is seen down that way quite frequently.

—The light corner of High and Summer streets is causing trouble by its irregularity, going out almost every night in one or two hours after the current is turned on.

—The Young Men's Association are arranging for one of their public dances to be given at Prospect Hall the 20th of this month. Knowlton & Allen's orchestra are engaged to furnish music.

—Mr. John Procter opens his new meat market in the new block on Eliot street, on Saturday. His cousin, Frank Procter, has been engaged to help him and in addition to his market he will run a butcher cart.

—The Italians of Waban are arranging for a grand celebration of the Great Holy Day of Italy, which comes next Sunday. There is to be a band of music from Boston, and three balloons are to be sent up.

—Petite Machine Works are to surround their large works with a board fence, which will facilitate in a measure the keeping of each employer's time, and relieve the foremen of the keeping of their accounts in the different rooms.

—Rev. J. Neal of the Appleton Methodist church, Boston, will preach at the Methodist church, next Sunday morning and evening. The special four days meetings just held at this church were interesting and successful.

—Next Sunday Harvest Thanksgiving service will be held at the Methodist church, a sermon appropriate to the day will be given by Rev. Mr. Neal, there will be singing by the children and special music by the choir. On Monday evening following an English Tea and concert will be given similar to that of last year.

—The Young Men's Association have their quarterly election of officers, Sept. 29th. This association was started one year ago by nine young men who wished to provide some place for the young men of the village to more profitably spend their evenings than in loafing about the streets. Their meetings are occupied by readings by different members and the debating of different questions. They meet each Monday evening and at their last meeting a very interesting debate was held on the discussion of the nine hour law. They have now 44 members and are steadily increasing.

—There is a good deal of conjecture as to whether the gas pipes will be run from High street down Winter and along Chestnut street, taking in the stores and Phillips & Train's Silk Mill, who at present manufacture their own gas both for lighting and to run several of their machines. If the N. & W. Gas Co. can be guaranteed a sufficient sum, there is no doubt they will be glad to run their pipes here, and from the talk it would seem at present, probable that the store keepers might take hold of the matter. Now is the time to have the gas if it is needed.

ELIOT.

—Mr. W. H. Jones is building himself a large hen-house.

—A new camp of Italians has been made on the Joseph N. Bacon farm, in the woods, just below the Eliot station.

—Contractor Ford of Dorchester, and employees, who have been building Mr. Herbert Mosely's new house, have suspended work.

—The paperhangers are busy on the interior of Mr. F. W. Johnson's new house, which will be occupied by him as soon as possible thereafter.

—One year ago the coming October, three new houses were started at nearly the same time, near the Eliot station, which was then nearly a third of a mile distant from a house. These houses were not finished until early last spring, and since then or during the past summer, seven new houses have been erected about the station, and still the preparations for further buildings are going on steadily. There has hardly been a more steady and at the same time quiet growth in a place of its size, in the city, of late years.

WABAN.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Barnes have returned from their White Mountain tour.

—Mr. Childs' house on Beacon Hill is rapidly progressing toward an early completion.

—Architect Goodwin is building houses for Mr. Arthur Corner and Mr. Locke, the location of each being on Beacon street.

—Mr. E. Moulton, the well known grocer of Newton Highlands, will soon occupy one of the stores in Mr. E. L. Collins' new block.

—Mr. L. Prang, while at the studio of Mr. K. Harlow a few days since, and his tribute of praise to that other visitors have so freely bestowed upon the scenic beauty of Waban.

—The E. L. Collins Benevolent Society will hold a fair the last week in October. It will be the opening to the public of Mr. E. L. Collins' hall. Due notice of the date will be announced.

—Mr. Louis B. Bagley has moved into Page and Henshaw's Chestnut street house which he will occupy until the completion of the house he is to build on the corner of Chestnut street and Pine Ridge road.

—Although the citizens of this village are duly grateful to the city fathers for the improvements recently begun and partially completed in our streets, they respectfully ask that the work may not be longer left in its present unsatisfactory condition.

Y. M. C. A.

The meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last Sunday, was in charge of Mr. Hiram Leonard. He related a story, which was in reality a Bible story, but placed in another form. His remarks were pointed and instructive. Much interest was manifested and at the close of the meeting, two expressed a desire to be counted with God's children. Next Sunday Mrs. K. L. Stevenson will address the meeting at 4 o'clock. All are invited.

—Mrs. Frederick Jackson and family have returned from Europe, and will visit in Newton a few days before going to St.
Paul, for the winter.
—The cool weather has made a great demand for furnaces to be put in order, and the furnace men could work night and day and not fill their orders.
—The Sewing Circle of Eliot church held its first meeting, this week, and the gentlemen came to tea, after which there was a very pleasant social evening.
—Commodore Cassidy's steamer Watertown made a trial trip down the harbor Thursday with a party of guests and her boilers worked to perfection.
—Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Harwood gave a dinner party at their home, Sunnyside, on Thursday of last week, to their bridesmaids and ushers. Covers were laid for fourteen.
—Miss Louise Fillebrown celebrated her 13th birthday this week, by a very pleasant party to her young friends, at her home corner of Bellevue street and Newtonville avenue.
—A marked improvement is being made on the corner of Park and Vernon streets, the owner, Mr. Smith, having cut away the evergreens, and other trees which interfered with the view.
—Mr. A. V. Garratt of Boston has rented the Clafin house, corner of Copley street and Hunnewell avenue, with a view to buying, and Mr. Benjamin P. Kondrick has moved into the house recently occupied by Mr. C. E. Whitmore.
—There will be a meeting of the executive committee of the Mass. Branch of the Emergency Association, in the parish house of Grace church, on next Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock, to lay out work for the coming winter.
—The friends of the late Miss Hannah Allen intend to place a memorial window in the south wall of Grace church, and it will probably be finished by the 30th of November, the anniversary of the consecration of the church.
—Dr. Woodman of Newtonville hitched his horse in front of the bank, Monday morning, but during his absence an electric car came along and the horse climbed over the stone post, freed itself from the curriage, breaking the harness and the thills.
It was caught immediately afterwards and the carriage taken to the repair shop.
—The first wedding reception of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Harwood was held Tuesday evening, and a very large number of friends attended. Refreshments were served in the dining room, the Misses Lancaster and Miss Welch presiding at the tables. The Misses Potter, Angier and Emery assisted the hostess in receiving.
—The singing of Gounod's "There is a green hill far away" by Mr. Sladin in Grace church Sunday night was one of the most effective pieces of musical elocution and expression ever heard in Newton.
Every word was distinctly heard, and the sentiment of the exquisite hymn was brought home to every heart.
—The Girls' Friendly Society will celebrate its anniversary in Grace church on Sunday night. The singing will be led by the choir of men and boys. Among the selections will be an entirely new anthem by Mr. H. B. Day, the organist, introducing a treble solo. The sermon will be by Dr. Shinn, on "What a girl who lived hundreds of years ago teaches girls who live today in this 19th century." All the seats are free at the night service.
—There have been a great number of complaints in Watertown in regard to the incandescent lights, and at length a public hearing was given. Only three complainants appeared, and they wanted the lights either earlier or kept on later, and agreed that when lighted they were satisfactory.
The most strenuous kickers did not attend, which is generally the case, and the selection concluded that if there had been any real grievance these men would have been present.
—Rev. Dr. Shinn gave his lecture Sunday evening upon the Passion Play at Oberammergau, Bavaria, to an audience that completely filled Grace church. The exhibition he thinks could be given no where else without objection, but in this place and in the religious manner with which these Bavarians observe it, it is worth a journey across the sea. The simplicity and fervor and religious enthusiasm shown holds the immense audience of 4000 and

FALL AND WINTER STYLES

Ladies' Fashionable Cloaks.

We are now opening an elegant assortment of garments which have been selected from the leading European markets or made to order by the best manufacturers of London, Paris and Berlin, as well as a very superior line of Reefers, Jackets, Wraps, Capes, &c., manufactured in our own workrooms for the fall trade.

lecture was most interesting and threw much light upon the character of this play.

A petition has been circulated among the Republican voters of Newton, for the past few days, by Ex-Mayor Ellison, asking for the reappointment of Postmaster Morgan. So far no man who has been asked has refused to sign, and the great majority express themselves glad to sign such a paper, as an endorsement of Postmaster Morgan, who has been the best postmaster Newton ever had, attending strictly to his duties, and securing every convenience possible for the patrons of the office. The list of signers now mount up into the hundreds, and includes many of the leading citizens of Newton.

—Mr. and Mrs. Austin G. Fitch of Watertown, celebrated their golden wedding, Wednesday evening. They have five children, one of whom is Mrs. Geo. C.
Travis of this city. Harold Travis and another grandson acted as ushers, and among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C.
Travis, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Fitch, Miss Mary Fitch, Mr. and Mrs. Foster of Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Cushing, Miss Ethel Cushing, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Leach, West Newton, and many from Watertown and other places. Many handsome presents were received, mostly of gold, including $300 in gold coins. Mr. E. C. Fitch, president of the American Waltham Watch Factory Company and nephew of Mr. A. G. Fitch, sent a solid gold bonbon box containing five $10 gold pieces. There were also among the gifts many pieces of china with brocade gold bands, a solid gold candlestick and engravings and pictures.

—Mr. James A. Blanchard died of pneumonia at the Cottage Hospital Saturday afternoon after a short illness. The deceased was 60 years of age, and had been a resident of Newton for nearly 25 years.
For many years he had held a responsible position in the Boston house of Messrs.
Shepard, Norwell & Co. He went to the front in the late war, was given a captain's commission for gallant services and was at one time stationed at Fort Warren. He was a member of Dalhousie lodge, F. and A. M., and held the office of Marshall in that organization for several years. He was a lover of home, a kind father and husband, and a sympathetic neighbor and friend. The death of his eldest son Sept. 3, and the very serious illness of his wife, proved a severe blow, culminating in his illness and death. A widow and one daughter survive him. The funeral took place from his late residence, 20 Jefferson street, Monday afternoon. The services were attended by the relatives and intimate friends, Rev. G. W. Shinn, D. D., rector of Grace church, officiating. The floral tributes included a beautiful pillow from Dalhousie lodge, F. A. M., an ivy wreath from Mr. J. Johnson and other designs from the family. The pall bearers were Messrs. S. K. Harwood, J. J. Johnson, C.
K. Drury and E. A. Whitney, representing Dalhousie lodge, and a large delegation of that body escorted the remains to the Newton cemetery, where the interment was made. The Masonic commitment service was read at the grave. Mr. John Shepard was among those who attended the services.

NEW CLUB HOUSE.

A START MADE TO ERECT A NEWTON CLUB BUILDING.

A largely attended meeting of the members of the Newton Club was held in the clubhouse, Newtonville, last evening, for the purpose of considering the expediency of erecting a new clubhouse.
Mr. Samuel L. Powers presided, and the chairman of the executive committee, Mr. W. J. Follett, explained three plans which had been suggested for the building now occupied by the club, one to build an addition to the present clubhouse, and another to put up a new building, especially designed for the purpose of a clubhouse. The last plan met with general favor, it being clearly shown by a rising vote that a majority of the members favored the new building project.
It was voted to appoint a committee of five to procure plans and estimates, propose a site for the new house and ascertain what amount can be raised by subscriptions. The appointment of the committee was left to the chairman, Mr. Powers, who has selected the following committee, representing the various sections of the city: Messrs.
John T. Langford, Wm. J. Follett, Dr. Otis E.
Hunt, Edward B. Wilson and Frederick Johnson.

Fall and Winter Cloaks.

Springer Bros. announce that their extensive assortment of Fall and Winter Cloaks in great variety of styles is now ready for inspection. The stock was carefully selected by Mr. M. P. Springer on his recent visit to Europe, and made to his order by the leading manufacturers in Paris, London, and Berlin. They have also a large assortment of their own make, giving customers a great variety to select from, and ladies who desire can have their cloaks made to order, their custom department being so favorably known as to need no special endorsement.

Y. M. C. A.

The meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last Sabbath, was addressed by Mrs. K. L. Stevenson, who spoke from the text, "Show us the Father and it sufficeth us." She showed many reasons why we should accept God as our Father, and then, connected with it, our responsibility in the matter. The audiences are increasing, but we desire larger numbers. Next Sunday Mr. H. J.
Woods will have charge of the meeting.
New and attractive ideas are constantly being introduced into the Bible class.
Thursday evenings, and the leader will gladly welcome all who can attend.

Associated Charities.

Any articles of second-hand clothing for men, women and children of all ages, will be thankfully received and discrinately distributed by the society. Such articles may be left with Mr. Bradshaw at the Charity rooms, over Bradshaw's candy store, Newtonville. There is special and immediate need of all kinds of clothing, for a little girl, five years of age. Also sheets and pillow-cases for destitute sick people, every day dresses, skirts and underwear for a medium sized woman.

A BRIEF MEETING OF THE ALDERMEN.

The board of aldermen held a special meeting last Saturday evening.

The mayor nominated several election officers to complete the list and the same were laid over for confirmation until the next meeting of the board.

Notification of intent to build a wooden dwelling house, 27x40, on Concord street, Ward 4, was received from Mrs. H. Swallow and filed.

A petition from G. W. Bush for permit to erect a carriage house, to be constructed of wood and brick, 37x80, was referred to the license committee.

A petition from Elizabeth M. Bunker for damages on account of a fall on Woodland avenue, was referred to the committee on claims.

A petition from Mrs. Elizabeth T. Eldridge, for a fire alarm signal box on Murray, near Hull street, was referred to the committee on fire department.

A petition from Charles T. Pulsifer, et al., for concrete sidewalks on Clyde street was referred to the committee on highways.

A petition from Michael Taffe, et al., deepening a culvert under Auburndale avenue was referred to the committee on highways.

An order was adopted authorizing the payment of $500.00 to Mrs. Lucy J. Fuller in full compensation for services rendered by her late husband, William E. Fuller, as superintendent of streets.

An order was adopted confirming the sale of notes for $25,000 and for $7,000, the amounts of same to be expended for drains and almshouse; also notes aggregating $33,500, bearing interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum, the principal of which has been applied to the Claffin schoolhouse construction.

An order was adopted appropriating $67,100 for department expenses of October.

Common Council.

A SHORT SESSION AND BUT LITTLE BUSINESS.

The Common Council met at 7.15 Monday evening, with President Hyde in the chair. Other members present were Councilmen Crehore, Luke, Dutch, Mead, Roffe, Richardson, Estabrook, Forknall, Bates and Hall.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Business from the board of aldermen was disposed of in concurrence.

Elizabeth M. Bunker, who sustained a fall on a defective sidewalk on Maple street, Auburndale, and in consequence suffered a severe illness, asked for payment of damages in compensation.

Mrs. E. T. Eldridge and others asked for fire alarm station on Murray street.

Mr. Taffe and others petitioned to have the water on Cranberry meadow, north of Auburndale avenue, lowered, as it was dangerous to health, and the culvert which drained it deepened.

Chas. T. Pulsifer and Mary E. Sacker asked for concrete sidewalks on Clyde street, Ward Two.

Orders were passed approving the sale of two notes to Brewster, Cobb & Estabrook, $25,000 due in 1897, the money from which was used for drains and culverts, and $7,000, due in 1895, for the almshouse. Also a note for $5,000 due in 1892, three for $3,000, due in 1893, '94 and '95, and one for $10,500 due in 1896, the whole, $33,500, to pay for the Claffin school house.

An order was passed for the payment of $500.00, to Lucy J. Fuller, as full compensation for services of her late husband, Wm. E. Fuller, superintendent of streets.

An order was passed appropriating $67,100 for city expenses during October.

Residents on Peabody street asked that the street lamp be replaced on the corner of that street and Washington, as the lamp is too dark to be safe for pedestrians.

Vivian Greenidge asked for gravel sidewalk on Bowdoin street.

A gravel sidewalk was asked for on Chestnut street, from Boylston to Woodward streets.

Councilman Forknall asked what had become of the order referred to the finance committee, for a strike in Nonantum.

Councilman Luke said it had been laid on the table as the committee lacked knowledge of all the circumstances.

Councilman Forknall said he thought it was only respectful to the citizens who had signed the petition, for the committee to make a report of some kind. The only thing the finance committee had to report was whether there was money sufficient on hand to pay for the strike. We are the servants of the people and not their masters, and to delay so long seems unaccountable.

The council then adjourned.

DEATH OF CHARLES H. STUART.

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL SERVICES IN THE CHURCH OF OUR LADY.

Charles H. Stuart died at the residence of his father, 222 Pearl street, last Friday evening, of consumption, after an illness of several months. The deceased was born in Newton and was 27 years of age. He was educated in the Newton schools and was a young man of bright promise, possessing genial manners and excellences of character, which endeared him to a wide circle of friends. He was a member of the firm of Timothy Stuart & Son, contractors. He had been a member of the Montgomery Light Guard Veteran Association and was the former leader and manager of the Newton City Band. For several years, he served as a member of the firm of Timothy Stuart & Son, contractors. He had been a member of the Montgomery Light Guard Veteran Association and was the former leader and manager of the Newton City Band. For several years, he served as a member of the firm of Timothy Stuart & Son, contractors.

The funeral took place from the Church of Our Lady on Washington street, on Monday morning, services having been previously held at the late residence of the deceased. At the church the attendance was very large, the auditorium containing over 1000 persons. The services were Messrs. Myles Joyce and Louis Watson.

A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated, the choir rendering the Gregorian mass. Mrs. P. Harkins, organist. Rev. J. T. Gilfeather officiated as celebrant. Rev. F. Kelleher of St. John's seminary, deacon; Rev. M. Dolan, pastor of the Church of Our Lady, sub-deacon; Rev. Fr. Begley of St. John's seminary, master of ceremonies.

The floral tributes were very beautiful, and included a pillow from the Montgomery Light Guard Veteran Association, a large floral cross from the Newton City Band, a harp, pillow of roses and other designs from relatives and friends.

The interment was made in Calvary cemetery, Waltham. The pall bearers were: Messrs. P. A. Murray, J. M. McArthur, and the four brothers of the deceased, George, Frank, Thomas and Bert Stuart.

SCHOOL BOARD PROCEEDINGS.

MR. DICKINSON'S SUCCESSOR—NEW TEACHERS—SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

The school board held a meeting in the high school building, Newtonville, Wednesday evening. Members present: Messrs. Hyde, Hale, Baker, Putney, Hornbrooke, Lawrence, Travis, Barnard, Drew, Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Davis. Mr. Hyde was elected chairman pro tem. The resignation of Miss Alice W. Small of the Mason school, Miss Harriet J. Brooks of the Hyde school and Miss Swain of the Hamilton school were read and accepted. The following new teachers were appointed:

Myra A. Fletcher, first assistant in Mason school, salary at the maximum rate; Miss Swain, assistant in Barnard school, at a salary of $820 per annum; Miss Blanche Hurd, assistant in Peirce school, salary at rate of $620 per annum; George M. Weed, principal Jackson evening school, salary at the rate of $3 per evening; M. Ethelyn Stearns, Jennie A. Preston and Jeannette A. Grant, assistants in evening school, salary at the rate of $1.50 per evening; Gilbert Wright, principal of the Prospect evening school, salary at the rate of $3 per evening; Miss Georgia L. Norton, assistant drawing teacher, at salary of $2 per evening.

Leave of absence of one year was granted to Miss Lucy Heywood of the Prospect school; of the Hyde school, Miss Mary Tenny; until Oct. 14, 1890, to Miss Jennie E. Ireson, special teacher in calisthenics, now in Europe completing her studies at Stockholm.

MR. DICKINSON'S SUCCESSOR.

Mrs. Martin nominated Mr. Wallace C. Boynton to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of her colleague, Hon. John W. Dickinson.

Mr. Drew asked if Mr. Boynton was the choice of the people of the ward. It would appear, he added, at first sight, that many would desire the election of Rev. Mr. White.

Mrs. Martin—Mr. Boynton's name has been mentioned to me by leading citizens in both precincts. There is not the slightest objection to Mr. White, who, I believe, would make a valued member of the board. His name has not been suggested to me in connection with the vacancy. Mr. Boynton is a teacher in the Boston normal school and a man well up in educational matters. He is a man well adapted for the place.

Mr. Barnard nominated Dr. Baker, whose term in Ward Four expires soon. Dr. Baker declined the nomination.

Owing to increasing duties, he said, he did not see his way clear to take a further term. It gives me pleasure, he added, to second the nomination of Mr. Boynton, who, I believe, is well qualified for the place.

The election of a member to fill the vacancy was proceeded with, the chair appointing Dr. Baker and Mr. Putney a committee to collect, sort and count the ballots.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

The annual report of the superintendent, a lengthy document containing interesting tabular statistics relating to the schools, was read by Secretary Emerson. In it allusion is made to the mid-year promotion plan which is referred to as a success. During the past year 185 mid-year promotions had been made. Out of a class of 13, eleven were admitted in the final examinations for the colleges and institutions without conditions; the number of honors received were five.

The preliminary examinations four received conditions and nine received honors. Mr. Emerson in his report renews his recommendation for the establishing of an English High school on the south side of the city, points out the economic side of the plan and its value in improving the present school system, offering easy High school advantages to pupils in Yards 5 and 6 and preventing the crowding of one school. In conclusion Mr. Emerson expressed his acknowledgments to the members of the board and to the teachers for their earnest cooperation in the school work.

That portion of the report relating to the English High school was referred to a special committee, Messrs. Hornbrooke, Baker and Putney, and the other recommendations referred to the appropriate committees.

Mr. Emerson asked to be relieved of his duties as secretary at the close of the present month.

An order passed appropriating $797.44 for department expenses of the current month.

Next year's appropriation.

Mr. Barnard for the committee on accounts submitted the following estimate of the necessary expenditures for 1891:

Salaries	$104,150
Fuel	8,000
Evening schools	1,000
Incidentals	1,341
New school house	9,500
Total appropriation	$124,000

The report was accepted.

Mr. Drew for the special committee on candidate for a superintendent of schools, reported progress. He said that the committee hoped to be ready with a recommendation at the next meeting of the board.

EARLIER COLLEGE TRAINING.

It was voted on motion of Mr. Hornbrooke to take from the table the order allowing pupils of the eighth grade in grammar schools to take the first year in the five years course in the high school. Mr. Hornbrooke then reiterated his views on the matter, claiming that pupils intended to prepare for the colleges should be allowed to earlier commence the five year or classical course. The whole number who propose to take advantage of the order, said Mr. Hornbrooke, would not exceed 30 and that number can be accommodated in the present high school. It would not be, he added, any detriment to the work of the grammar schools, nor would it in any way conflict with the double promotion plan. In fact, it would make no difference whatever in the general work of the schools. It seems to me that the ninth grade studies are superfluous for the boy who intends to go to college. There is no necessity of such students acquiring a knowledge of single entry book-keeping. It is far more important that they take up the studies that will help them on in the classical course. The boy or girl who takes the five year's course is better prepared to enter college and will graduate, at least, not later than heretofore. I wish therefore to move the passage of the order amended so as to read: That pupils of the eighth grade in grammar schools be allowed to take the first year studies in the five years course in the high school, provided their parents testify to their intention of pursuing the college course, and are willing that their children waive the right to take any other course in the high school.

Mr. Harwood said that he was in favor of an earlier preparation in the languages for those desiring to enter college and suggested a division of the ninth grade. The pupils in the ninth class who desired to go to college could commence their course in the last year in the grammar school, dropping the unnecessary and taking up the studies which they would pursue the first year in the five year's course in the high school. The grammar schools would be elevated by this plan and the same object would be attained.

Mr. Baker spoke at length concerning earlier college training and said the matter of admitting pupils of the eighth grade ought to be acted upon. After some further discussion the amended order offered by Mr. Hornbrooke passed without a dissenting vote.

MASTER MIND NEEDED.

The Adams school difficulty came up again, Mrs. Martin presenting a petition signed by C. F. Avery and 130 others remonstrating to the proposed change, which deprived the pupils of the services of a male teacher. The same arguments in opposition to the change were entered into by Mrs. Martin who spoke at length and strongly urged the necessity of maintaining the school as formerly. It was voted finally to employ the services of a principal or head master at the Adams school as heretofore.

Dr. David E. Baker was elected chairman of the board in place of Mr. Hollis, resigned. Mr. A. L. Harwood was elected secretary, to succeed Mr. Emerson, and Mr. W. C. Boynton was elected a member of the high school committee in place of Hon. J. W. Dickinson. Resolutions were unanimously passed on the retirement of Superintendent Emerson, expressing the board's appreciation of his services.

In Favor of Geo. Fred Williams.

A Newton Democrat sends the following to the Boston Herald: George Fred Williams is the man of the hour for the 9th district of Massachusetts. A man that will stand up in his boots in the interests of the people and show up the methods of a powerful lobby, should receive a strong endorsement of the Democracy. He is a splendid speaker, a tried champion of the interests of the public, honest in politics as well as in private life, fearless even to the verge of threatened loss of friendship, pleasing on the tariff, today he stands as an all-fledged Democrat. He will stump the 9th congressional district on the tariff question as no other man in this district can. He will prove a credit to it. People like courage, they appreciate ability. They admire political consistency, as evinced by George F. Williams. Therefore, I predict success to his party if they will have the wisdom to nominate him.

When a man has been married a couple of years, and has learned how to hold a baby right side up, it is pleasing to observe with what calm dignity and nonchalance he speaks to his friends about "my family physician."

When I Was Sick!
My room looked like a drug store. I had so many bottles in it. The more I dosed, the worse I was. Finally, I paid my doctor and told him he needn't come any more. I was troubled with Chronic Rheumatism, and couldn't get out of bed alone. Six bottles of Sulphur Bitters cured me.—Ben. Fitch, Adams House, Boston.

Bolls, pimples, and skin diseases of all kinds disappear when the blood is purified by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It has no equal as a tonic alternative, the results being immediate and satisfactory. Ask your druggist for it, and take no other.

A Spring Medicine.
The druggists claim that people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick headache, discovered by Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sells at 50 cents a package and is called Lane's Family Medicine.

Why It Is Popular.
Because it has proven its absolute merit over and over again, because it has an unequalled record of cures, because it is of simple and honest nature, and because it combines economy and strength, being the only medicine of which "100 Doses One Dollar" is true—these strong points have made Hoot's Sarsaparilla the most successful medicine of the day.

NEWTON TARIFF REFORM CLUB.

The Tariff is a Humbug.

Every person interested in the subject of the tariff is cordially invited to take part in the discussion carried on in this column. Respectful consideration will be given to inquiries, criticisms and communications of every kind whether coming from Tariff Reformers, Free Traders or High Protectionists. Address Secretary of the Tariff Reform Club, Newton Centre, Mass.

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Newton Tariff Reform Club will be held Monday evening, Oct. 6, at Nickerson's Hall, West Newton. All members, and others interested, should make a point to attend, to help lay out the winter programme. Let us show that we mean what we say.

A Threatened Industry.

(From the Boston Herald.)

The Advertiser is alarmed to the extent of three columns over the action of the Senate in the removal of binding twine from duty. It says this will ruin the cordage industry of Massachusetts. We observe that our contemporary, in asking for aid from congressmen against it, does not appeal specifically to the congressmen who represent Massachusetts. The action of these men toward other interests of the state as affected by the tariff has probably convinced it of the folly of expecting aid from the senators and representatives whom we have sent to Washington, on such grounds.

Tweedledum and Tweedledee.

(From the Boston Post.)

There does appear to be a certain inconsistency in removing all tax from the article with which the farmers of the Northwest bind their wheat, and raising the duty to 103.71 on the article with which the Southern farmers bind their cotton. But in the former case it is the manufacturers of New England who are "crushed," and in the other it is the manufacturers of Pennsylvania who are "protected." If this distinction in the treatment of "Republican States" by a Republican Congress has never before occurred to the twine makers, perhaps this incident may open their eyes. In the view of Mr. Quay, there did this with motives of lofty and unselfish patriotism; that a spirit of generous concession animated them; and that they accepted the ruin of New England iron manufacturers, glass makers and producers of woolen goods with equanimity in view of the greater profits which their fellow-citizens of Pennsylvania and Ohio would secure through our loss. If the gentlemen who now protest against the removal of the duty on binding twine will look at the matter in this light, it ought not to be so hard for them to bear up under their affliction.

A Few Tariff Changes.

In the complication of tariff discussions and the intricacies of tariff legislation, public attention does not seem to have been directed as it should have been to the tremendous increases of duty that will take place in many instances if the proposed bill now before the conference committee is finally adopted.

Take the matter of glasses for spectacles for example. The present duty on these is 45 per cent. ad valorem. The proposed duty is $6 per gross and 35 per cent. ad valorem. Now, this does not seem to amount to much, but then these cheap glasses are chiefly made in France at astonishingly low prices—that is, the wholesale cost there is from $1.10, or $2, to $1.00, or $12, per gross. Now, in consequence of the proposed change, instead of a 45 per cent. ad valorem duty on the cheaper grades, the duty will be 35 per cent., while on the higher grades the duty will be increased from 45 per cent. to 85 per cent.

In the matter of buttons the duty has been also tremendously advanced. The schedule says: Twenty-five per cent. ad valorem on all hard buttons, and four cents per line on all pearl buttons. Now, this seems simple enough, but the effect is to put a duty on common white two-hole pearl buttons of 500 per cent. ad valorem, and on the higher fine white pearl buttons over 200 per cent. ad valorem; while the duty on the superfine white two-hole buttons is but 10 per cent. That is, the higher cost buttons come in very low, while the lower cost buttons have their tax rates put at an absolutely prohibitory figure.

By the proposed bill the plushes used in upholstering the cheaper articles of furniture which are sold to the poorer classes have their rates of duty increased from 50 per cent. to 145 per cent. Imitation fur seal that is used by quite a number of people who cannot afford the expense of a genuine seal skin garment has its duty increased from 50 per cent. ad valorem to 200 per cent. ad valorem, while imitation Astrachan, used as a cheap, but warm winter garment for women, is to have its duty advanced from 75 per cent. to 165 per cent.

Selfish Grabbing.

The selfishness of Tariff Grabbers is well shown on the binding twine question. The Western representatives know very well that there is as much reason for the duty on binding twine as for any other, yet they ruthlessly vote to destroy "protection" in this case for the benefit of their constituents. If all the representatives should in the same way vote for what benefits their constituents we should see quite a different tariff bill.

Tax on Tin.

When it was discovered that the bountiful creator of the universe had deposited borax in the soil of California a duty was put on imported borax, and the consumer was taxed for the benefit of the lucky owners of the borax find. It seems that there are deposits of tin in the Black Hills, and a powerful syndicate has bought up all the tin prospects. Hence the clamor for a high duty on tin, so that all of our people may have a chance to pay for the Almighty's bounty, as they do in the case of copper.

An Honest Opinion.

By Senator Allison in 1870: "I allude to the wool tariff, a law the effect of which has been materially to injure the sheep husbandry of this country. In a single county in the State of Iowa, between 1867 and 1880, the number of sheep was reduced from 22,000 to 18,000 in two years; and what is true of that country is true of other counties in Iowa, and during that time the price of wool has been constantly depreciated.

* * As the law now is, the tariff upon fine wools of a character not produced in this country is 100 per cent in their cost. * * Before the tariff of 1867, our manufacturers of fine goods mixed foreign fine wools with our domestic products, and were thus able to compete successfully with the foreign manufacturers of similar wools. But being prohibited from importing this class of wools, these fine goods cannot now be produced in this country as cheaply as they can be imported. Consequently mills that were formerly engaged in producing these goods have been compelled to abandon business or manufacture the coarser fabrics. If they could afford to manufacture these fine goods, they would make a market, which we do not now have, for our fine wools to be mixed with other fine wools of a different character from abroad. The want of a market as I understand it is the reason why our fine wools now command so low a price."

Death to Shoddy.

There is one industry which would be disturbed by free wool. The Shoddy manufacturers would be obliged to seek some other market. What a pity that would be!

Watertown Hoodlums.

The Watertown Enterprise says that last week Wednesday evening a crowd of about fifteen supposed-to-be-respectable boys, who ought to know better, assaulted and insulted an old gentleman who was quietly walking down Mt. Auburn street. They first began to abuse the aforesaid gentleman when he came to the Episcopal church, and following him down the street with various missiles, one of which finally hit the gentleman in the back, not, however, inflicting serious injury. This action of the boys constituted a legal assault and battery, and the matter has been reported to the school authorities and to the police and will be vigorously pushed, not from any personal feeling in the matter by this gentleman, who is over three-score-and-ten, and has been in the government service over twenty years of his life, but because it is something the public is very much interested in. The aforesaid gentleman is spending the season in Newton and was enjoying a quiet walk through our town when the above lawless action occurred. The authorities should make an example of the leaders in such actions and those who have no respect for any authority should be made to feel that there are some rights which they must respect or suffer the consequences.

Uncle John—"Come, Miranda, it's time you and I were getting Cousin Ethel to the depot."

Miranda—"Why, father, you know it's only ten minutes' ride to the station, and the train doesn't go for two hours yet."

Uncle John—"Yes, I know; but I want to give you two girls time enough to say good bye."

PATRIOTIC ITALIANS.

HOLY DAY OBSERVANCES AND ANIVERSARY EXERCISES AT WABAN.

The Italian camp at Waban, presented an unusual scene Sunday. Its inhabitants were celebrating a holy day in commemoration of the Virgin Mary, and, in a quiet manner, the anniversary of the capture of Rome in 1870 by the national troops.

The rough abodes and simple huts were illuminated with candles and strings of Japanese lanterns were suspended from friendly trees about the camp. Pretty evergreen arches had been erected, and in an open space of the camp a rude triumphal tower was constructed, covered with inscriptions relative to United Italy and its capital, the Eternal City.

In the morning devotional exercises were held, followed by some of the native observances of the day. At noon dinner was partaken of and at its conclusion one of the good looking young fellows in fanciful costumes danced the "Tarantella." During the afternoon there were band selections, but the principal interest centered in the balloon ascension, a feature which possessed a religious and historic significance.

In the evening a concert was given, and the exercises closed with fireworks. The men are distributed in two camps, one at Waban and the other at Newton Lower Falls. They are employed by C. H. Hale, contractor, and are engaged in work of the new reservoir and filter gallery extension.

The Waban camp is picturesquely situated near the Charles river, on land of Mr. Samuel Hano. The exercises during the grade crossings on the line of the Boston and Albany Railroad;—The special commissioners who were appointed to decide on the grade crossing at Brimfield on the road from the Palmer depot to West Warren have rendered their decision, and a decree by Judge Barker has been filed indorsing their finding, which is in accordance with the decision of the county commissioners in this matter. The town of Brimfield must furnish to the Boston and Albany Railroad Company a bank in a convenient location from which material may be taken for the filling called for by the decision. The railroad company must construct the bridge over the road and the approaches, and keep the bridge in repair perpetually. The town must pay road damages. The cost of the application to the town commissioners must be divided equally between the town and the railroad company."

Grade Crossings.

The following from the Springfield Republican is of interest to towns having grade crossings on the line of the Boston and Albany Railroad;—The special commissioners who were appointed to decide on the grade crossing at Brimfield on the road from the Palmer depot to West Warren have rendered their decision, and a decree by Judge Barker has been filed indorsing their finding, which is in accordance with the decision of the county commissioners in this matter. The town of Brimfield must furnish to the Boston and Albany Railroad Company a bank in a convenient location from which material may be taken for the filling called for by the decision. The railroad company must construct the bridge over the road and the approaches, and keep the bridge in repair perpetually. The town must pay road damages. The cost of the application to the town commissioners must be divided equally between the town and the railroad company."

Watertown's Attitude.

[Watertown Enterprise.]

The delegates to the senatorial convention from Newton have united on Mr. Gilman, which ensures their defeat, although they "claim everything." This is very easy to do before the convention. It will be remembered that the Watertown delegates were instructed to present a Watertown man, and it is hardly to be expected that Waltham will unite with Newton in placing a man in the Senate who will do all in his power to further dismember the town of Watertown. Watertown, the old mother town, might well say to her blooming daughter, "Don't you do it, Waltham."

The New Steamer Watertown.

The steamer Watertown, recently launched from Watertown, was inspected on Tuesday by the United States local inspectors of steam vessels, and pronounced perfect in construction and equipment. Instead of carrying coals to Watertown, it seems more than probable that she will make her first trip in the interests of the fruit trade from Port Antonio to Boston.

Since her launching the steamer has been completely fitted out at East Boston, and her accommodations for officers, passengers and men are pronounced greatly ahead of any ocean steamer running out of that port.

Don't say there is an ointment for catarrh, hay fever and cold in head, since thousands testify that Ely's Cream Balm has entirely cured them. It supercedes the dangerous use of liquids and snuffs. It is easily applied into the nostrils and gives relief at once. Price 50c.

Purchasers of kitchen supplies will do well to direct their attention to the interesting announcement which those well-known business people, Messrs. Hollander, Bradshaw & Poleson, make in another column. With no attempt whatever to confuse or bewilder the searcher for truth they simply place before him in a modest, honest, businesslike manner the facts which are selling the various kinds of kitchen furnishings away down below the ordinary prices, and they prove their claim by publishing the prices at which these goods can be bought of them.

They Have Never Failed!

I have been sick more or less for the last ten years, which has cost me many dollars in doctors' and druggists' bills. The last two years it only cost me three dollars. Why? Because I used Sulphur Bitters instead of employing doctors. They cured me of Jaundice.—F. F. Boyd, Hoboken.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this country. It was still there, and it would be now if I had not been so fortunate as to have Dr. Solomon treat it, he did it without any cutting. I would urge those afflicted with cancer not to delay but to go at once and be cured permanently as I have done. My dear Doctor I thank from the bottom of my heart.

Dr. Solomon has cured a cancer on my lip of seventeen years standing, it was cut out twice by what they call eminent surgeons at intervals of six years, after being cut out each time I only cost me the feeling it was still there, and it would be now if I had not been so fortunate as to have Dr. Solomon treat it, he did it without any cutting. —The people on the north side of the railroad are much elated over their victory in again securing a head master for the Adams School, and their joy would be complete if Mr. Spinnay could be returned to his former place.

—Mr. Joseph Byers is grading and finishing off his lot on the corner of Lowell and Foster streets, as he does not intend building this fall; the foundations are well under way for the fine house to be built on the opposite corner of Foster street.

—Lewis Watson is the possessor of a handsome watch, awarded to him as the most popular member of the Catholic Literary Society of this city. The several societies united in the purchase of the time piece and settled the future ownership by a good natured voting contest. The presentation to the lucky man was made recently in Cycle Hall.

—Master James Wetherell gave a party to his little friends in Tremont Hall on Saturday afternoon, and the children had a very jolly time. Games and refreshments appealed to the athletic and artistic tastes of the little ones, and they declared it a great success, and would like to go to another one day like it.

—The Belmont Bulletin says: "Mrs. Vesta Gardner Hall of Newtonville, a former teacher in the Waverley school for many years, has become a very fine crayon artist, and nearly one hundred of her crayon portraits are to be seen in Newton and vicinity. Several people in town who have patronized Mrs. Hall are much pleased with her work, and wish her continued success in her profession."

—The visitation of black birds to Lowell street early on Tuesday morning was an overpowering surprise. The traditional "four and twenty blackbirds in a pie" were as nothing. There were hundreds, and they perched on the eaves and swarmed upon the lawns in surprising fashion, keeping up an incessant chatter all the while, and after quite a halt and rest they flew off to the eastward to add still further to their grand numbers before the final southern migration.

—Mr. Peter S. White and Miss Fannie M. Blane were married by Rev. Fr. Dolan on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, at the Church of Our Lady, where after the brief marriage ceremony, high mass was celebrated. The bride wore a daintily fitting white dress on train, and the usual veil and flowers. They dined at Newton Centre and returned to their home, where a reception was held in the evening. The good wishes of friends attend their matrimonial venture.

—The committee meeting relative to the Universalist fair work, held in the ladies' parlor on Saturday evening, was a fully representative one, and plans were still further matured, and reports of excellent progress in work made. Mr. Albert Metcalf, president, and Mr. Henry F. Ross, Mr. B. S. Grant, Mr. F. M. Whipple and a large corps of ladies took active interest in the completion of plans. The committee will meet again Monday evening, October 13th, at 7.30, at same place.

—Miss Carrie Jordan has a fine plant, and as is her kindly custom annually, informal invitations were given to friends to witness the flowering of it on Monday evening. A pleasant group met there to view the plant, which was in full bloom, and to inhale its wonderful fragrance, knowing that in another hour for another long year its loveliness would be hidden and only the rough exterior of coarse and clumsy leaves be visible, reminding one of some lives that only occasionally disclose their inner beauty.

—The first of a series of "Short Talks on Practical Topics" was held in the Universalist parlors on Sunday evening. There was an exceptionally large number present, and all were invited to join in the discussion on "Home Life" as if they were at a social gathering in the pastor's home. Many pleasing and pathetic allusions were made to early home influences, and the all round training of a child in its mental, moral, physical and spiritual sides discussed, and the best methods of making the life symmetrical and beautiful. The subject for next Sunday evening will be "Amusements." The service begins at 7.35 p.m. and all are welcome.

—Now that one may go by the electric railway to the opening path which leads up Prospect Hill, many are attracted to this place, which commands such a grand outlook with so little fatigue. Arlington Heights, the shining dome of the State House, the sails in the harbor, Cambridge, the Newtons, Mt. Wachusett and lower hills range; many a quiet farmhouse nestling cozily with artful fields about it, and sheltering trees; many a tempting roadway winding on through pleasant ways; over all a fair sky with soft clouds and an gentle breeze to refresh one. All this in an easy walk with pretty glimpses along the way ere the fine view at the top is spread before one. No wonder many find their way hither already and more will follow.

—Right Excellent High Priest William T. H. and suite installed the following officers of Newton Royal Arch Chapter, F. & A. M., in Masonic Hall, Tuesday evening: Henry A. Thorndike, high priest; George Brecken, excellent king; A. L. Harwood, scribe; G. D. Gilman, chaplain; E. J. Hyde, captain of the host; James Pickens, squire; Charles F. Mason, royal arch captain; John Glover, master; John W. S. Eaton, master second; H. E. Boothby, master third; John Beal, senior steward; T. F. Nickerson, junior steward; Alexander Chisholm, tyler; George C. Brown, organist. After the installation ceremony a collation was served in the banquet hall.

—Messrs. E. A. Hutchinson and F. Ellis Harwood gave a unique art exhibition at the residence of Mr. D. B. Needham, Clifton street, Tuesday evening. Invitations were sent out to their friends, and between the hours of 7.45 and 10 o'clock a large number of young people derived sincere pleasure and amusement in viewing the collection of real curios and artistic productions. A neatly printed catalogue gave a complete list of the attractions and will serve as a pretty souvenir of the occasion. An oil landscape, "Big Brook," by Mr. Hutchinson, and executed in a very fine and fine piece of work by the same gentleman was that of the head of a child—"Innocence"—oil colors on porcelain. A crayon by Mr. Harwood was a faithful representation of the same sister, Miss Edith M. Harwood, and a pen and ink sketch, "Nell at Sea," by the same gentleman, was greatly admired.

—The executive committee of the Newton Club is making arrangements for the winter program which will include athletic sports and other amusements. Tournaments in bowling, billiards, pool and whist will be inaugurated immediately after the closing of the list of entries. The entrance fee will be added to the appropriation made by the club for suitable and appropriate prizes. The bowling will be conducted in teams of five, and to insure the most equitable fairness, the teams will be equalized as far as is possible. In this contest, three prizes will be given, and each member of the three winning teams will receive a prize. The contestants making the highest average during the contest will receive the emblem of the club championship. In billiards and pool each contestant will play with every other, and prizes will be awarded to the players scoring the highest number of games. These will be handicapped games. In the whist tournament, entries will be made in pairs, and each contestant will select his partner. The count will be by the English method of play, the pair having the highest score to be awarded the prize. The entry lists in the various contests close Oct. 15.

WEST NEWTON.

—Capt. J. Q. Bird has been appointed as agent of the New York Mutual Life Insurance Company.

—Sixteen dog cases came up in court to-morrow and the skirmisher is happy in the prospect of the enjoyment of his fees.

—Officer Tappin found a lady's gold watch, and a ring, which proved to be the property of Mrs. H. K. Burrison.

—Samuel Barnard has negotiated a lease of Mr. Levi Cooley's house on Chestnut st. to Mr. F. H. Sleeper for a term of years.

—Capt. S. E. Howard lectured in the Congregational chapel last Sunday evening in the interests of the American Missionary Board.

—Mr. Robert Bennett joined the New England Railroad agents excursion on Saturday, which took in the Wells and Lake Winnebago.

—Chief Holmes of the Medford police, visited the central station last Saturday afternoon, and made a short call on his brother, Patrolman E. C. Holmes.

—Rev. Mr. Ryder made a most interesting address last Sunday at the Congregational church, in presenting the work among the Freedmen of the South.

—Miss Louise E. Trowbridge, daughter of Mr. J. Elliot Trowbridge, organist at the Congregational church, will give instruction in the piano-forte. See card in another column.

—Mr. Porter B. Chase sailed from Queenstown, last Sunday, on the Servia in company with Bracey Curtis his traveling companion, through England, Scotland and Ireland.

—Next week is missionary week and will be observed on Friday and Sunday evenings at the Congregational church, on the latter of which Rev. Mr. Windsor from India will make an address.

—The auction sale of building lots at Woodland tomorrow, ought to interest West Newton people, as they are within ten minutes walk of West Newton depot, in a very desirable location.

—The pastor will preach next Sunday morning at the Congregational church upon the occasion of the 30th anniversary. In the evening there will be an anniversary praise service in the church.

—Officer Ryan arrested Michael J. Hart on Tuesday on a warrant charging him with the illegal sale of intoxicating liquor in this city. Hart was driven out of the rum business here and has been driving a wagon recently for a Waltham liquor dealer. In court Wednesday he was arraigned, found guilty, fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 4 months in the house of correction.

—Thompson's four-horse express wagon came uncomfortably near dissolution Saturday evening. The driver, William Inuit, left the team near the watering trough while doing an errand in one of the stores. The horses started on a brisk run and there would have been a collision with the electric car but for the prompt action of Officer Tappin, who first turned the horses aside and then stopped them.

—J. Wiley Edmund Camp 100 S. of V. met at their hall Monday evening. The residents of the 1st Lieutenant, Geo. H. Shattuck, and 1st Sergeant J. Louis Sears, were to take effect at the close of this meeting and the attendance was considerably augmented by these farwell and good wishes for the future in their new home, Dayton, Ohio, where they soon expect to engage in business. Nominations were made for 1st Lieut. which were voted upon at the next meeting and Herbert L. Wood was appointed 1st Sergeant in place of J. Louis Sears.

—Mrs. Jennie E. Everett was set upon by two young men in Washington park last Sunday evening, and robbed of her pocketbook containing about $7. One of the miscreants held her while the other secured her purse. She had just returned from Boston, reaching Newtonville on the 12.22 train and was probably followed from the depot. Mrs. Everett was badly frightened and was unable to give any description of the highway robbers. The police were notified of the affair, which created quite a sensation, owing to the boldness and hardness of the theft.

—The Chinese laundrymen have been more or less persecuted by an element in the community who look upon the Chinamen as the most inefficient and mindless business sort of chap, as an infliction and disgrace to American institutions. Laboring under this erroneous idea, the boys and young fellows of the class named deride a considerable pleasure in worrying the almost credulous heroes of the wash tub. Michael O'Neill threw a rock into the shop of a Chinaman in the old Fiske block, Thursday, and was promptly rebuffed by Officer Tappin. In court this morning Michael paid for his fun by settling a fine of $5 and costs, amounting to $7.16.

—The Boston Herald says of Rev. Francis Tiffany's biography, "Dorothea L. Dix. We have in this book a production which must prove satisfactory to the friends of Miss Dix. This is not the first requisite in this case. She died at an advanced age, and her immediate circle are living. This record of her busy years is not written primarily to please her associates; they are not existing. But it is an agreeable fact to see that the estimates and analysis herein contained must, in the nature of things, be acceptable to any one who shared the inner mind of the often misunderstood woman. This is incidental. The chief aim was truthfully and impartially to present Mr. Tiffany, to those who know him best, is considered as exceptionally equipped for the work of interpreting character and motives, of giving details into the region of the principles of clothing, of the features with genuine expression, and the salient feature of his scholarly career has been this robust, artistic sense of proportion, significance and fulness. His mind is not only a thing adequate from him, in this instance; there is no disappointment.

—Miss Clotilde C. Ober, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis P. Ober, and Mr. Chas. B. McCormick of Boston were married Tuesday morning in the home of Mr. Ober. The wedding was private, the invitations being sent only to relatives and intimate friends. The bride party entered the church at 9 o'clock, the bride leaning upon the arm of her father, Mr. Louis P. Ober, attended by her best man, Mr. Charles Carroll of Boston. Miss Grace McCormick, a sister of the groom, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were four little sisters of the bride and groom, the four little brothers of the bride, in black velvet suits, acting as pages. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Lawrence J. O'Toole, pastor of St. Bernard's church. The bride was attired in a mousseline de soie, en train, wore the usual tulle veil with diamond ornaments, and carried a prayer-book. The maid of honor wore pink silk, with lace over dress, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaids were attired in pink silk costumes, and carried baskets of flowers. The sanctuary was filled with potted plants, and the flowers arranged in vases. On either side of the main altar, banks of palms and tropical plants were placed. The marble columns were entwined with asparagus vines, and the ceiling was decorated with garlands of flowers. After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at Islington, the home of the bride's parents. At its conclusion, Mr. and Mrs. McCormick departed for the White Mountains. They will reside at 22 Highland avenue, Dorchester, in a beautiful new house, built by the groom, and elegantly furnished by the bride's father.

—A wonderful bargain in a Bookcase is offered by Paine's Furniture Co., 48 Canal street, Boston. The price is only $10, and the Bookcase is a wide shelf, carrying 170 to 200 volumes, with brass rod and brass polished rings for curtain front. Above the Bookcase is a charming cabinet with side openings, and a broad top with a gallery for the sides. It is really a $20 Bookcase for $10.

—Window Gardening—To be successful in window gardening, order prepared potting soil of H. A. Mansfield, 50 cents per bushel. Box 111, Newtonville, 15.

AUBURDALE.

—Mr. H. A. Priest is driving a fine looking span of gray horses.

—Clarence B. Mather is confined at his home by a serious illness.

—Mr. Latimer of Hawthorne street, is in Providence, R. I., teaching.

—Mr. Wm. Bishop, Weston, will go to St. John's N. B. on a vacation trip.

—Mr. Clarence Ashendon shot a duck down the river Wednesday morning.

—The boats at the Newton Boat House have been well patronized this week.

—It is gratifying to know that Mrs. E. B. Haskell is recovering from her recent illness.

—Mr. George Vickers of Cincinnati, Ohio, a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. E. Vickers is visiting them.

—Mr. E. Burbank has moved into the home on Maple street, formerly occupied by Mr. Thorpe.

—On Wednesday twenty-five Lasell girls took boats at Robertson's and enjoyed the afternoon on the river.

—Mr. Wm. Tudor, the artist, has left his Weston residence, and will spend winter quarters at his Boston home.

—Prof. H. L. Rich of Lasell was one of the ushers at the DeWolfe-Smith wedding at Charlestown, Wednesday evening.

—Canoeing and boating has been unusually good for Robertson this week, being almost equal to the best June weeks.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Miller are at the White Mountains for three or four weeks. Frank T. Miller has returned from Cottage City.

—Mr. Chas. Tinkham and family will attend the Brockton and Taunton fair, driving over the road with a fine span of horses.

—Mr. Frank Kelly, hack driver for Mr. Tinkham, was called to his home in Taunton Monday, by the serious illness of his mother.

—Mr. Geo. E. Johnson purchased a fine pair of horses for his express business, this week, at Mr. Charles Hale's auction sale, Waban.

—Mr. George R. Coffin and family of Centre street, have returned from their summer residence at the Sunset Hill House, Sugar Hill, N. H.

—Mr. Elliot W. Keyes and Mr. Geo. E. Keyes of Johnson & Keyes express, are enjoying the beautiful scenery at the White Mountains, this week.

—Mr. George Lawson has had his steam launch put in this week for the first time this summer, and the first trip Wednesday evening was very satisfactory.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. B. French and Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Cotton have left Anderson's boarding house, and returned to the Waverley House, Charlestown, for the winter.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. Vickers returned Tuesday from their two weeks stay at Rangeley Lakes. The first week the weather was unpleasant, but last week fine weather was fully enjoyed.

—Master William Hall had a birthday party on Monday evening, his fifteenth birthday, in which some twenty of his young companions aided him, the evening proving very pleasant to all.

—The list of unclaimed letters remaining in the post office is as follows: Mrs. B. A. Allen, Mrs. Mary Foran, Rev. A. M. Lord, James L. Maguire, Mr. Angus McNeill, John O'Martin, Miss Fannie Walsh, F. M. Young.

—Mr. Edward Angel was taken with a sudden severe illness the first of the week, and on Tuesday the doctors were doubtful of his recovery, but he is now improving, though slowly, and it is hoped he will completely recover. Drs. Porter and Thayer attended him.

—Mr. H. W. Robinson and family intend driving over the road to Brockton, next week to attend the fair. Mr. Robinson intends making a considerable addition to his residence, Lexington street, soon, and will eventually become a permanent resident of this place.

—As Miss Bailey of this city was going through the passage way to the tunnel, Auburn street side, she was run into by a bicycle and received severe sprains to her hand, arm and shoulder. Dr. Clarke attended her. This is a case which deserves censure, as the iron fence is supposed to be a safeguard to pedestrians.

—A promenade concert is to be given at their house by the Newton Boat Club, tomorrow evening, this being the first of their entertainments for the season. The second one will be given next week Saturday and will be an English Tea, prepared by the young ladies. The hall will be prettily decorated for the occasion.

—One of the men at work on the staging at the hose house precipitated to the ground by the breaking of one of the brackets, landed on his feet, and fell over on his back. A board from the staging followed him, striking on end, near enough to the man to pinch his arm. If it had fallen on his arm would doubtless have crippled him for life.

—There is nothing would beautify that part of the village so much as to have the corner of land from the hose house to the corner of Melrose street, made into a park. It is lying now but a rubbish hole and is steadily growing worse, as the time is beginning to make it obnoxious to the public. Auburdaire has no public park and here is a chance for one.

—Lasell Seminary opens with a larger school than ever before, even Principal Bragdon's house during his tour of the world. As many pupils have been refused for lack of room as are accepted. Mr. W. T. Shepherd has brought back his school party from the vacation in Europe. Professors J. H. Hills and J. Walter Davis are also at home from abroad, and Dr. Jane Hoyt, the new resident physician.

—The Woodland Park Hotel arrivals for the week are: Mrs. William B. Taylor, Toledo; Wadsworth Harris, New York; Chester Guild, Jr., Newton; James Hawley Burtenshaw, Mrs. G. A. W. Holman, Detroit; Henry J. Lord, Mrs. M. M. Bond, Geo. F. Brown, Jr., Wm. H. Locke, R. H. Dwight, Edward A. Newell, Chas. V. Carroll, Chas. B. McCormick, Boston.

—Miss Margaret Blanch Best, of Mendon, Pa., to whom was awarded the Sargent prize for physical symmetry, says she was not a competitor in the sense of working for the honor. She thinks her natural form was aided and developed by a careful course of physical culture. When at Lasell she gave no promise of becoming famous in this way, as her form was quite slight, but continuous practice intelligently directed, no doubt, was responsible for the result. Her age is 25 years. While at Lasell she began the study of elocution and physical culture, in both of which branches she evinced great ability and advanced rapidly. In 1877, she taught both of these branches at a New-England school at Waltham, Mass., and later pursued the same studies in Boston and New York, since which time she has had charge of these branches at Allegheny College, Penn.

—Lasell Notes. Sept. 18 with a larger number of pupils than ever before. The ability to do this results from the use of Principal Bragdon's plan, as an annex during his tour around the world. He will start Monday, Sept. 23, and will be accompanied by Mrs. Bragdon and their two children, and a party of friends and patrons of the school.

—Mr. Wm. T. Shepherd returned Saturday the 14th, with his school party, from a very successful vacation trip through southern Europe. Prof. J. A. Hills and J. Walter Davis had a delightful summer abroad, and were devoted to a musical quest. The new resident physician, Dr. Jane Hoyt, has also recently come from European travel and study.

—Sometime during the latter part of October, Mrs. Jenness Miller is to deliver an address at the school. An opportunity will be allowed for ladies outside of the school to attend.

—Miss Mary E. Tappan, late of Gannett Institute, takes charge of the English department this year. As many pupils have been refused for lack of room, she has been accepted. Miss C. J. Chamberlain takes charge in Mr. Bragdon's absence.

—Among the choice curios brought home by Mr. Wm. T. Shepherd, is a very fine large illuminated, choral of the time of Saronarola, and also from his city, Florence.

Mr. Slocum Declines.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:

Dear Sir:—The article in your esteemed paper of the 11th week suggesting my name as a candidate for representative to the next legislature from our city was unknown to me until after its publication. I appreciate the kind words and very pleasant expressions of friends urging me to stand for that office.

In my judgment it is the bounden duty of a legislator, and especially of one representing such a constituency as the City of Newton to give his whole time and best energies to the State.

With this view of the obligations that would be placed upon me, if elected, as representative to General Court, from the City of Newton, I cannot consistently stand for the office at the present time as my business will not permit me to give the time and attention to its duties that a conscientious discharge of them would require.

Believe me that I take a deep interest in all legislation that may affect the interests of our City or Commonwealth, and that I am not insensible to the terms in which your paper and many personal friends have mentioned my name as a candidate for the office.

Very sincerely yours,
WM. F. SLOCUM.

Newton Union Y. P. S. C. E.

The next public meeting of the Union will be held in the Congregational church, Auburdaire, on Monday evening Oct. 6. Commencing at 7.30 sharp. Subject, "For-Elch Mission." A praise service of twenty minutes at the opening. The speakers of the evening will be the Misses Margaret and Mary Leitch, Missionaries from Calcutta.

The story of their labors is intensely interesting and never fails to create a great enthusiasm. Be sure you hear them.

Through a Glass Darkly.

Of life that dawned to childhood's ravished view,
All fresh, all glorious as the summer morn,
All unsuspected, spotless, real, and true;
Best type of Heaven, to of woman's form;
Ah! whither down, it yet thy spirit be?
Shall aught yet gladden human hearts like those?
Sweet realm—sweet haunt of youth and early days.
Sweet scene of all, to heart and memory dear,
And all that first inspired to wisdom's ways;
Where dreary Death to Heaven itself drew near;
Shall aught in nature, or the world to come,
Restore thy bliss, O! sacred childhood's home?
Dear ties of parent, brother, sister, friend;
Dear love, as proved in sorrow, wait, and pain,
No more to be, 'till life and time shall end,
Will highest Heaven your joys renew again?
Will endless measures at the great white throne
Bring back the joy of loved ones lost and gone?
Thou perfect world which Earth to childhood seems.
The fancy pictures to the infant view,
Ye charms of nature, and of youthful dreams,
Shall we behold you in the Earth made new?
Shall scenes which purest bliss, on Earth, be new.
Inspire no more, when tears have ceased to flow?
O! ye who claim to love creation's Lord,
How can ye pass unheeded, how ignore
His handiwork in nature's realm abroad?
His plainest footprints on the mortal shore?
What that all ear can hear, or eye can see,
Proves ever Him, and only Him, to be?
The Lord who gave, and taketh yet away,
Can He the ties of holiest love despoil?
With greater gifts will He at length repay?
Else why recall the good we highest prize?
That mortals aught of Heaven should taste be low?
Doth He approve, or made He man, for woe?
GRANVILLE P. WILSON,

THE CUP OF THE GODS.

(Springfield Republican.)

"Please buy this, sir?"
It was in vain I tried to push him one side; the ragged little Egyptian urchin was determined as an American newsboy. So I said roughly: "No, I've got enough of those traps."
"But this is genuine, sir."
"So are they all."
"Please, sir, just this."
That same expression has caused a man many a time to buy a paper when he had a handful, or get his shoes polished when they already shone like the proverbial heel of the African. I dropped a few coins to the boy and put the bit of virtu in my grip-sack.

Such was the incident as put into plain English. The mere method of transaction is about the same the world over, but in this case it was accomplished through the medium of that jargon which half amuses and half startles the stranger in the streets of Cairo, and seems to be the essence of Babel's confusion preserved, grown rich with age, and handed down to this century. There are as many scholastic "roots" in it as there are herb roots in a New England garden. The boy, who has a distinct distinction of having been collected from all the races that ever flourished along the Mediterranean, while each one is the base of many a snag for the unwary foreigner.

However, I could by this time understand enough of it to know when a beggar wanted to pronounce a blessing upon me, or a vender desired that I lighten his load and swell his purse. As in most cases the purses of these vendors were already somewhat more distended than my own, I came to regret the lingual accomplishment that had made me an object of envy to vendors.

But my long abode in the country had also given me a degree of wisdom which might much the more have excited their envy. It was during the period when there was so much excitement over the removing of the mummies from the plains of the dead, and the city was run with Egyptians, young and old, who wanted to sell relics from the chambers of the late lamented kings and their ancestors, from the time of the Ptolemies down. These relics they had stolen—somewhat as certain of the moderns, the scientists, had taken sundry of the embalmed dead. And when their stock in trade was exhausted they were in no degree embarrassed, inasmuch as they could easily replenish it from their own kitchens, where was the accumulated debris of almost as many centuries. After buying a few of these choice specimens and learning that their history dated back not much further than a decade or two, or peradventure a month or two, I had acquired that wisdom to which I refer.

But even wisdom may not stand before pity. The joy that lighted up the face of my little merchant in this instance was alone enough to repay me for my expenditure. The urchin of stories are always ragged and dirty but this one was particularly so. And I concluded, as I saw him eyeing a fruit stall near by, that he possessed also the essential attribute of hunger. Yet for some reason he was loath to part with his recent gains even to quiet man's worst tormentor.

My dormant curiosity being thus slightly disturbed, I bought some of the fruit and giving it to the boy, asked him where he lived. For a moment the question staggered him. Then, recovering himself, he stammered out the name of a very retired quarter of the city.
"Where do your parents live?"
"I haven't any."
"Who takes care of you?"
"Me."
"What are you going to do with your money?"
"Take it to my grandfather."

Then he had not sprung from the soil in the streets, so much of which he had lately appropriated as fruit, but he had a male ancestor and that ancestor lived in the "home." With plenty of leisure on my hands, I decided to visit the old gentleman, the grandson's permission and guidance being obtained after a little diplomacy.

"Home" is an elastic word; it is made to cover the marble palace and the back room of a tenement house; the cabin of a mud-scow and the hole of a Digger Indian. In this case it dignified a hovel not far removed from the meanest burrow. From the introductory dialogue between the aged trader and the recent offshoot of the family tree, I concluded that this was not the only place that the boy honored with such a name; indeed that he had many branch houses scattered about among the wharves and packing boxes of the city. But it was the only place where he had an ancestor.

While the dutiful son was turning over his collection of coins—of which my few formed the major part—I had an opportunity to scrutinize the face of my elderly host who on his part appeared quite indifferent to my presence. He looked as colorless as the room about him, and his stomach must have borne as strong a resemblance to the room in the degree of its chronic emptiness.
What few rays of light tumbled into the trap through a hole in the wall fell directly across a low desk on which rested an age-blackened book. In the dark corners a few more volumes could be discerned, like great piers for the cobwebs that swung across that end of the habitation.

The coin counted, I became of enough importance to the old man to cause him to raise his filmy eyes, almost hidden under brows like a Scotch terrier's. The moment he addressed me I noticed that his language was better than that in ordinary use, in truth rather too classic for my limited vocabulary. I found no trouble, however, in understanding his welcome to his house. Cautious about my mind for an excuse, my presence,
I told him that I wanted to learn where I could purchase the best mummy relics.
"Ah," he said, "I wish I had them all"—in tones that seemed to come from the depths of a heart very low down.

This result of my accidental excuse, more apparent in the manner than in the words, was somewhat of a surprise. I pushed the subject farther.
"Young man," said he, "for years I have searched among these relics; my whole fortune as well as my strength has gone into them, but all in vain. They tell me they are just beginning to find them. Ah, I found them years ago, and many is the hidden chamber of the dead
I have clambered through. This sounds strange to you? No doubt. Listen. My life is near its end. I have heard of you before. My boy says you are good to our people. I feel that I may impart my secret to you."

"You see these books? They are the records of the glories of my ancestors.
They were greater than kings, for kings were dependent upon them. Farther back than any record extends, one of these ancestors, in return for some service rendered from the gods, was given an earthen cup. In his hands it was only necessary for him to fill it with water, drink and he should be endowed with the strength and wisdom of many men.

In battle, the side which he favored should win. At his death the cup passed on to the next in descent. The first written records I have of power are when its owner with Xerxes brought about the great victory at Salamis. The books from that time on are filled with the wonderful feats the possessors of this cup accomplished. Occasionally it was wrested from them by tyrants, only however, to be returned when it was found that it had no power save in the hands of those in lineal descent from the first owner. Not a small part of the glory of Alexander is due to the espousal of his cause by one of these ancestors.
See, here it is; the deeds of a warrior filled two volumes. He was exalted to the highest place in the royal household, while his accumulated wealth of generations was second to none in the world. I can never tire of reading the astonishing works of these men, of the nations they subjugated, the fleets and armies they defeated, and the great cities they built. When I am dead these volumes shall go to the one who shall find the cup and give it to my grandson, on condition these books be preserved.

"In this last volume is recorded the cause of all my misery—the loss of the cup. In the third century of the Christian era, its possessor conceived the idea of acquiring control of all Ethiopia after having married an Egyptian princess.
He forthwith left his wife and children to set out for the scene of conquest.
Now it so happened that his eldest son became enamored of a beautiful woman of an ambitious family, and in an unhappy hour he listened to her advice to slay his father and become master of the base design, went forth herself to overtake her husband, and reached him the same hour with the son, who protested that he had merely come to aid his father. The old man, sore distressed, took time to weigh the matter, and at night, while he slept, the perfidious son stole in and killed him. The wife, however, had possessed herself of the cup, and resolving that the son should not attain the great object, called upon the soldiers, who drove the murderer from the camp.
Then she brought back the body and had it interred in some secret place, and the cup with it, where the unworthy son might never find it. Her secret died with her but a few days later.

"The succeeding generations gave themselves up to the enjoyment of the vast wealth that had been realized. Before my day that wealth nearly all was consumed; the influence was entirely of the past. I resolved in my early youth to devote my life to the finding of the hiding place of the cup, and as I said,
I wasted my whole fortune in the search.
I am convinced that it is not in this land.

"Yet I hope that after my death the search will be prosecuted and that this ragged boy here may yet become the power behind the greatest throne in the world. The full description of the cup is given in this first volume. It is large enough to hold but a draught; it is made of clay with bulging sides and a mouth piece representing a lion's lower jaw; around the rim are rough engravings of birds and below them various thin symbols to betoken wealth and power."
My attention had become very much fixed as I listened to this description.
With nervous fingers I opened my bag and took from it the relic I had bought from his grandson. My hand trembled violently; I hardly could command my tongue.

"Is this it, sir?" I gasped as I held it out.
"One of the traders gave it to me," shouted the boy, as though in terror of being brought to punishment.
The old man leaned far over the table.
He shaded his eyes with his palsied hand.
He looked at the cup as a tigress would fix her prey. Then with a cry like a madman's he shouted, "It is! It is!" and grasped for it.

The perspiration, almost the blood, came out on my forehead as I beheld his face. Half benumbed I thrust the cup toward him. Between the excitement of us both, he struck it half way.

The little piece of ware fell to the stone floor and was shattered into fragments.

CALIFORNIA CORRESPONDENCE.

ADMISSION DAY, 1890-1890.

OAKLAND, Sept., 1890.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC.
It has been said that "some histories commence after the old Spanish fashion, beginning with the creation of the world and ending with the glories of Spain." But the California is in too much haste to speak of his own state to begin his history or correspondence with the beginning of the world. He is more apt to commence, continue and end in describing the glories of the Golden State.

State pride has certainly been a very prominent feature of California life during the past week, and the state's fortieth birthday has been celebrated in a right royal manner. This state has ever been dear to the heart of the California pioneer, but as these now gray-haired men are fast dropping into their graves, the "Native Sons" have come forward to testify their appreciation of the unfinished work of their fathers, and are ready to pledge fidelity and loyalty to the state and to the union.

These native sons have many "parlors," (about 150 if rightly informed) in the state, and upon the 9th of September the sons and remaining pioneers succeeded in getting up the greatest celebration ever held on the Pacific coast.
Hundreds of people came from Oregon, Nevada and Arizona, and thousands from all portions of California flocked into hotels, boarding houses, restaurants, etc.
The city was lavishly decorated for the occasion, and flags, bannets, and streamers were everywhere. House-fronts were in many cases covered with the red, white and blue, arches were decorated and small flags were hung upon the roofs of houses, and across all the prominent streets, appearing, as one looked up the long street, as though San Francisco had just hung up all of its colored washing to dry in the wind. The enthusiasm of the town was great and contagious, and the welcome free and hearty.

I found them very agreeable, and the celebration commenced on Saturday, the 6th, with an evening procession.
On Sabbath, admission day services were held in various churches, and at least two pastors took for their text, the prosperity of the Israelites forty years after their exodus from Egypt; comparing California's present condition with the years after coming into the union to the land of Palestine which over-flowed with milk and honey.

Sacred music was played by various bands in Union Park, and in Golden Gate Park bands played music—not so sacred as the music of the 30,000 people who visited the latter park during this Sabbath day.

Yacht racing and rowing on the bay was the program for Monday, while at night the "Native Daughters" of California gave tableaux in the crowded pavilion. One tableau represented "The Halt Emigrants," showing an emigrant train of 1849 stopping on the plains for the night, and at length there was a night attack by Indians. There were also gold mining scenes in which the "Finding of the Nugget" was prominent.

Another tableau represented the arrival of the ship "Oregon," which, after 18 months of good sailing, was admitted, Oct. 18th, to this isolated coast that California as a free state was admitted into the union. This tableau dissolved into scenes of great rejoicing upon receipt of the news. A grand orchestra rendered selections, and the music between the tableau, and soliloquies were given by the "Native Daughters" in a commendable manner.

But Tuesday, being the 9th, was the great day of the week. A grand procession was to parade the streets and held in the Grand Opera House closing the evening with a grand ball. The procession numbered 16,000 people, and it was estimated that nearly half a million of spectators viewed the procession. The people lined the streets, locked from all the windows, roofs and telegraph poles.
The streets were crowded with people as fast as they could be made. The procession was three hours in passing a given point, and some of the people were too faint and tired to stand such a length of time. Stands had been erected upon the street corners and seats were sold on the sidewalks for $1.50 to $2.00 each.
The procession was a most interesting one, and a record of sales abroad. It was the only preparation that had ever attained such popularity in so short a time,
and retained its popularity
and confidence among all classes
of people so steadfastly.

Do not be induced to buy other preparations,
but be sure to get the Peculiar Medicine.

and it is said that it was quite ludicrous to see the old man walking about the boat imploring everyone to give him back his teeth, but the poor man had not recovered them when the boat reached shore.

PACIFIC COAST.

The Chestnut Hill Church.

The lot given to the parish of St. Andrew's at Chestnut Hill is on Hammond street, next east of the residence of Mr.
Goddard. The land and church will cost over $10,000, and it is hoped to occupy it next Easter Sunday. A rectory is also to be built at once, to cost about $8,000, nearly half of which is already subscribed. In appealing for further subscriptions the committee give this expression:
"In considering a gift, generous and valuable indeed in its money value, yet of far greater value in all that it means to the lives of the church, we will share its benefits. The society desires, in a spirit of emulation of the generosity of the donor, to say emphatically that the gift is accepted for the benefit of all the people of Chestnut Hill. It has been a fact interwoven in the history of every town hamlet in this land of ours, and one that appeals to the sense of every good citizen, the community with a church spire in its landscape is a much better place to live in than one that lacks it—a little safer for the children, an incentive to neighborly kindness, a solace and a comfort in times of sickness and trouble.
We recognize the fact that at present
we are the only church at Chestnut Hill, and it is with the broadest view of our responsibility and neighborly duty that we say that it will be our aim and purpose to make the church—just emerging into a newer and fuller life under the new management—into a church that shall be acceptable to all who will worship with us, and a free church from the start."
The parish will adopt the name,
"Church of the Redeemer."

Peculiar

Many peculiar points make Hood's Sas-saparilla superior to all other medicines.
Peculiar in combination, proportion,
and preparation. Its ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom. Peculiar in its strength and economy—Hood's Sas-saparilla is the only medicine of "One Hundred Doses" One Dollar. Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's.
Peculiar in its medicinal merits,
Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered."
Peculiar in its "goodname" at home—there is now more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in this country than in all other countries. It is made than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phrenomenal record of sales abroad. It has never attained such popularity in so short a time,
and retained its popularity
and confidence among all classes
of people so steadfastly.

Do not be induced to buy other preparations,
but be sure to get the Peculiar Medicine.

Rheumatism.

BEING due to the presence of uric acid in the blood, is most effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's and not other, and take it till the poisonous acid is thoroughly expelled from the system. We challenge attention to this testimony:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months, and am pleased to state that it has effected a complete cure. I have since had no return of the disease."—Mrs. B. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th st., New York.

"One year ago I was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."—Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H.

Sleeping with Baby.

The free from care and ease-taking old bachelor who, in his momentary lapse of wisdom, contemplates matrimony, should at the same time reflect on the remote but contingent possibility of his having to sometime sleep with a baby should he marry. Years of experience of matrimony of this kind make me feel it to be my duty to set forth the misery arising from a contingency of this kind.

The baby, if he happens to be a lusty, little fellow of eight or ten months, will decline to stay covered, and will also decline to allow you to keep yourself covered. He indicates his wishes in this direction by keeping his little, pink heels going all night, a good part of the time on your back.

He will also insist lying "crosswise," "endwise," "cat-a-cornered," "bias," or in any other position but that which will give you a few inches of room in the bed and a few minutes' sleep. His infantile needs will begin to manifest themselves at about 1 o'clock in the morning, at which watching hour you'll go blundering around in the dark for a drink of water.

He will howl steadily and cheerfully from 2 to 3 o'clock, and will kick you furiously between the shoulder blades with every howl. It will not be of any use for you to pat him tenderly and sing out "There, there." He is right there and knows it, and intends that you shall know it.

It is of no use to say coaxingly, "What does papa's baby want?" Papa's baby doesn't want anything but to howl, and he is gratifying that amiable desire to the utmost.

It is of no use to add to your judgment-day list of enormities by sweating. And if your wife has been calmly passive through it all, she will develop an amazing degree of spirit if you dare lay the weight of your finger in anger on that "poor, dear, innocent, darling sweet-ness."

He will squirm all night as though he were first cousin to an angle worm. He will journey around all over the bed, both under and top of the coverings. You are no sooner asleep than one of his moist little heels is planted firmly in your nose or in your mouth, and, later on, with childlike scorn of decency and decorum, he will sit astride your neck, and grow green and purple with rage when gently made to sit elsewhere.

Should he fall out of bed and yell loud enough to be heard all over your ward, your wife will say she firmly believes that you pushed him out at that time, and it will fit to be a father anyhow. An animated dialogue of a purely personal and private nature will follow this remark.

But when the roystering little chap finally "suggles up" to you and goes to sleep with one of his velvet little cheeks close to your own, and one of his warm, soft arms around your neck, you find your heart growing very soft and tender toward him, and you would single-handed wage war against a host or lay down your life for love of him.—Z. D., in Detroit Free Press.

One morning some of the early risers made a discovery on the beach. There had been a heavy sea and a strong tide during the night, and on the hard, wet sand lay a corpse. It was that of a man, clothed in a bathing suit. He lay face downward, one leg drawn up, and his head was covered with seaweed.

News of the ghastly discovery spread quickly, and in half an hour there were five hundred of us around the body. No one had been drowned off our beach, but he might have come from above or below. After a little time a man was found willing to do the "bussing," and he sent a man after the coroner. He was about to send another after a doctor, when a very practical gentleman from Pittsburg wanted to know if a man who had been dead two or three days could receive any substantial benefits from the visit of a doctor. Then it was concluded not to disturb the doctor, but a very practical woman from Syracuse came forward and demanded to know:

"Are you fellows going to roll him on a barrel or no?"

There was a move made to get a barrel, but again it was concluded that it would be only a waste of time.

"Why don't somebody rub him," asked one.

"Send for the life-guard," added another.

"Someone go for camphor," put in a third.

Nobody moved, of course. The only thing to be done was to wait for the coroner, who lived about two miles away. Meanwhile it was in order to wonder who he was, how it happened, and all that. Many of the women shed tears, and a man from Canada started to pass around the hat. We had been surrounding the body for three-quarters of an hour, and some one had just remarked that the coroner would soon be there, when the dead man suddenly straightened out his leg and sat up. Then he pulled the seaweed off his head, threw up his arms and indulged in a yawn, and started off up the beach with the remark:

"Mighty queer that a fellow can't take a sun-bath without everybody making such a fuss about it."

Wasted Eloquence.

(From the Pittsburg Dispatch.)

"Matilda," the young man said nervously, "what I am going to say may surprise you. But my feelings are leading me on. Encouraged by your kindness, intoxicated by your beauty and rendered desperate by the conviction that the hours are fleeing away, and that the future can hold nothing for me worse than the suspense under which I now labor, I have resolved to risk my fate on the cast of the die."

He loosened his collar, coughed and went ahead.

"Other young men, Matilda, mere butterflies of fashion, may dance attendance upon you and flatter you. Listen not to them! Listen to the voice of sincere devotion! Other young men, talented, nay, perchance, young men possessed of wealth in abundance, may seek your hand. I am not talented, Matilda, I am not handsome. I have not those delicate little arts that win the affections of women. I am not rich."

"No, Mr. Dennis," said the young beauty, with a yawn, and rising to her feet, "and I regret to say, also, that you are not in it."

Mr. Dennis withdrew from the competition at once. He was clearly outclassed.

"Finally, I prevailed on my wife to use Mellin's Food, which she did; today our baby is one of the alicest and healthiest in our city. Mellin's Food is the best we have ever used, and I have ever sold." J. W. H., Newton, Kan.

The dinner supplied to her household last Sunday by a Lexington avenue landlady was soup and watermelon, and after the meal was over the boarders sat on the front steps and wondered why they had teeth.—New York Tribune.

Buying Christmas Presents.

"I've been about among the summer shops all the morning," said one lady to another on the piazza of a Saratoga hotel recently, "and I have picked up quite an accumulation of Christmas gifts. I always buy them at this time," she went on, "and put them away until just before the holidays, when I sort them out. In that way I avoid any rush and fatigue at the last moment." Three or four of her companions agreed with her, but one, a vivacious young woman, dissented emphatically.

"I call that dreadful," she announced. "Fancy selecting Christmas presents in cold blood as it were. I could never do it. I should be guided by economy and prudence, I know, and pull my purse strings together. I never buy a single present till the genuine Christmas fever is on me; till the shops are gay with pretty things and crowded with shoppers. Then I join the throng and share the infatuation. I rush right and left all day long and am in an agony of suspense and indecision; what I want finally comes to me by inspiration, and then it is such a satisfaction to have settled upon it."

"Why, half the joy of the season would be lost to me without that delightful rush and bustle and worry. It seems to me almost sacrilegious to take Christmas time by the forelock. I positively could not do it." All of which goes to show how complex and intricate a thing is a woman's method of reasoning.—New York Times.

New York's Flower Market.

New York is soon to have what almost every European city has—a market for cut flowers that ladies may visit without seeing or meeting with anything that is disagreeable. The idea of having a general flower market at Union square has by no means been abandoned, still the project is at a stand still for the present, and no active steps will be taken in the matter for some months yet. In the meantime the Market Florists' association of New York is making arrangements for a temporary market for cut flowers, which will be situated near Union square, and which will be opened early in September.

Hitherto the market for cut flowers has been situated at the foot of Thirty-fourth street, East river. No woman would care to visit the neighborhood, and it was unattractive in every sense. In Paris it is quite the proper thing to form parties to visit the flower market in the early morning.

For obvious reasons parties of that kind are not formed in New York. The regular flower market at the foot of Canal street and North river and the cut flower market at Thirty-fourth street are not attractive early in the morning or late at night. The beauty of the flowers is more than offset by the lack of beauty in their surroundings.—New York Mail and Express.

Some Old Erie Engineers.

There are seventeen members of the Port Jervis Lodge of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers who have been employed on the Erie railroad for periods of from twenty-five to thirty-five consecutive years, the average term of service being within a fraction of thirty years. The oldest in continuous service are H. L. Carrough and S. A. Ronk, both of whom began running on the road Jan. 1, 1855.

The oldest in actual length of service is Benjamin Hoffman, who entered the employ of the company as an engineer in 1848, but was off the road from 1854 to 1858. Mr. Hoffman is still doing duty at 70 years of age, and in the thirty-eighth year of his work on the road as engineer of the train between Port Jervis and Otisville.

The seventeen veterans referred to in the order of seniority of continuous service are H. L. Carrough, S. A. Ronk, Charles Frayer, Albert Johnson, David Henderson, William Dooley, Benjamin Hoffman, Edward Kent, G. H. Cooper, Samuel S. Walker, David Wilson, J. H. Cookson, A. H. Goodale, E. H. Cox, A. P. Brady, G. H. Johnson and John Ackerman.—Middletown (N. Y.) Cor. New York Times.

The Wonderful Congo River.

For our knowledge of the dimensions and navigable lengths of the Congo, the largest, and, next to the Nile, the longest African river, the world is indebted almost entirely to Mr. Stanley, its discoverer, and the founder of the great Free State within its basin. According to Mr. Stanley the Congo is more than 3,000 miles long, and in size and volume the second river of the world, the first being presumably the Amazon. Like the Nile, the Congo has one stretch of uninterrupted navigation, 1,000 miles long between Stanley Pool and Stanley Falls.

Unfortunately for commerce, however, this magnificent stretch of water is separated from the sea by a series of insurmountable cataracts that compel a portage of 235 miles, or two portages of 83 and 50 miles and many transfers. The largest of all African rivers, and probably the most valuable from a commercial point of view, more promptly and more emphatically than any of the others forbids the upward progress of the steamer.—Thomas Stevens in Scribner's.

A Gorgeous Mausoleum.

After five years' litigation, during which time the interest on the large sum bequeathed has accumulated, the American courts have decided that the gorgeous mausoleum on the hill overlooking Spa, in memory of an American lady whose maiden name was Sarah Strother, is to be built. The edifice in question will be an exact replica of the chapel of the Knights of St. John at Rome, and the interior will be composed entirely of white Sicilian marble and mosaics. The bodies of the Strothers will lie under three tombs in a crypt; the garden surrounding the church is over four acres in extent; a spacious house is to be erected for the "perpetual guardian," the English chaplain for the time being, and the whole is to cost nearly $40,000. The rest of the Baroness Fahnberg's enormous fortune is to be devoted to the construction of almshouses in Kentucky.—London World.

His Arm Torn Off.

An employe in a Cincinnati brewery met with a frightful accident a few days ago. An endless belt, in which are large hooks for holding the beer kegs, runs up and down through the hatchway. He was working on the first floor, and there being no lights burning he walked into the shaft. He fell about seven feet, and his arm catching on one of the hooks the member was torn open from the shoulder to the wrist, and he held there for fifteen minutes before his fellow workmen succeeded in releasing him. He received a terrible shock, but it is thought that only for catching on the hook he would have been dashed to death on the cellar floor eighteen feet below.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Daring Photographer.

A daring feat in photography was performed last week by George H. Bailey, of Boston. He succeeded in getting a fine negative of a blast of a ledge near Savin Hill, one of the largest on record, in which 250 pounds of dynamite were used. He did it at the risk of being crushed by some huge rock, and moved himself and camera out of the way just as a boulder several tons in weight was about to land dangerously near him. The picture was taken just as the dust and stones had reached their highest elevation, and is as interesting as it is rare.—Boston Letter.

Manuscript Kept Ten Years.

Ten years ago the late H. W. Richardson, of The Portland Advertiser, wrote an article on "The Metric System" for Harper's Magazine. It is printed this month. This is a neighborly illustration of the enormous pressure on the pages of our great periodicals, and the small chance of an author's getting into them unless he has first made a great reputation. Harper's would not wait ten years to publish an article by Tolstoy or Stockton.—Lewiston Journal.

In a New York Boarding House.

The dinner supplied to her household last Sunday by a Lexington avenue landlady was soup and watermelon, and after the meal was over the boarders sat on the front steps and wondered why they had teeth.—New York Tribune.
